SHE WILL GET $8,330.

Jury Favors Mrs. Edgecombe in the Eckford Webb Estate Suit.

Decides that the Old Shipbuilder Didn't Pay for Services.

His Ex-Housekeeper Brought Suit for $18,000 Wages.

The jury in the suit of Mrs. Elizabeth Edgecombe against the estate of Eckford Webb, to recover $18,000 for services rendered to the millionaire ship builder as housekeeper, from 1880 to 1889, which has been on trial before Justice Bartlett, in Supreme Court, Brooklyn, brought in a verdict this morning for Mrs. Edgecombe for the sum of $8,330.

The jury retired at 3.40 yesterday afternoon. They did not reach an agreement until after 10 o'clock last night. Then they sealed up their verdict and went home. The jury was in court to-day when the verdict was opened. Mrs. Edgecombe was absent.

The jury had these questions of fact submitted to them:

1. Was it agreed on or about Feb. 1, 1881, between the plaintiff and Eckford Webb that she would render services to him until his decease as housekeeper, and as compensation for such services that he would in and by his will give her a life estate in No. 78 Rush street, in Brooklyn, $5,000 in cash and $3,000 in railroad bonds?

To this the jury answered yes.

2. Did Eckford Webb dismiss the plaintiff because she had informed him that Daniel W. Edgecombe had proposed marriage to her?

Answer—Yes.

3. Did the marriage of the plaintiff to Daniel W. Edgecombe make it practically impossible for her to continue to perform such services as she had agreed to perform as housekeeper for Eckford Webb?

Answer—No.

4. Did the plaintiff voluntarily leave and abandon the services of Eckford Webb upon entering into the marriage engagement?

Answer—No.

5. Has the plaintiff been paid for such services as she rendered to Eckford Webb?

Answer—No.

6. What was the fair and reasonable value per month for such service as the plaintiff rendered to Eckford Webb?

Answer—$85 per month.

As soon as the verdict had been rendered the lawyer for the defense asked for a new trial. The motion was denied.

MRS. WATKINS MUST ANSWER

Summoned to Explain to Health Commissioner Emery.

Mrs. Jemima Watkins, of 815 Bergen street, Brooklyn, who advertised that she had four babies for adoption, and offered to let an "Evening World" reporter have one on payment of $5, as told in yesterday's edition, was to-day summoned by Health Commissioner Emery to appear at the office of the Department to-morrow morning and show cause why her license should not be revoked.

Officer Frank Folk, of the Children's Society, called at the woman's house some time ago, and she made practically the same proposition to him, he alleges, that she made to the reporter. She told Folk that the $5 was to reimburse her for the expenses of advertising and incidentals.

Folk has secured from the Myrtle Avenue Police Court a summons from Justice Haggerty requiring her to appear in court on Monday morning, when she will be required to explain why she has not registered with the Board of Health the record of children born in her house.

Mrs. Cronin Says Her Husband and His Cousin Abused Her.

Michael J. Cronin, aged twenty-eight, a stenographer for Lawyer Englehardt, of 291 Broadway, and his cousin, Teddy Cronin, were each sent to jail for five days by Justice Walsh, in Brooklyn, today, on charges of intoxication, and wer held for examination on May 17 on charges of assault.

Michael Cronin was married on Nov. 29, 1893, to a daughter of Contractor John Walsh. They lived at 23 Tiffany place, an apartment-house, in which Mrs. Cronin's parents live. She charges her husband with having neglected her, and last night, she asserts, he and his cousin Teddy went home drunk, and the latter hit her on the nose, and her husband knocked her down. Her screams aroused her parents, and the two men were arrested.

Mrs. Weber told Justice Watson that Mrs. Rosenschlatter patrols the hall at night, armed with a big knife, and at frequent intervals asks Mrs. Weber to come out and be killed. Mrs. Weber is afraid Mrs. Rosenschlatter will carry out her threats.

PROPERTY-OWNERS PROTEST

Object to the Brighton Beach Railroad Franchise.

Property-owners on Franklin avenue between Park place and Fulton street, Brooklyn, waited on Mayor Schieren this morning to protest against the granting of a franchise to the Brighton Beach Railroad Company to connect with the Kings County "L" road at Franklin avenue and Fulton street.

The Company has been granted the right by the Aldermen to elevate their tracks from Park place and run on an incline to the "L" road.

The property-owners requested the Mayor, if he signed the resolution, to compel the Company to deposit $250,000, instead of $50,000, to cover the damage to adjoining property.

Mr. Allen was formerly Secretary to ex-Mayor Seth Low, and has also been engaged as expert by the Aldermanic Committee investigating the affairs of the Excise Department.

Lawyer Elliott said this morning that the work on Gravesend will begin at once.

MALCOLM W. FORD TESTIFIES

Tells How Brothers and Sisters Broke Their Promises.

