

Peter Trivoulidas From Plains of Marathon Outfoots Field of Sixty in Twenty-five Mile Marathon at Boston

GREEK RUNNER IS MARATHON WINNER

Peter Trivoulidas From Plains of Marathon First in Boston's Big Race.

25 MILES IN 2 H. 29 M. 31 S. Leads Home Field of 60, With Roth of Dorchester in Second Place.

Special to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD. BOSTON, Mass., April 19.—One of the greatest finishes that ever marked the historic Patriots' Day 25 mile marathon race from Ashland to Boston was made today by Peter Trivoulidas, the Greek runner from New York, who because he is not an American citizen, is ineligible to go to Antwerp with the team representing the United States.

The Greek runner, less than three miles from the end of the race, was nearly half a mile behind Roth at that time and was running easily, but later he altered and did not have the strength to hold his lead against the fast coming American, Carl W. Meyer, who started the record for the race in 2 hours, 21 minutes 18.45 seconds, made by Mike Ryan of New York in 1912.

31 Finish in Honor Group. Milton Mitchell, the colored runner from St. Christopher's of New York, was eighth, and he and the others mentioned all are in a group which is entitled to be abroad in June. There were thirty-four finishers in the honor group. The loss of the race was a great disappointment for Roth, who had visions of sharing with John Garrety of Toronto the distinction of winning one of these famous road races. Roth, however, was beaten by a runner whose power in the last few miles of a desperate race was nothing short of wonderful.

A brisk northwest wind partially opposed the runners, but weather conditions otherwise favored the men for the long hike, the air being cool and skies blue.

Trivoulidas, who did his first running over the course which the soldier Philadelphides made famous, ran a heady race today. While James McManigan, New England ten mile champion, was setting a fairly stiff pace over the first half of the course, the Greek runner lay behind, conserving his strength. With the two half mile from the steep Newton Hills forced Heinigan to drop out and sent others back, and Trivoulidas steadily worked through the field. He was running second to Roth at Lake street, and came out again at Massachusetts avenue, Boston, he passed his rival with a steady smile. He finished third.

Trivoulidas is 29 years of age and has been in this country three years. He is expected to make a first rate family of long distance runners and is a relative of Louie the Greek, winner of the first race in 1856. This same story brought to light the rare coincidence that Trivoulidas hails from the village of Marathon, which is a little over twenty-six miles outside the City of Athens.

After the news of the Greek's victory reached the A. A. U. headquarters yesterday afternoon, the committee, except there is an elastic application of the rules of the International Athletic Federation, he cannot represent the United States in the Belgian marathon, which is not an American citizen race, and even applied for his first naturalization papers. Even should the American Olympic committee stretch a point in the case of Trivoulidas he could be protested by Greece and his victory claimed for the new Hellenic Republic. Very few knew that the Greek was well acquainted with the Ashland-Boston route, as he finished seventh in last year's event, his time being about ten minutes slower than his victory yesterday.

Billy Kelly Romps Home in the Belair Handicap

Stable Companion Sir Barton, Thought to Be Best in Feature Race at Havre de Grace, Runs Unplaced at Six Furlongs.

SPECIAL TO THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD. BALTIMORE, April 19.—Billy Kelly and his illustrious stable mate, Sir Barton, completely filled the public eye when they paraded to the post in the Belair Handicap, which served as the feature race of a good card. Havre de Grace today. Improved track conditions and railroad service had the effect of attracting the largest crowd of the meeting.

Commander Ross declared to win with Sir Barton, but the stable's first jockey, Sande, had the mount on Billy Kelly, and judging from the running, he was the intended one of the pair. Sir Barton broke in the early stages of the race, but the pair were so close together that the jockey, who was in the lead, was unable to get a clear view of the race. It was evident that Kelly had the race won. Billy Kelly was an easy winner, took place home on a gallop, and was unplaced at six furlongs.

GOLF BALL MAKERS AIR THEIR VIEWS

Declare Themselves as Opposed to Standardization of Rubber Core.

By KERR S. PETRIE. Any attempt to standardize the golf ball is to be very stoutly opposed by the American manufacturers. Incidentally the American professionals cannot go to the Phillips for the waiver price. Causey's release to the Phillips was a way of punishment for asking more money—rather a strange method, which reminds one of the old case of biting off one's nose to spite one's face.

Those who will receive Mr. Curtis's letter are Louis Teller, for the New England district; Wilfrid Field, for the Southeast; Joe Dixey, for the Middle States; R. Lager, for the Pacific coast; and a representative of the Southwest-eastern section.

Dr. Hammond Denies Selection of Leccister for Olympic Team. Dr. Græme M. Hammond, chairman of the American Olympic fencing committee, announced yesterday by way of comment upon the report that John F. Leccister, Jr., of Yale, intercollegiate fencer, had been chosen to represent this country in the Olympic games, that no selections for the American Olympic team would be made until after the national championships, which are to take place next week at the New York A. HIGH LIGHTS AND SHADOWS IN ALL SPHERES OF SPORT

By DANIEL. Copyright, 1920, by The Sun-Herald Corporation. NOW that the Giants, after three defeats in a row, have scored their first victory of the championship season life has taken on a rosier aspect for those who suffer from the habit of taking to heart the setbacks of the home clubs.

The Giants lost the first three games and had a hard time winning yesterday because they are not hitting. They have a team average of worse than .230, which is in striking contrast to that which they compiled in the series with the Red Sox. The club is in a slump, but it is not going to stay in it long. Unless we miss our signs the day of rallying is not far off.

MITCHELL WOULD FOL GAMBLERS BY WITHHOLDING NAME OF PITCHER.

Major league officials and managers announce that the gambling abuse has grown so strong that it requires the united efforts of everybody in the game to squelch it. They have engaged a national detective agency to assist them everywhere. The Polo Grounds suffers from the gambling pest, but it does not suffer as strongly as the Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati or St. Louis parks.

RACE TRACKS SUBJECT TO LEGALIZED EXTORTION.

Race tracks in Ontario have been notified that they are to be subject to a prohibitive tax—$10,000 a day for the mile tracks and $5,000 a day for the half mile "crouches." The track officials declare that they will not be able to operate. Some of the officials of the Dominion have said that racing should be encouraged—and racing is about to try to come back there after six years of inactivity. The tax is indeed a singular medium of encouragement.

QUAKERS ENFORCE STRICT RING RULES

No Loophole Has Been Left for Any Substitution at Eleventh Hour.

By CHARLES F. MATHISON. The committee of Philadelphia boxing experts appointed by Director of Public Safety Cortelyou to draw up new rules for the government of the sport in that city has adopted one rule that should be included in boxing codes all over the country. Clause 15 provides that the boxers, matched for the chief event on the programme must report to the Superintendent of Police at least 24 hours previous to the contest, and it makes no difference if the boxers live in the Quaker City or come from California.

William Spengler, who won the eight heavy-weight title in the A. U. State (courtesy, broke a bone in his right hand while on the disabled list for three weeks. Spengler also is the Metropolitan heavy and light heavy title holder and looks to be the logical representative of the police force in the international police competition next fall at the International Sporting Club.
