Duncan McLachlan Wins the Coveted Beaux-Arts Prize

His Drawing for War Memorial Earns $3,000 Paris Scholarship.

One of the scholarships most coveted by young architects and students of architecture in this country was won yesterday by Duncan McLachlan, who is connected with the atelier of Frederick C. Hirons in this city. The scholarship is the annual Paris prize of $3,000 of the Society of Beaux-Arts Architects, which will entitle the winner to a course of two and a half years of study in the Ecole des Beaux-Arts.

The selection was made yesterday at the Beaux-Arts Institute of Design, 126 East Seventy-fifth street, by a committee of judges composed of R. H. Dana, chairman; Benjamin W. Morris, president of the Society of Beaux-Arts Architects; Henry Bacon of the committee of artists which is advising with the Mayor in the selection of a site for the proposed war memorial; R. M. Hood, F. A. Godley, George A. Licht, who won the first Paris prize thirteen years ago; Philip Cusacks, Henry Renwick Sedgwick, Lawrence White and Louis Ayres. There had been two preliminary competitions in which thirty architects or students under 30 entered, five of whom remained in the final competition.

The subject design in the competition was an appropriate war memorial for the site at Inwood, decided upon by the committee of artists as the best one in New York for such a memorial. The winning design of Mr. McLachlan has for its motif an obelisk towering above the highest point of Inwood. Back of the obelisk is a classic colonnade of heroic proportions. Flights of steps descend to a broad plaza at the water front, covering the railroad tracks. Between the flights of steps is an amphitheatre.

The design calls for the erection of viaducts over Dyckman street on the south and Spuyten Duyvil on the north, thus continuing Riverside Drive from Fort Washington. The Drive circles the obelisk. In the central plaza, which, in the design covers nearly a mile, there are provisions for smaller memorials to the various American brigades that figured in the campaigns in France.

Navy to Open Boathouse at Newport With Dance on Island

Mrs. Cornelius H. Tangeman arriving at Bailey's Beach, Newport, in her bathing costume.

Special to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 13.—There will be a dance at the Torpedo Station Friday evening, when the officers and their wives will have a party to dedicate the new boathouse. It will be, in a way, a nautical event, for all guests must arrive by water, the station being an island. The boathouse is so arranged that those who arrive in launches may steer directly into the enclosure and the guests land at the side of the dance floor. The majority, however, will go to the island by fearry, otherwise the launch spaces would be as corwded as Fifth avenue with motors.

Capt. Martin E. Trench, U. S. N., and Mrs. Trench, with other officers and their wives, will receive the guests and the boathouse will have more than the usual decorative appearance. Preceding the dance there will be several dinners at the station. Among those to thus entertain will be Capt. and Mrs. Trench, Commander and Mrs. Julius C. Townsend, Capt. Herbert O. Shiffert, U. S. N., and Mrs. Shiffert, Commander and Mrs. John W. Morse and Commander and Mrs. Edmund S. R. Brandt.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, who have been entertaining a house party at Beacon Hill house, left to-night on board the auxiliary bark Aloha for New York. Among their guests were the Misses Audrey James and Sylvia James, who will sail for England Thursday from New York. The Misses James came to this country last spring for an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. James. The latter will see the America's Cup race off Sandy Hook on Thursday from the Aloha, and will return aboard the yacht to Newport on Saturday for the close of the week. They will have a large party of guests to see the race.

Bathing at Bailey's Beach is not as formal a function as it used to be. It may be that the present informality of that midday diversion has been caused by the alleged shortage of bath houses at the bathing club, but, whatever the cause, the women of Newport, or at least some of them, are donning their bathing suits in their homes and going to the beach in abbreviated attire. Mrs. Cornelius H. Tangeman is one of the members of the beach club who are giving vogue to this touch of informality.

The Italian Ambassador, Baron Romano Avezzana, and the Baroness Romano Avezzana, who have the Morrell cottage for their first Newport season, will give their first formal dinner of the summer Thursday evening. They will give another dinner Sunday evening.

Mrs. Henry Clews and Mr. Henry Clews 3d will leave for Lenox to-morrow for a few days automobile trip.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Barton Jacobs, Miss Sarah Baldwin and Mr. J. Swan Frick, who are their house guests at Whiteholm, will leave to-morrow for an automobile trip through the White Mountains.