After His Mother's Death They Would Not Share with Him.

Champion Amateur Athlete Malcolm W. Ford's suit to compel his brothers, Worthington and Paul Ford, and his four sisters, to fulfil their promises and give him a seventh of the estate of his father, Gordon L. Ford, the publisher, came up for trial before Justice Gaynor in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, this morning. O. J. Wells represented the plaintiff and F. A. Wood and ex-Judge Reynolds appeared for the defendants.

Malcolm was the first witness called this morning. In telling his story he said, in substance:

"I now live at Babylon, L. I. Before my father died I went back to live at his house in Clark street. I was taken ill with typhoid fever. While I was sick my father watched over me. I saw more of him than any one except the nurses and my mother. He was taken sick and died before I recovered.

"A day or two after my father's death I saw my brothers Paul and Worthington.

"Paul said: 'I think you are left off the will. I would not feel badly about it if I were you. So long as you make no trouble about it you will be taken care of. It is no disgrace to be left off, as in some of the other wills father made other children were not mentioned. We will make everything all right for you.

"Worthington said the next day that I had been left off the will. He said all the children felt the same way, that if I did not make any trouble I would get my share. He said also that the attitude of my father had changed towards me before he died.

"I went to visit my sister, Mrs. Barr, at Babylon, for a week after father died. She told me that she, as well as the other children, felt that I should have my share of the property.

"My sister, Mrs. Skeel, told me the same thing at another time. My brothers, however, said that nothing definite could be done until my sister, Mrs. Richard May Smith, wife of Prof. Smith, of Columbia College, returned from Europe.

"On the assurances of my brothers and sisters that I should get my share of the estate, I signed the waiver for the probate of the will.

"Subsequently I made a loan of $2,600 from the estate, and it was agreed that the money should be paid back when I received my share."

After Malcolm's mother died, about a year ago, and he saw no prospect that his brothers and sisters would keep their promises, he brought suit to compel them to do so. The case is still on.

HARRY HUCKANS'S DEATH.

Autopsy Shows that Disease, and Not a Beating, Caused It.

Dr. Frank Freel, Coroner Creamer's assistant, announced this morning that he had made an autopsy on the body of Harry Huckans, eight years old. The boy died suddenly at the Brooklyn Orphan Asylum on Wednesday last, and it was alleged by his mother that his death was due to a terrible beating received the night before he died.

Dr Freel declares that the boy died from congestion of the lungs and kidneys.

As narrated in yesterday's "Evening World," Mrs. Huckans told Deputy Coroner Kelly that she had seen her son's body an hour after he died and had noticed discolorations on the limbs. She heard that he had been whipped, and she asserted her belief that a brutal beating had caused his death.

The asylum officials admitted that the boy had been whipped, but declared that he had only received a few strokes on the hand administered with a rattan.

The boy's brother, who is also an inmate of the institution, denied the story told by his mother to the effect that Harry had been jerked out of bed and dragged to the bathroom and whipped.

MRS. EARLE WANTS TIME.

Injunction Asked on Foreclosure of Hotel Normandie Mortgages.

A motion restraining the Phoenix Furniture Company, the Gorman Manufacturing Company and the W. & J. Sloane Company from foreclosing a mortgage upon the Hotel Normandie, was made before Justice Barrett in the Supreme Court to-day by Mrs. Ferdinand P. Earle, wife of Gen. Earle, the proprietor.

When Gen. Earle started in at the Hotel New Netherland last year he gave the defendants a mortgage for $150,000 on the lease and effects for their bills for furnishings. When the mortgage fell due he gave as extra security a mortgage upon the Normandie.

Mrs. Earle asks that the effects of the New Netherland be sold first. Justice Barrett reserved his decision.

ANOTHER RAHWAY MYSTERY.

Strange Woman Weeps at the Scene of the Murder of 1887.

RAHWAY, N. J., May 11.—A strange, well-dressed woman, in mourning, came here yesterday, engaged a team and directed the driver to take her to the spot where the unknown girl was murdered seven years ago.

The driver drove the woman to the spot and as the woman was shown the place she evinced considerable emotion.

From her conversation it was inferred that she had never been in Rahway before, but knew who the murdered girl was. An attempt on the part of the driver to glean something from the woman as to her identity proved futile.

She went away as mysteriously as she came.

DEPRIVED OF HER BABY BOY.

Evelyn Granville Had Abandoned Little Burton C. Webster, jr.

Dr. Parkhurst Aided Her in an Attempt to Regain Him.

Evelyn Granville, wife of Burton C. Webster, now in Sing Sing for killing Charles E. Goodwin on her account, has again achieved notoriety.

She appeared in Jefferson Market Court to-day to demand her two-year-old son, Burton C. Webster, jr., from the Gerry Society backed by Rev. Dr. Parkhurst's lawyers, Tyler, Pratt & Hubbard.

