

TWO MEN IN AUTO, CARPETED WITH $10 BILLS, SEIZED

Counting Roll When Arrested but Deny Counterfeits Are Theirs.

The arrest of two men at 1 A. M. to-day by Detectives Howard O'Leary and William Row, of the Oak Street Station, is expected to break up a gang which has been flooding the East Side with counterfeit $10 and $20 bills. The detectives report that at the time of the arrests, they seized twenty-six alleged counterfeit bills in an auto in which one of the prisoners was seated.

The men described themselves as Ralph Gangale, twenty-one, a chauffeur, of No. 1 Franklin Street, and Michael Graziosa, twenty-four, a laborer, of No. 82 Bayard Street.

The detectives were on patrol early to-day when they noticed an automobile of expensive make standing near Bayard Street, Gangale, at the wheel, was counting a large roll of bills while Graziosa was bending over looking into the car.

"What are you doing?" asked O'Leary, approaching the two men.

"Just counting the roll to see if it's all there," the men replied.

O'Leary looked into the tonneau of the machine and saw the floor carpeted with $10 bills.

"Do you usually use money for upholstery in your machine?" he asked as he gathered a handful of the bills and began to scrutinize them.

ARREST BROTHERS OF DEAD GANGSTER

Kin of San Juan Hill Feudist Accused of Violating Sullivan Law.

Edward and William McGlynn, brothers of the notorious Scotty McGlynn, the San Juan Hill gangster who continued a feud with his old enemy, Frank Gillio, even after the two were sentenced to Sing Sing, where Gillio stabbed him to death, were arrested to-day by Detectives Cronin and Leach and charged with violation of the Sullivan Law.

The two detectives were looking for suspects in a hold-up when they saw the McGlynn and William Dorry in a restaurant at No. 201 West End Avenue. They found a blackjack on Edward, a long knife on William and a pistol on Dorry. Edward was held in $2,500 bail and Dorry in $3,000 bail for Special Sessions, while William, who has served time in Sing Sing, was held in $3,000 bail for the Grand Jury by Magistrate Sims in the West Side Court.

D. S. C. FOR BEARER OF MESSAGE TO GARCIA

Related Recognition of Services of Retired Major.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Related recognition of the man who carried "a message to Garcia" was accorded by the War Department to-day when it announced the award of a Distinguished Service Cross to Maj. Andrew S. Hovan of San Francisco, retired, the hero of the incident.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War in 1898, Rowan, then a Lieutenant, under disguise entered the enemy lines in Oriente, crossed the island of Cuba and not only delivered a message to Gen. Garcia, but, his citation says, "obtained secret information relative to existing military conditions in that region of great value that it had an important bearing on the quick ending of the struggle and the complete success of the United States Army."

HANGMAN'S WORK UNCERTAIN AND NO PAY RAISE CHANCE

Canadian Can Spare Wife Only $75 a Month Instead of $110 Asked.

MONTREAL, July 21. Pleading that his business is uncertain and that his income cannot arbitrarily be increased, Arthur Ellis, hangman, has informed the court that he can spare his wife only $75 a month, instead of the $110 she asks.

Ellis, now on his way to Vancouver to handle the execution of three men, was brought into police court on a charge of assault preferred by his wife. The complaint was withdrawn after he promised to give Mrs. Ellis the $75 and the couple had shaken hands on the bargain.

But Mrs. Ellis has reconsidered, and again is pressing for the $110. Her husband had been notified that she intends suing for a separation.

Firemen in Rival Nines Won't Know To-day's Batteries Until They See Them

Managers Mute as to Pitchers in Second Game Between Chicago and New York.

By Joseph Gordon.

THE baseball teams representing the Fire Departments of New York and Chicago will clash in the second game of the current series of three at Ebbets Field this afternoon. All attempts to get advance information as to the pitchers to be used in to-day's game proved futile. The managers of both teams prefer to keep their selections a mystery.

Acting Deputy Chief Heffernan and Charlie Maurer, Manager and Captain of the New Yorkers, respectively, gave perfect imitations of sphinxes when they were asked to throw some light on the subject.

Capt. Ralph Bermele and Manager Peter Holm of the Chicago team were just as reticent about giving out information as to their plans as the local pilots. The Smoke Eaters from the Windy City are here to get revenge for the beatings the New Yorkers administered to them last year at Chicago, and if yesterday's game is a sample of their determination they evidently mean business.

Nearly 12,000 people attended the opening game of the series. Scores of prominent city officials, headed by Mayor Hylan, Fire Commissioner Drennon and Assistant Chief Joseph Crowley, saw the contest, the proceeds of which will go toward starting the $100,000 Honor Emergency Fund of the New York Fire Department for the care of injured and disabled fire fighters.

The Chicago firemen are here merely to reciprocate the trip the local men made to their city a year ago, when the Mutual Benefit Fund of the Fire Department of Chicago raised the sum of $112,000 for the widows and orphans of the men of their department.

The Mayor tossed the first ball from a box along the left field line and the game started. In honor of the visitors, Mayor Hylan rooted for them an even two innings, but when he saw that his rooting failed to jinx the Chicagoans he left for his own box behind the New York bench. John F. Cullerton, civilian head of the Chicago Fire Department, asked him why he hurried, but failed to get a satisfactory reply.