Miss Margaret Caperton, daughter of Admiral and Mrs. William B. Caperton, will leave Friday to visit in Greenwich, Conn.

Registered at the Casino to-day were Mr. Frederick H. Powell of New York, Mr. Nello Defacci Neprati and Miss Erla Defacci Neprati, here from Narragansett Pier; Mr. H. D. Evans, who is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Padelford and Mrs. Herbert C. Pell, Jr.

MISS CUDAHY FLEES TO WED BANK CLERK

Grandniece of Packer Chased by Father in Motor.

Special to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Edward A. Cudahy, Chicago packer, was surprised to learn today that his nineteen-year-old grandniece, Edna Catherine Cudahy, had ran away from her home in Los Angeles and married Percy Fisher Browne, son of the late Francis Fisher Browne, founder of the Dial.

The young couple fled in an automobile to San Bernardino, where they were married by a justice of the peace. Jack Cudahy, nephew of the Chicago packer and father of the girl, with some of the relatives, pursued the fleeing couple in another car and arrived in time to stop the ceremony—but they didn't, so everybody's happy. Papa Cudahy gave the couple his blessing and they are now honeymooning at Bear Lake.

The romance began more than a year ago, when the two met at Pasadena. Mr. Browne, who is 35 years old, is a teller for the National Bank and Trust Company of Pasadena.

INJUNCTION AGAINST SUFFRAGE REFUSED

Court Rules It Is Without Powers to Pass Upon Validity of Amendment.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Justice Bailey in the District Supreme Court dismissed to-day injunction proceedings brought by Charles F. Fairchilds of New York, president of the American Constitutional League, to prevent the promulgation of the ratification of the suffrage amendment and to test the validity of the equal suffrage law.

The court held that it was without authority to inquire into the action of the State Legislatures in ratifying the suffrage amendment and that it had no authority to pass upon the validity of such an amendment. Mr. Fairchilds noted an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State, and A. Mitchell Palmer, Attorney-General, asked the court to dismiss the proceedings.

Hearings on the motion were held before Justice Bailey. Edward B. Wheeler of New York argued for the plaintiff and Solicitor-General Frierson and Assistant United States Attorney Archer appeared for the Government officials. Government counsel argued that Mr. Fairchilds did not show in his bill any peculiar interest in the subject matter as to entitle him to maintain the suit against them. They also denied that Mr. Fairchilds's bill set forth any condition requiring equitable relief and contended further that Mr. Fairchilds had not shown existence of any emergency calling for injunction relief. In this connection they pointed out that the necessary number of States have not notified the Secretary of State of the ratification of the suffrage amendment and that therefore no proclamation is imminent.

Declaring that "suffrage" is a fundamental principle of the American Government, Mr. Wheeler said the issue was far more important even than was the abolition of slavery or prohibition against the use of strong drinks. The suffrage amendment, Mr. Wheeler suggested, might affect the result of the coming Presidential election.

TENNESSEE 'SUFFS' TO ASK COX'S AID

Delegation Will Call on Governor Friday.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The delegation of suffragists which will call on Gov. Cox at Columbus Friday will urge that influence be exerted to obtain favorable action by the Tennessee Legislature on the Federal suffrage amendment, the National Woman's Party announced to-night.

The suffragists will be headed by Miss Alice Paul, national chairman, and Miss Sue White, Tennessee chairman of the National Woman's Party. Representatives of the Woman's Party from the Eastern and middle Western States, including Dr. Gillette Hayden, Ohio chairman, will compose the deputation.

The visit to Marion, July 22, the date of the notification ceremonies for Senator Harding, the Woman's Party announced, will take the form of a "suffrage demonstration."

JAMES O'NEILL SERIOUSLY ILL.

Noted Actor Taken to Hospital in New London.

Special to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 13.—James O'Neill, actor, is seriously ill at Lawrence Hospital here. He was removed from St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, five weeks ago to this city, and last Saturday his condition was so serious that his son, Eugene G., was called from his home in Provincetown, Mass. Mrs. O'Neill and another son, James, Jr., have been here since. Mr. O'Neill arrived from New York.

He has not been in good health since December 7, 1918, when he was struck by an automobile while returning home in the evening from the Lambs Club. He was playing the Father in "The Wanderer," at the Manhattan Theatre, at the time, and this was his last appearance on the stage.

EX-EMPRESS EUGENIE'S WILL.

