Some Store Features Present and Prospective

AND now comes the Horse Show thought and dominates the decorations. Everywhere, yellow flames on black, and the store is rampant with equine suggestions.

An Early Holiday Hint

On the main aisle tables, the place of honor, you will find to-day about seven thousand fancy and toilet articles of the half-useful and all-beautiful sorts that hint of gifts.

They are in quadruple silver plate,—of the best make, too. You can buy sterling articles for these same prices, but not such articles as these.

Two lots—one at 25c., one at 50c. The former consists of regular 50c. goods, the latter of regular 75c. goods.

At 25c.—Very large button-books, shoe boxes, toothpick holders, ring stands, match holders, small photo frames, cigar lighters, tapers, vases.

At 50c.—Stamp boxes, cigar lighters, trays, smoking sets, toothpick holders, sponge cups, stamp moisteners.

A cheerful place—that Candy Store of ours. Bright women that love to deck the tables for little dinners with touches of kindly wit in favors for their guests, great caterers seeking the latest things in table decorations, alike find a visit to our Candy Store like unto a walk through a meadow full of flowers.

Candy boxes are like mandolins, grand pianos, footballs—emblems of many sorts and elegant boxes decorated with silks and satins, hand painting and rich printing.

No common candies find places on our counters. New purchasers are daily finding that. Common prices are promoted to dignity by representing finer candies than they ever knew before.

In the Art Room, basement, a real delight awaits you if you are one who finds delight in things ceramic. We show a number of exquisitely executed porcelain plaques, in elaborate Florentine frames, and New York has never seen anything just like them.

They are painted in a Thuringian village by artists whose training is the cumulative training of many generations. Their fathers and grandfathers and great-grandfathers did exactly the same work in exactly the same way. The result is work as near to technical perfection as such work can be.

With these, some vases, plates, bon-bon dishes, and such things made in Dresden, and decorated by these wonderful Thuringian villagers.

As to prices,— A large plate or tray, in lustre green and gold, subject of decoration "Psyche before the Court of Venus," $175.

Vases, in lustre greens and purples, gold decorations, classical subjects, $15 to $100. Plaques, porcelain, with classical, Scriptural and historical subjects, and reproductions of famous pictures and portraits, from $6 to $150. Most of these are priced between $25 and $50.

Elderdown and trimmed garments, in desirable solid colors and in an attractive striped pattern. Numerous styles and prices which must find immediate favor. One kind at $2.50 has loose front, fitted back, girdle, and a satin-bound turn-over collar. Other kinds are proportionately low priced at $3, $4, $5 and up to $10.

Optical Goods at Quarter-Price of eye-glasses and spectacles is being discontinued, and those now on hand are marked for speedy sacrifice. Not simply a slightly reduced price, but a price that represents only one-quarter actual value. Any sight can be suited. Three lots. Choose from either at 35c. each.

Lot 1—Skeleton eye-glasses, nickel and gold-filled mountings, cork guard.

Lot 2—Nickel-plated eye-glasses, cork guards.

Lot 3—Bronze, steel and gold-filled eye-glasses and spectacles; straight and riding bow.

A Goodly Feast of Substantials

A GENTLEMAN told one of our salesmen the other day that he would as soon eat a dinner of scraps as read a collated "Library." He didn't understand the difference between the

and its predecessors. If this gentleman ordered roast beef for dinner he wouldn't want an entire roasted ox set before him, but a good satisfying slice or two. This is what the "International" gives him. From long elaborate works too extensive for a single reading, a good juicy slice or two is given, enough to satisfy any appetite.

There are no mere fragments. Wherever an author can be properly represented by a complete story, poem, essay, oration, sermon, address, etc., it is given complete. For example, take the story-tellers only. We give a list selected from a few of the volumes of the authors who are represented by complete stories:—

- S. Weir Mitchell, Kate Douglas Wiggin, Eliza Follen, Rebecca Harding Davis, Rebecca Harding Davis, Isaac Zangwill, Bret Harte, Edward Everett Hale, Henry W. Cable, Alexander S. Pushkin, Rudyard Kipling, Alphonse Daudet, Edgar A. Poe, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Mrs. W. K. Clifford, Octave Thanet, Prosper Merimee, Maria Edgeworth, Charlotte M. Yonge, Mrs. Walter Scott, Robert Louis Stevenson, Margaret of Navarra, Charles Dickens, Henry C. Dunner, William Henry Bishop, Frances Hodgson Burnett, Louis Terry, George, Margaret Deland, William Gilmore Simms, Mrs. Charles Reade, John Fox, Jr., Stephen Crane, Mary N. Murfree, Charles Westcott, E. T. W. Whittman, Mrs. John G. Burdett, Peter C. Abriemson, Guy de Maupassant, Eliza Follen, Hans Christian Andersen, Rudyard Kipling, John Ruskin, Rudyard Kipling, Giovanni Verga, Boccaccio, Ibsen, Fenelon.

These are only a few of the story-tellers, and all the story-tellers are only a fraction of the authors represented in the latest and greatest of libraries.

Because the Library sweeps the literature of all nations and times from "The Oldest Story in the World" to the successes of this present year, it is truly INTERNATIONAL. It is also international because its makers are the foremost literary men of the two hemispheres. DONALD G. MITCHELL, equally well known as Dr. Marvel; ANDREW LANG, the eminent English scholar and critic; Nathan Haskell Dole, Forrest Morgan, and Caroline Ticknor are well known to every one interested in things literary.