The day was most agreeable for a game of that sort. The sky looked smoky enough to make all the contestants feel perfectly at home and "Red Mike's" red hair furnished a realistic touch to the scene. It sprinkled a little at times but the weather man, realizing that water was a poor medium to use to scare a fireman, gave it up as a bad job.

Tom Dowling, a Bronx product, played centre for the locals and furnished the real punch of the batting. A single, a long triple and a base on balls was his quota out of the five trips to the plate. The member of Engine Company No. 53 also got a stolen base.

turn in a Borough Call just before that fatal inning.

The Fire Department Band furnished the music. When the visitors marched out on the field, they were met with "Hail Chicago," if that was what put so much pep into them the band had better change the tune to-day. There was singing, too.

Elmer Maager pitched for the Chicagoans and turned in an excellent game. He allowed the locals but eight well scattered hits and though he had some trouble finding the plate at the beginning of the game, he finished like a whirlwind.

Ten of the Chicago players were accompanied by their wives. Whether they came just for the trip or to see if their husbands really went to New York to play ball could not, up to a late hour to-day, be discovered.

SIMPLE SERVICES AT FUNERAL OF EDITOR MILLER

Conducted by Dr. Crowder at St. James Episcopal Church—Many Floral Tributes.

The funeral of Charles Ransom Miller, late editor-in-chief of the New York Times took place this morning. Services were held at his late residence, at No. 635 Park Avenue, at 10:30 o'clock, and at St. James Episcopal Church, 71st Street and Madison Avenue, half an hour later.

The simple Episcopal burial services were conducted at the church by Dr. Frank Wardfield Crowder, the pastor. The edifice was crowded with members of the newspaper profession with whom Mr. Miller had been associated as well as with hosts of friends he had met during his journalistic career of nearly half a century.

The services were sung by the full vested choir of St. James' Church under the direction of G. Darlington Richards, church organist. The musical service consisted of the organ prelude "Oh, Rest in the Lord" by Mendelssohn, Selton's Bural Chant, the hymn "A Tower of Strength O God Doth Stand," the anthem "I Heard a Voice From Heaven," by Goss, and the recessional hymn "Jerusalem the Golden" by Fering. The organ postlude was Handel's "Largo."

Dr. Crowder came in from his summer home at Norfolk, Conn., to officiate at the service. He accompanied Miller when he conducted the committee services at the grave. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

$100,000 VERDICT AFFIRMED IN THE PLAYFELLOW SUIT

Appellate Division Decision Is Unanimous in Action on Man O' War's Brother.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for the Second District to-day affirmed the decision of Justice Crosey of Brooklyn, giving $100,000 against James R. Johnson, arising out of the purchase of Playfellow, the full brother of Man O' War.

Sinclair and Johnson are famous horse owners and breeders and after the great performance of Man O' War last year Sinclair instructed Tom Hildreth to negotiate for the purchase of the animal. The purchase was effected for $100,000 and some time later, Mr. Sinclair told the court, it was discovered that Playfellow was running poorly and was easily distressed, and that he was a "windsucker."

It was in last March that Justice Crosey rendered his decision, which was in effect that the trade was off. The Appellate Division was unanimous in its affirmation of the Crosey decision, which means that there can be no further appeal, and that Mr. Sinclair gets his money back, and that Mr. Johnson must pay all costs. Horsemen who have been watching the late workouts of Playfellow declare that the animal is now in splendid condition.

Many Candidates for Chairmanship of Democratic General Committee.

Joseph McKay of Tompkinsville, a supporter of Joseph P. O'Grady, supporter of John A. Lynch for Borough President to succeed the late Mr. Cahill was thought by friends would result in his appointment as Commissioner of Public Works, in Vice Chairman, and looks to Borough President Lynch and the latter's friends to support him for the Chairmanship.

Twenty-Eight Preferred Death To Surrender in Rio Fortress

With Pieces of Flag Pinned on Hearts They Fight Besiegers and All Are Killed or Wounded.

RIO JANEIRO, July 12 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The series of events in Rio Janeiro within the past week, and which was reported throughout the world as a "revolution," was the product of intense feeling which had its inception in the Presidential election held on March 1. The supporters of Nilo Pecanha claimed victory, even after the Brazilian Congress recognized the election of Arthur Bernardes.

For reflections on the Government by Marshal Hermes da Fonseca, former President of the republic and ranking officer of the army, he was arrested. He was liberated on July 3 and immediately disappeared from the city. At 3 o'clock on the morning of July 5 the Copacabana Fortress, at the mouth of the Rio Janeiro Harbor, fired several twelve-inch guns as a signal of revolt.

With the first shots, the Government forces, who had been prepared, began action. An artillery duel between the fortresses of Santa Cruz and Vigia on the one side and Copacabana on the other continued until 9 A. M. this morning when 200 men and officers surrendered and received immunity.

Three lieutenants and twenty-five men who refused decided they would abandon the fort and attack the besieging lines. They decided to die fighting "for the cause." Then followed the most dramatic episode of the entire revolt. Cutting the Brazilian flag into twenty-eight pieces each one of the desperate group pinned a piece of it over his heart and swore that he would die fighting.

Mohrman's wife arrived here from Germany about a month ago and they were married two weeks later. According to the police, she expressed her dislike to living with Mohrman and his mother at their home here and finally left the house yesterday, saying she would not return.
