Harry Stone Declares He's the Only Boxer Who Can Bring the World's Lightweight Title Back to America.

WHEN Harry Stone paraded the brightly lighted thoroughfares of Harlem last night looking up old acquaintances he looked like a human torch. He displays enough flashy gems to stock the average jewelry shop. But this was not all that Harry brought back to New York after a sojourn of nearly two years in the antipodes, France and England.

STONE started away from New York March 6, 1912. When he climbed aboard a slow train headed for the coast, he was possessed of a small grip, transportation to Australia, $26 in cash and a deck of cards. The latter got him into a heap of trouble during the long sea voyage from the coast to Australia.

STONE's next engagement was against Johnny Summers. The betting was 10 to 1 against him and they were wagering even money that Stone could not last five rounds. Stone, however, was sanguine that he had Summers' number, and the money he gathered in the bout with Keyes he wagered on his chances against Summers. Stone won easily, and this gave him quite a bank roll.

STONE established in Australia Stone had no trouble getting fights. He was in nine battles in Australia and three in England. He was never beaten. In London he battled a draw with Jere Delaney. He was proclaimed the welterweight champion of the world and brought back with him a diamond belt emblematic of the title. Here is how he came into the title. Hay Bronson came to Australia as the welterweight champion. Wells beat him for the title and then Stone whipped Wells in a championship battle. In most of his engagements in the old world he was giving away weight. Stone says he can make 133 pounds flimsy, and will keep after Welsh and Ritchie.

Joe Marrone, owner of Gallop, was the most disgusted man on the track when 4 to 5 was quoted against his colt. Joe thought the price should have been much better.

P. J. Miles, owner of King Box, figured he had Gallop a beat and told Marrone so. "I am a steady leveller," said Miles, "but I don't know how my horse will like the going. His sire, Bca, was a good mudder and might have been a great horse if he hadn't been such a wild, unruly animal. It's the writer title. I will be on hand when Ritchie gets back. If he refuses to accept my challenge I will claim the American title and demand a match with Welsh. I'll box him in England or anywhere else he wants.

AUSTRALIA is the only sporting country, says Stone. "An American boxer who behaves himself will always get a square deal and a chance to make lots of money. I am going back again, but don't know just when."

Stone made a circuit of the world on his return trip, visiting China, Japan, Egypt, Palestine and several other countries before he reached England.

OH WELL! MAYBE I CAN DO SOMETHING TO HIM WITH THIS OLD BAT!

Westerners Having Things Their Own Way at Empire

They Successfully Put Over Three Out of Four Good Things.

By Vincent Treanor. THE Western contingent of horsemen racing at Yonkers are having things pretty nearly their own way during these closing days at the Empire City Track. They put over three yesterday with King Fox, Vandergrift and Loveland. Their only failure of the day was with E. Schmidt's Strong, who was literally backed off the board at the last minute, only to meet with all kinds of interference and finish outside the money. Three out of four ought to satisfy anybody for one day.

The surest of the good things was Vandergrift. With Punch Bowl scratched, Johnny Shorr thought his Ben Brush three-year-old was "in." He had been waiting a long time for just such a track. As good as 5 to 1 at one time, Vandergrift was played down to 3 to 5 before post time. All McCabe was to wait until the speedy Othello would quit, as he always does. This happened just before the stretch was reached, and Vandergrift just rolled.

Loveland did not stumble going round the first turn yesterday, as she did last time. Instead, Neylon beat the barrier by at least three lengths with her and putting up one of his good rides raced Heartbeat into submission early to win with something to spare.

Joe Marrone, owner of Gallop, was the most disgusted man on the track when 4 to 5 was quoted against his colt. Joe thought the price should have been much better.

James Butler will not have a starter in the historic Futurity, to be run at Saratoga Springs on Aug. 29. This fact became known yesterday, when the Coney Island Jockey Club announced a list of fifty-seven colts and fillies eligible for the rich prize. With ten starters the race will be worth $20,000, by far the richest Futurity race in Eastern tracks this year, but Pebbles, Comely and Marlon H., among others of the Butler string, will not do battle for the little fortune.

COMISKEY PLANS BASEBALL TOUR OF SOUTH AMERICA.

CHICAGO, July 29.—A tour of South America this winter by the Chicago American League baseball team is contemplated by Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the club. It was made known today. Comiskey probably will try to arrange for the White Sox to be accompanied by the New York Nationals. It was said, although Comiskey would not state whether he and John McGraw, manager of the Giants, had discussed the matter.

"I don't care whether the trip would pay or not," Comiskey said. "I want to show baseball to all the people of the earth. After South America it should be Africa and then we will have shown the sport to every one."

By VIC Ball Players Pick Burns As Best of Outfielders In the National League

His Unassuming Manner Has Undoubtedly Kept Giants' Star from Proper Recognition with Fans, Yet Such Judges as Matty, Meyers and Managers Clarke and McGraw Regard Him as Major Leagues' Most Valuable Outer Gardener.

By Bozeman Bulger. WE are all familiar with the greatness of Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Milan of the American League, but if you were asked to-day the name of the greatest outfielder in the National League what would be the answer? Don't answer quickly or the chances are a great ball player will be done an injustice.

Ritchie Gets $29,500 Check On His Arrival To-Day

Stakeholder Gibson Holds His Share of Recent Fight With Welsh.

By John Pollock. WILLIE RITCHIE, the American lightweight champion, will arrive here to-day on the steamship Vaterland. Willie, no doubt, will complain about the decision which Referee Eugene Corri rendered against him in his world's championship fight with Freddie Welsh in London on July 7, and it is certain that he will openly declare his willingness to meet Welsh in a rematch in California at the latter's convenience for a side bet of $5,000. Ritchie will receive many offers for fights in this country, as all the big fight promoters are anxious to have him appear in bouts at their clubs.

Joe Janette will be a busy fighter next month, as he has been signed up for three battles. His first will be with Black Bill at the Irving A. C. of Brooklyn on Saturday night, his second with Battling Jim Johnson at the Stadium A. C. on Aug. 5, and his third with Bill Tate at the Rockaway Beach A. C. on Aug. 11.

Patsey Kline, the Newark featherweight, and George Chaney, the crack light fighter of Baltimore, were matched to-day to meet in a fifteen-round bout before the American A. C. of Baltimore in two weeks. Kline is to receive a guarantee of $500.
