

'IDLE RICH' MUST WORK, SAYS WOMAN

Mrs. S. B. French, War Worker, Declares Employment Is Bolshevist Antidote.

SHE EXPLAINS SOCIALISM

Finds Unrest Due to Failure of Wealthy to Realize Responsibilities.

The "idle rich" and all persons of large property holdings in the United States must go to work if Bolshevism is not to grip America, Mrs. Seth Barton French, prominent in New York society, who has been engaged in war work abroad for the last five years, declared yesterday before sailing for Europe on the White Star liner Adriatic.

Mrs. French said it was her intention to return next spring to engage in business herself. Owing to the fact that her arrangements are not yet complete she would not discuss her plans, but said emphatically that it was time for those with money to get busy and correct the wrong impression now existing in this country concerning those who are favored with the good things of life.

"Although I have only been here a short time on private business, I have found out that there is a wrong attitude here toward Bolshevism," she said. "While I hold no brief for it, it is generally understood here to stand for murder, rapine and seizure of private property. Many fail to see that it is only a sort of advanced Socialism, and that it must be examined from that angle too. The people in America must wake up. Time All Should Work."

"When people drive a high-powered car at a speed endangering the lives of children of workers playing in the streets they are making Bolshevists, and making them fast, for the workers do not see why the rich are not working as they are. It is time that young men who are spending the wealth made by their fathers wake up to the danger that is threatening."

"America has made great wealth from the world war and has suffered but little in comparison with England and France, which count their dead above a million each. The least that can be done here is to come to a realization of the responsibilities that come with wealth. Work is the true correction of things for a long time to come."

J. P. Morgan sailed with Mrs. Morgan for a vacation of about six weeks in England and France. Mr. Morgan reiterated that his trip was for pleasure, and for pleasure only.

Dr. Serge Voronoff, the Russian scientist who startled the world by his experiments in the grafting of glands as a means of renewing vitality, sailed with Mrs. Voronoff, who is the daughter of the late Jabez A. Bealwick, Standard Oil magnate. During his stay of several weeks Dr. Voronoff demonstrated the transference of glands from animal to animal.

Before sailing on the Adriatic, Col. Duncan F. V. Neill, D. S. O., yachting adviser to Sir Thomas Lipton, went to Tiffany's to take a last long look at the America's Cup, which the Shamrock IV shook, but did not win. Sir Thomas and many others went to the pier to see him off.

Others on Adriatic.
Also on the Adriatic were Hugh Gibson, American Minister to Poland, who recently had a conference with President Wilson; Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Curtis, Major Sir George A. Dalby and Lady Dalby, Mr. and Mrs. Martin W. Littleton, Col. and Mrs. Frank Milburn Smith, James A. Smith, United States Consul at Calcutta; Countess Castell Solenas, Mrs. Rodman Wainmaker and Dr. Frederic E. Southern, president of the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital.

The Cunard liner Kaiserin Augusta Victoria also sailed, bound for Liverpool, with 1,000 passengers, including Capt. W. A. Bambr, commander of the Lamport & Holt liner Tennessee; Timothy Healy, president of the Stationary Firemen's Union; Countess Pappenheim and Samuel Ralston, former Governor of Indiana.
