Long Island Open Championship and Professional-Amateur Tournaments Are Added to the Season's Golf Schedule

LONG ISLAND GETS NEW GOLF EVENTS

Amateur, Professional and Open Championships to Be Held This Year.

CONDITIONS TO BE NOVEL

Play Will Be by Handicap and All Matches Over Thirty-Six Holes.

By KERR N. PETRIE.

Long Island, with its multiplicity of links and legions of players, is to set a withering pace for all other sections calling themselves strongholds of the royal and ancient game of golf this year judging by what already has been done toward making up the season's calendar. At least two tournaments that were not there before are now down for settlement as soon as the season for the competitive phase of the sport rolls around, and while both are of the type that will confer a championship title on the winners it is also an interesting fact that they have been brought into being through the enterprise and enthusiasm of the professionals.

One of these tournaments will be a Long Island professional championship; the other is for amateur and professional pairs. Details of both have been completed up to the point where the actual playing dates are to be selected. The amateur-professional competition it is thought will be begun about the month of June, but as the professionals do not wish to conflict with any other meeting they are to consult with A. H. Pogson, secretary of the Metropolitan Golf Association, as to the best time for holding the Long Island professional championship.

While the professional tourney is to be conducted along the old lines of thirty-six holes medal play, the other will be something of a novelty in this part of the world, but an event, nevertheless, that is bound to stimulate interest in the competitive phase of the sport and to bring the Long Island clubs as well as the amateurs and professionals into closer relation with each other. It will be a two ball foursome, and entries will be restricted to one team from each club, although it will be the privilege of a club to change the amateur representative between rounds should such a line of procedure become necessary.

Two Weeks for All Rounds.

But the novel part of this tournament will be in the method of playing the rounds. Instead of having the various club pairs foregather on some designated course at a certain time, a period of two weeks is to be allowed for each round. Thirty-six holes is the test set for these rounds, this having been arranged so as to eliminate as far as possible the element of luck, which it was thought was bound to crop out in a single round test in the way of one side or the other having the benefit of home links.

At the meeting, at which details of the tournaments were worked out yesterday, it was shown that with a little luck a certain team might go right through the competition without once having to visit a strange course. At first it was thought that teams coming first out of the hat in each instance should be allowed to nominate the links over which the match should be played, and that the semi-final and final rounds should be decided on neutral links. The proposal to have thirty-six hole play in each case was accepted as a ready solution of the problem, seeing that in addition to eradicating the luck of the draw it would also enable each side to compete over its home course at least once during the course of the tournament, and so give the members of each organization an opportunity to see their own representative in action.

No Money for the "Pros."

While the Long Island open championship is to be for the usual prizes, the exact sums to be designated later, the professionals in the team tourney will receive not as much as a cent, whether they are defeated in the first round, reach the final or win the high honors. There will be an entry free of $10 for each team, but all moneys received in this way will be used to purchase medals for the winners, runners up and semi-finalists. It is desired to have a championship shield to be held for a year by the club entering the successful team, and the professionals will be only too glad to hear from some one interested enough to wish to present a championship emblem of this nature.

Those behind the tournament wish to emphasize the fact that while this is to be an amateur-professional club pairs championship, it does not follow that the organization represented by the highest rated pair will win. In the first place it is to be two ball foursome competition and three-eighths of the amateur's club handicap will be allowed. Only those amateurs operating from twelve strokes or less will be eligible to participate. Under these conditions it is not difficult to see that the competition will be as interesting, exciting and as uncertain in result up to the last shot as any handicap club event to be held this year.

New Greens for Apawamis.

Peter Lees, one of the best known green keepers, links designers and turf experts in the United States, is building four new putting greens on the course of the Apawamis Club at Rye, N. Y. Peter began his work last October and although he is now being held up by the Arctic weather he means to have that well known circuit ready for everything and anything that is required of it during the coming season.

The greens that are being treated, renovated or rebuilt are the fourth, fifth, eighth and eighteenth. The fifth will be entirely new and built on the hill to the right of the old green and in full view of the player on the tee. This is a change that will be appreciated, as heretofore the shot for this short fifth has been practically a blind one. On the fourth Lees is squaring off the green so that it no longer will spill a good ball into the bunker, and at the eighth something along the same lines is being done. Lees plans to eliminate the almost perpendicular bank at the back of this putting strip, and to give the green more the formation of a punch bowl. The eighteenth green is being raised and the bunker scheme improved.

♦ James Lindsay has been engaged to fill the professional position with the Oak Park Club of Chicago, made vacant by the death of George O. Simpson. Lindsay, who formerly was instructor with one of the St. Louis clubs, has been engaged building the new Biltmore courses at Rye. He came East to take up the position as professional with the Jamaica Country Club, and at the outbreak of war joined the Canadian army.

COLUMBIA ROWING DATES ANNOUNCED

Programme for the Season Includes Four Races.