Mrs. Webster, since the time when she figured in the Webster trials, has lived in various uptown tenements, and has raised disturbances several times, which have necessitated the presence of the police.

The boy, Burton Webster, has been in her possession, and, it is alleged by the Gerry agents, has not been as carefully cared for as he might have been.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Webster took the child out for an airing in Madison Square Park. After carrying him up and down the walks for a while she went to William Rosevear, of 258 Seventh avenue, a waiter, who was sitting on a bench.

She knew Rosevear by sight and he knew her, having lived near her at one time.

She asked Rosevear to hold the baby a few minutes. Rosevear consented and little Burton was deposited in Rosevear's lap.

At 3 o'clock Rosevear walked into the Gerry Society's rooms with the baby, and said he had been holding it since 3.30.

Rosevear said that he had become quite nervous and had spoken to a park policeman, who had advised him to take little Burton to the Children's Society.

About 9 o'clock Mrs. Webster appeared at the Gerry Society's rooms. She was intoxicated, and so was a man who accompanied her, according to the Gerry agents. She demanded the child, and when she was refused became excited and angry, and said she would "see about it in the morning."

"I will go to Dr. Parkhurst and see if he won't help me," she said as she flounced out of the door.

In court this morning little Burton, who was in the arms of Gerry Agent Grier, did not seem to be very anxious to return to the parental arms.

Mrs. Webster was represented by Lawyer C. A. B. Pratt, of Tyler, Pratt & Hibbard, of 111 Broadway. Both Mr. Pratt and Mrs. Webster asked that the child be returned to its mother, but Justice McMahon would not hear of it.

"The only question in my mind," said the Justice, "is whether it is best to lock you up for cruelty to children."

The child was committed to the Association for Befriending Children and Young Girls. Mrs. Webster was not held.

Lawyer Pratt said that he was a friend of Dr. Parkhurst, and that he appeared for Evelyn Granville Webster at the Doctor's request.

"I received a note from Dr. Parkhurst this morning, and complied with his wishes, that is all.

"No, I am not counsel for the Parkhurst Society, nor is any member of my firm. This is purely a matter of friendly feeling on the Doctor's part and mine. We feel sorry for the woman."

The fact that Dr. Parkhurst is aiding Evelyn Granville recalls his recent statement in public that he had received startling information from a woman regarding her alleged criminal ill-treatment by a former high county official.

MRS. HARRY C. MINER DEAD.

Wife of the Theatrical Manager Suddenly Expires.

Mrs. Henry C. Miner, wife of the well-known theatrical manager, died at 2 o'clock this morning at her home, 27 Madison avenue. Although Mrs. Miner had been in bad health for a year, she had been confined to her bed but six days, and her end was sudden and unexpected when it came. Congestion of the liver is named by her physicians as the immediate cause of death.

Mrs. Miner was fifty-one years of age. She was a native of this city, and her maiden name was Julia L. Moore.

Her parents were professional people, but she never had any connection with the stage. She was married to Mr. Miner about thirty years ago.

Fourteen children were born to her, of which five grown sons survive. She lapsed into unconsciousness last evening and never revived. The entire family was at her bedside when she breathed her last. Funeral services will be held at the house at 8 o'clock Saturday evening and none but members of the family will be present.

The body will be placed in a vault at Greenwood until the tomb which Mr. Miner is about to build in the cemetery is finished.

The theatres in this city owned by Mr. Miner will be closed until after the funeral.

Representatives of all these organizations will be present at the funeral services.

MRS. JESSEN DEAD.

Expired from the Injuries She Received in a Runaway.

RED BANK, N. J., May 11.—Mrs. Charlotte Jessen, of New York, who was injured in a runaway at Fairhaven, yesterday afternoon, died at 7 o'clock this morning without having regained consciousness. She was sixty-nine years old. The body will be taken to the residence of her son-in-law, William H. Botjer, at 331 West Forty-sixth street, New York, to-day.

Some of the family of Mr. Botjer, who is a wholesale provision merchant at 727 Seventh avenue, went to Atlantic Highlands a few days ago, where they have a Summer cottage. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Jessen and her nineteen-year-old granddaughter, Miss Bertha Botjer, started to drive to Red Bank to visit the family of J. H. Farquhar, also New Yorkers.

Their horse ran away and both were thrown out, Mrs. Jessen receiving a bad cut in the head. Miss Botjer escaped with slight bruises.

Charles Lewis, of 107 Hester street, was to-day appointed guardian ad litem of his son, Harry Lewis, eighteen years old, for the purpose of bringing a suit for $20,000 damages against the Third Avenue Cable Railroad.

Young Lewis alleges that on May 1 last, he was driving a horse attached to a load of furniture, near the corner of Ninety-eighth street, when a cable-car collided with the wagon and knocked it over against one of the iron supports of the Elevated railroad.