Leaves Estate in England to Prince Victor Napoleon.

LONDON, July 13.—The late Empress Eugenie bequeathed her mansion and her estate at Farnborough, England, to Prince Victor Napoleon and his wife, formerly Princess Clementine of Belgium, according to a Madrid despatch to the Dail Mail. She also left a considerable sum to Queen Victoria of Spain, who was her god-daughter, the newspaper says.

Prince Victor is head of the Bonaparte family and makes his home in Brussels.

NOTES OF THE THEATRES.

Robert de Flers, recently elected a member of the French Academy and now an "immortal," is the author of "Transplanting Jean," the comedy in which Arthur Byron and Miss Martha Hedman will be seen the coming season as co-stars. He succeeded to the chair left vacant by the death of Marquis de Segur in 1916. He formerly was editor of the Figaro and will be the youngest member of the Academy. He was born in 1872.

Although there is one song and a dozen pretty girls in "The Charm School," which comes to the Bijou on August 2, the authors, Robert Milton and Mrs. Alice Duer Miller, insist that it is not a musical comedy. The song "When I Discover My Man" was written for Marie Carroll by Jerome Kerr, but all the other girls have lines in it to sing.

The swimming contest between chorus girls of "Lassie" and of "The Scandals of 1920" will take place at Starlight Amusement Park to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Buses will transport the companies from the theatres to the park, and "Lassie" will have along a contingent of Scotch bagpipers, and "The Scandals of 1920" folk will be inspired by the music of their jazz band.

John Murray Anderson will produce a novel musical comedy in September written by himself and Augustus Barrett, who was musical director for "What's in a Name."

Y. L. Granville, William St. James and William Podmore have been added to the cast of "The Romancers," with which the Community Theatre of Washington Square will begin its outdoor season next Tuesday evening.

FRANK TRUMBULL, RAIL EXPERT, DIES

Was One of Wilson's Advisers on Transportation Problems During the War.

Frank Trumbull, 62 years old, one of the leading railroad men of America and an authority on problems of transportation, died Monday night at his home in Santa Barbara, Cal., of heart trouble. Advices received yesterday in this city from California stated that his son Roscoe was with him at the time of his death.

Mr. Trumbull was chairman of the board of directors of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway and until recently of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, a position which he had retained since February, 1909, when he withdrew from many of his other activities. He also was chairman of the board of the Hocking Valley Railroad Company and chairman of the Railway Executives Advisory Committee.

In the latter connection he was particularly prominent in an advisory capacity during the war time period of Federal operation of the railroads and was consulted several times by President Wilson. He took an active interest in the solution of problems incident to the return of the roads to private ownership and operation, and many of the reforms which he had advocated and worked for were embodied in the transportation act under the provisions of which American railroads are now functioning.

Fought Way to Top.

When Congress was grappling last October with difficulties incident to the need of railroad reorganization Mr. Trumbull submitted a plan for the solution of the problem to the chairmen of both the House and Senate committees on interstate commerce. It set forth in detail many of the provisions which were incorporated later in the new legislation.

Frank Trumbull was born November 7, 1858, in Arcadia, Mo., the son of Walter B. and Virginia (Thomas) Trumbull. His father was a school teacher, of an old New England family. His mother, who died in 1887, was lineally descended from Gov. William Randolph of Virginia.

Young Trumbull had to begin earning his living at 12 years of age. During the period when most boys are struggling through the seventh and eight grades and the first two years of high school he was earning his way, first as clerk in a bookstore and later, at the age of 14, as deputy postmaster of Pleasant Hill, Mo.

When he was 16 he tackled his first real job in railroading. He was admitted as a clerk in the comptroller's office of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas. Thirty-eight years later he was elected chairman of the board of the same company. But up to that zenith he had to work his way step by step. He was fourteen years going through the accounting offices of the "Katy" and the Missouri Pacific, and in 1886 he was appointed auditor of the Texas and Pacific.

He went to Colorado in 1888 and for five years was in the wholesale coal business. Mr. Trumbull considered those years very useful, for he used to say that it was then he obtained the viewpoint of the shipper rather than of the carrier. During that time he also made reports for New York and London bankers on various Western railroad properties.

In 1893 he was appointed receiver and general manager of the Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf. This was the bankrupt branch of the Union Pacific, which Mr. Trumbull developed, extended, connected with the Fort Worth and Denver City and made into the Colorado and Southern. In that work he was associated with Grenville M. Dodge and later with Edwin Hawley and with the Huntingtons.