The Columbia University rowing schedule for the coming season, announced yesterday, includes four races consisting of two dual, one triangular and the intercollegiate regatta. Columbia's initial race will be against Yale and will be rowed over the Housatonic River course at Derby, Conn., on April 24. The Navy eight will be met at Annapolis on May 8, and on May 29 Columbia will compete for the Childs's cup at Philadelphia. The varsity, second and freshman eights will close their season with the intercollegiate regatta to be rowed at Poughkeepsie on July 1.

The Childs's cup race, in which Columbia will row against Princeton and Pennsylvania in connection with the American Henley at Philadelphia, is scheduled for a later date than is usual for this fixture, but was accepted with the understanding that Columbia will be awarded the race in 1921. The local university rowing authorities already are planning for the event next year and will hold the race over the Harlem River course on May 14.

This will be the first big intercollegiate crew race ever held within the limits of Greater New York and is expected to create great interest among Columbia students and graduates.

HALL BEST WITH SABRE.

Wins N. Y. A. C. Competition for Hudson Budd Cup.

Sherman Hall, the New York Athletic Club fencing champion, last night won the Hudson Budd cup in the fence off of the sabre competition for members of the Mercury Foot organization. Hall, who was runner up for the national sabre championship last year, defeated Leo Nunes and Major W. G. Gotshall for the honors in the final round. Gotshall, who was a member of the American Army, finished second, while Nunes, who was an officer in the Italian army and who finished second for the sabre championship in the Interallied games in Paris, was third.

The tournament, which was a handicap affair, attracted seventeen of the club's best fencers. Hall and Nunes were the scratch men, while Gotshall was allowed a handicap of two touches in each bout. Hall went through the series without suffering defeat. The opening round for the club epee and sabre championships will get under way next Saturday afternoon.

VETERAN FENCER SURPRISES RIVALS

Dr. Hammond Masters Scratch N. Y. A. C. Team and Defeats Columbia.

Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, veteran champion fencer and a man who served in the late war with distinction as Major in the medical department, solved the problem of perpetual youth last night at the New York A. C. in the dual fencing meet between the Mercury Foot and Columbia University. Without the least preparation and even minus a fencing jacket to guard his chest, he jumped into the breach and helped to place another wreath on the threshold of his organization by winning two bouts in the sabres and one in the foils. It is twenty-seven years ago since the doctor won the national championship with the foils, and in fact one season still earlier he captured all three weapons, that is, the foils, duelling swords—now the epee—and sabres, yet last night he handled himself with all the vigor and fire of his youth, and sent home the point of his steel on opponents who were yet unborn when the Aesculapius was in his prime.

It was owing to a peculiar circumstance that Dr. Hammond fenced at all. He came to the New York A. C. gymnasium to watch the dual meet and found that the Mercury Foot team was disorganized. Brackett was down with pneumonia, while McPearson, who was to take his place, could not attend, and the others selected failed at the last moment. Then sooner than allow the match to lapse Dr. Hammond mustered a scratch team in himself and Sherman Hall, the national foils champion, and E. R. Olmsted, and they faced Columbia. The conditions of the meet were the best of three weapons, and in the foils the New York A. C. won by 6 bouts to 3, and the Mercury Foot men made a clean sweep in the sabres, winning all the four bouts. The bouts in the epee were not necessary to the victory.

Sherman Hall was in rare shape and retired without losing a bout. His first bout in the foils was against Milliard J. Bloomer, Jr., the Columbia crack and incidentally the intercollegiate champion. Hall's varying style completely puzzled the collegian with the result that the clubman won easily by the score of 5 touches to 1. Against Forster, the other Blue and White fencer, Hall was a rock of defence with the result that Forster could never once force his blade home on the national title holder, who won by 5 touches to nothing. Bencoe made a better showing against Hall than any of his team mates as he landed twice, but Hall quit by scoring 5 touches to 2.

In the two weapons fenced the grand total for the New York A. C. was eleven wins to two for Columbia. The teams and weapons were as follows:

Foils—Columbia University: H. W. Forster, D. Bencoe, and Millard J. Bloomer.

New York A. C.: Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, E. R. Olmsted and Sherman Hall.

Sabres—Columbia University: George Reaves and Edward Stelle.

New York A. C.: Dr. Graeme, M. Hammond and Sherman Hall.

The summary:

Hall—Defeated Bloomer 5 to 1 and Forster 5 to 0 and Bencoe 5 to 2.
Score—New York A. C. won 7, lost 2. Columbia University won 2, lost 7.

Score—New York A. C. won 4, lost 0. Columbia lost 4, won 0.
Grand Total—New York A. C. won 11, lost 2. Columbia University won 2, lost 11.

CHALLENGES CANNEPAX.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Augie Kleckhefer to-night issued a challenge to play Robert L. Cannefax for the three cushion billiard championship and posted $5,000 as a side bet. Kleckhefer, who formerly held the title, proposed a six nights match of 300 points, three nights in Chicago and three in New York, with the net receipts to go to the American Legion. The challenger asserted he was discriminated against in connection with a recent tournament at Cleveland won by Cannefax.

MARDI GRAS WEEK SWELLS RACE CROWD

Long Shots Gallop in Front and Form Followers Have Disastrous Day.