Young Lewis says his left leg was broken and his right foot badly crushed. His right ankle was also sprained by being caught between the wagon and the iron support. He charges carelessness on the part of the Company's employees.

R., colored, up Seventh avenue last night snatching watches from the pockets of spectators as they passed.

He grabbed the watch of Frank W. Bordes, of 167 Seventh avenue. Bordes held Lee in spite of a spirited attack from other members of the gang. Policeman Stewart took him into custody.

The watch was passed to a confederate and was not recovered.

COAL DEALERS YIELDING.

"The World" Has Forced Many to Lower Their Prices.

Many heads of families with foresight are taking advantage of the situation in the retail coal market, brought about by the determined fight of "The World," and are laying in a supply of coal for next Winter at the low prices resulting from the practical methods adopted by "The World" in its battle with the magnates.

"The World" has sold 5,332 tons of coal at the uniform price of $4.50 per ton, which is 75 cents less than the price fixed by the Coal Exchange, and which the magnates insist is the lowest figure that would yield a profit.

But the Exchange cannot hold the retailers. They realize that something has struck the market, and they are fleeing to cover. The prudent buyer, by "shopping" a little, can find dealers who are bowing before the storm, and are placing coal at prices far below the established $5.25 per ton. That is what "The World" has been fighting for.

There was an attempt made to shut off "The World's" supply, but the people's paper is able to announce a continuance indefinitely of the present $4.50 rate, and orders may be left at either of the New York or Brooklyn offices for coal delivered anywhere in either city.

When dealers are able to deliver coal at $3.79 per ton, as one dealer did in the case of a contract for fuel for a public institution last week, it is silly for them to insist that there is no profit at less than $5.25. Of course, this dealer makes a profit at $3.79, and that is $1.46 less than $5.25.

A profit of $1.46 on the ton of coal delivered to the family of a workingman is cruelly exorbitant, and only possible through a close monopoly. It is that monopoly "The World" is fighting.

Trouble with Troops in India.

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 11.—News of mutinous behavior in the Seventeenth Bengal Native Infantry, stationed in the Province of Agra, British India, caused considerable anxiety here in view of the alarming reports circulated as to the possibility of trouble in India.

The Viceroy telegraphs to the Indian Office, however, that the insubordination was confined to two companies, and that it was not of a serious nature, being entirely unconnected with caste jealousies or religious feeling.

BIG FLIGHT OF A PEACOCK.

His More Remarkable Capture Led to a Case in Court.

Ernest Busch, a saloon-keeper, of 229 Hopkins street, was before Justice Goetting in the Lee Avenue Court, Williamsburg, to-day on a charge of keeping a peacock belonging to Butcher Ernest Greenberg, at 700 Broadway.

In court, Greenberg told the Justice that he had the bird in his show-window as an advertisement. Yesterday afternoon a drunken man shovel his fist through the window, breaking the glass and so frightening the bird that it flew away.

According to Greenberg, it sailed over the tenement-houses, and lighted on the spire of the Hopkins Street Presbyterian Church.

Finally the bird flew down, and while passing the second story of 229 Hopkins street, Busch, he said, reached out and grabbed the peacock.

Greenberg went around to the saloon-keeper and demanded his peacock. Busch refused to deliver up the bird unless he was given $2 for his trouble in catching it.

Justice Goetting wanted time to ponder over the remarkable story and reserved his decision.

Round About Town.

A slight fire occurred in the Postal Telegraph Company's building, 253 Broadway, at 10.15 o'clock this morning. No alarm was sent out.

Policeman Devlin, of the Elizabeth street station, reported that at 12.25 o'clock this morning he found the Second Presbyterian Church, at Mott and Park streets, unlocked. Janitor Jones said that all was only the storm-door that Devlin found unlocked and not the inside door.

Meyer Cohen, a butcher, of 19 Avenue A, was held in Essex Market Court to-day on the charge of violating the Health law in not keeping his place clean.

While drunk last night Thomas Cleary broke a show case window in front of Otto Muhlbauer's store at 187 Bowery. In Essex Market Court to-day he was sentenced to the Island for one month.

Alexander Mosh was sentenced to the Island for six months in Essex Market Court to-day. He was drunk and disorderly yesterday in Tompkins Park and said that he was a deserter from Coxey's army.

Joseph Kelly, twenty-three years old, of 314 East Twenty-sixth street, was sent to the Island for one month in Essex Market Court to-day. Kelly amused himself at the Grand street Third Avenue "L" station last night by snatching the papers from the hands of passengers.

William W. Power and Henry W. Johnson, who say they live in Montclair, N. J., were fined $5 each in Tombs Police Court this morning for fighting last night in the restaurant of the Northwestern Hotel at West and Chambers streets.