Sold Road to Hill.

The Colorado and Southern at that time had a total mileage of 762 standard gauge miles and 380 narrow gauge miles. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1900, the total operating revenues amounted to $4,238,000 and operating expenses to $3,133,000. Earnings were at the rate of $3,712 per mile of road. It was not until 1902 that Edwin Hawley became a member of the board of directors, but Mr. Hawley and Mr. Trumbull retained their interest in the company until Mr. Trumbull effected the sale of a controlling part of the stock to the late James J. Hill.

This sale took place in 1909. The total mileage operated June 30, 1908, was 1,952 miles. The total operating revenues amounted to $14,281,000 and the operating income amounted to $4,635,000. The company had no floating debt and was paying regular dividends on its first and second preferred stock.

In 1908, when the Colorado and Southern sale was carried out, Mr. Trumbull was fifty, and his inclination was to retire. He had had many years of exceedingly hard work and a great deal of sickness. It was just prior to this time that the Pennsylvania Railroad had divested itself of its interest in the stock of the Chesapeake and Ohio, and this stock was being held by the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Mr. Trumbull was persuaded by his associates to join them in the purchase of this stock and to become chairman of the board of directors of the company. A controlling interest in the Hocking Valley was for sale, and Mr. Trumbull bought this for the Chesapeake and Ohio.

Founded Railroad Board.

About the same time Edwin Hawley put through negotiations for the purchase by the Chesapeake and Ohio of the line from Cincinnati to Chicago, which is now known as the Chicago line of the Chesapeake and Ohio. The Hocking Valley was a valuable investment for the Chesapeake and Ohio.

Mr. Trumbull married on June 8, 1881, Miss Cora Hale, who died on December 7, 1889. His second wife was Miss Mary A. Sisson, daughter of Frederick P. Sisson of Illinois. He was a member of the Metropolitan and Lawyers clubs, New York city; of the City, Midday and Economic clubs, the New England and Missouri societies, the Society of Colonial Wars, the Automobile Club of America and of the Denver Club of Denver, Col. He was a member also of the board of directors of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute and vice chairman of the New York Committee of the Civic League for Immigrants.

QUATZ' ARTS BALL, WILD PARIS ORGY

Shortage of Models Causes Students to Invade Cafes for Girls.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1920, by THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD.

PARIS, July 13.—The wildest orgy Paris has witnessed since the outbreak of the world war opened France's celebration of her national holiday last night, when thousands of persons attempted to force an entrance to a hall where the Quatz' Arts ball was in progress.

Sixteen hundred students held tickets to this ball, which usually has been the gayest and wildest affair of the year, and invitations were issued to 400 models, none of whom boasted of more clothing than was actually required by law, while even this disappeared to a great extent as the morning hours approached.

The shortage of models, however, became apparent and the revellers invaded the boulevard cafes, rounding up fillettes in order not to delay the programme and the joyousness. Male revellers were garbed in robes of ancient Egypt, while the dress of many of their companions antedated the Egyptian period by at least a score of centuries, in certain cases approaching that of the Eden mode.

As the procession moved along the Champs Elysees, thousands of hilarious citizens and tourists joined in its wake, but found themselves against a solid wall of police when they tried to convince the guards that they had a right to enter the dance hall. Even the Republican Guards were called out to preserve order as the rioters continued to mingle the music of jazz bands and the popping of champagne corks.

All public buildings in Paris are illuminated to-night and there is public dancing in the streets, all police restrictions having been lifted for the occasion. A great military review will be held in Vincennes to-morrow despite the absence of both President Deschanel and Premier Millerand.

There will be another day of rejoicing and dancing to-morrow, with fireworks and side shows, and the celebration of the fourteenth will continue until Thursday morning.

FUNERAL OF ADMIRAL FISHER.

Burial will take place to-morrow at Kilverstone Hall, Norfolk, where the body will be conveyed to the churchyard on a farm wagon covered with the same Union Jack used at the funeral of Lady Fisher. Eight sailors will carry the coffin across the lawn to the grave.

John W. Davis, the American Ambassador, was among the large number of distinguished personages attending the services, and American naval officers were stationed with British officers in the west door of the Abbey when the procession arrived.