Special to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 16.—Visitors attracted by to-morrow's Mardi Gras swelled the attendance at the Fair Grounds to-day, where a well rounded programme was contested over a good track. Form followers had a disastrous day. The Rex handicap went to Courtship, leniently treated by the handicapper, after the Marshall horse had led his opposition from the break of the mile contest, closely attended by Fort Bliss. The latter was driven out to withstand the belated rushes of Piedra and Lively, the latter, weakly handled by Smith.

Bobby Allen proved one of the day's many surprises when he took the lead at the start of the third race and held it to the end from Siesta and the favorite Assume, which had been forced wide throughout.

Duke John took the Jovial purse in a driving finish from the unlucky Sir Grafton. The latter, weakly ridden by Coltletti after having been virtually left, collared the leader in the final quarter and finished with a cyclonic rush. War Club, early pacemaker weakened in the final stages, but finished third. Grand Slam, favorite, showed a dull effort.

The stewards issued the following rulings:

Jockey Heinisch is restored to good standing. Trainer J. Byers suspension will end with the meeting. The ruling against Trainer J. B. Smith is continued without prejudice to the action of any association that wishes to grant him privileges, there having been no charge of fraud in the action taken against him here.

The horsemen's proposed strike situation remains in deadlock. Their offer of a $50,000 guaranteed profit to the Jefferson Park management for its forthcoming meeting was refused by Gad Bryan, who stated his determination to ignore any and all offers that might affect his authority of management. The meeting will open on Wednesday on schedule with $4,300 daily purses and racing will be conducted until it is proven that it cannot be financially successful without the aid of the striking horsemen, when it will close. The horsemen are awaiting ratification of their action by the Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association, which has been called into session at Lexington, Ky.

C. W. Clark, owner of Pictor and others, purchased G. R. Bryon's contract on Jockey Steve Wida. Trainer Clint Dewitt had both shoulders broken when a horse collided with him during the training hours on Saturday.

T. Hodge purchased Coombs and Kerry Lass at private sale. J. P. Phillips bought Irish Maid.

A. CULMER LEADS FIELD.

HOCKEY VICTORY FOR THE TIGERS

Princeton Defeats Pennsylvania in New Philadelphia Palace by 7 to 2.

Special to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16.—Princeton, combining better teamwork play and speedy interference, defeated Penn in an speedy interference, defeated Penn in an new Ice Palace to-night, 7 to 2. The Tigers scored one goal in the first period, four in the second and two in the third, while Penn netted the puck once in the second and third periods.

Despite the apparent one-sidedness of the score the Red and Blue team, considering their lack of experience and practice, played a remarkable game against their more experienced and better coached opponents. The Tigers had a whirlwind attack with speedy passing that completely upset the Red and Blue, especially in the second period, when the Tigers eluded Goalkeeper Keffreys four times. Had Farrah, Pringle and Barkalow been assisted in the same manner in which that trio played the score would certainly have been much closer and the game more exciting. The lineup:

Princeton.		Penn.
Maxwell	Goal	Jeffreys
Bell	Point	Barkalow
Haight	Cover point	Cope
Ehret	Right wing	Brett
Keyes	Left wing	Pringle
Knox	Centre	Kerns
Torrey	Rover	Farrah

GIRLS WILL CLASH IN HOCKEY GAME

Barnard Classes of 1920 and 1921 Are Ready for College Championship Contest.

Following, perhaps a bit of belatedly, the example of their brother collegians at Harvard, Yale, Princeton and other institutions, girls of Barnard College are getting back to a peace basis in the matter of undergraduate activities. The change from little more than a year ago when Barnard graduates and undergraduates were employed in 262 different occupations connected with war work is made apparent by the announcement that the classes of 1920 and 1921 will struggle for the hockey championship of the college in a game to be played at noon to-day in the outdoor rink at Claremont avenue and West 119th street.

The last game played at Barnard was in 1914. The outbreak of the war in that year put an end for the time being to what had been one of the most popular diversions at Barnard. Even though a little late in getting back to a pre-war status in the matter of sports, in hockey at least, Barnard is several steps ahead of Columbia, which this year has no hockey team.

The representatives of 1920 on the ice will have the loudly outspoken support of their own classmates and the members of the class of 1922, while the junior seven will be strongly backed by the members of the classes of 1921 and 1923. An admission fee will be charged and the proceeds will be devoted to the college endowment fund, the campaign for which was begun on Lincoln's Birthday.

DATE FOR FENCING MEET.

Intercollegiate Championship Will Be Held April 16 and 17.

Millard J. Bloomer, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the Intercollegiate Fencing Association, yesterday announced the date and place for the annual intercollegiate championships for this year. As usual the classic will be held at the Hotel Astor, the preliminaries on April 16 and the finals on April 17. It is expected that Yale, Harvard, Annapolis, Pennsylvania, Bowdoin and Columbia will be represented. Dartmouth and Massachusetts Institute of Technology also have taken up the sport and there is a possibility that they may enter the association in time to compete.
