BACK HOME WITH THE JAPS.

There is probably no one item that is commanding the attention of the public more closely than the anti-Japanese sentiment on the Pacific coast—and to the American there is no type of humanity so despicable as the Japanese who are coming to this country by the thousands, and who are doing more to ruin the welfare of labor on the coast than all other classes of foreigners in the United States. Some sort of legislation should be enacted without undue delay to put a stop to the influx of those people—as well as to unload the Japanese population we have.

Matters have gotten to a stage where something must be done to relieve the situation. It is not a time for heated agitation on the part of orators of the radical type. There is, on the contrary, a crying demand for the conservative element to get down to business and enact such legislation as will rid the Pacific coast and in fact the entire union, of Japanese.

This can be accomplished by the use of good judgment, and thereby not involve the United States in a war with Japan. War is undesirable and should always be avoided when possible—and in this instance there seems no good reason why anti-Japanese legislation should culminate in a bloody conflict.

It is the plain duty of American citizens to protect themselves against any undesirable race—let it be Japanese, Chinese or Hindus; and the better class of Japanese—representatives of Japan's government—must readily concede that the situation is one which should be solved along lines of conservative legislation. Japan is fully aware that most of her subjects in the United States are an undesirable class, and she should see it as a clearly defined duty she owes the world, to enter into any treaty which will put a stop to further immigration of her subjects to America, and to aid in ridding the United States of the thousands of Japs now within our borders.

ANOTHER BULLETIN ARGUMENT (?)

"Do the Tonopah people who are opposing county division remember what many of them said when going fifty-two miles to Belmont, at that time the county seat. Didn't every mother's son of them, singly and collectively, swear by all the gods of war the distance was too far for them to go in order to transact business at the county capital and with one accord start an agitation for its removal to a more central point? Now these same people ask the inhabitants of southern Nye to continue to travel twice that distance when compelled by business to visit Tonopah."—Rhyolite Bulletin.

Ye gods! What an argument! Try again, brother; try again. When the county seat of Nye county was situated at Belmont there was no railroad connecting it with other towns and the mode of travel was by wagon. Even the automobile had not made its advent into the desert. Then again at the time the county seat was removed the population of Belmont aggregated some forty people, while the residents of Tonopah numbered some 6000.

A number of Tonopah people who have gone to Pioneer and are among the heavy investors of that camp are strongly opposed to the county division affair and state that they will fight against any such measure which may be introduced into the legislature.

RENO AND THE DIVORCE LAW.

Reno made a strong fight against the new divorce law which was defeated in the senate. Well, why shouldn't they? Whatever Reno wants should be granted—for they are always out for the right, and it would be a howling shame for the legislature to deprive attorneys of that thriving city from making an honest livelihood.

Never mind the disgrace the present law is to the state. The only fact to be considered is that the sole practice of a number of Reno's legalites would be considerably decreased, and then they would have to study law for a living. Cruel legislatures.

The Reno Anti-Gambling league had better save their postage stamps and kindly refrain from sending this office any more of their literature—the junk goes into the waste basket. This paper is on record for "the lid off in Nevada." It is not our desire to enter that psalm-singing, calamity-shouting aggregation at present. Let them run the churches, and the people who so desire to take a smile and stake a dollar on a game of chance certainly have the right to do so without any interference on the part of this bunch of "holy ones" who think they have a mission in life. Gambling was conducted in this state before this crowd of haloed curbstone politicians ever thought of coming to Nevada—and if they do not like the way Nevada conducts itself—why, move on. There are other states.

Speaker Giffen's make-believe ravings has caused an injury to this state in the east that will take years to repair. It is nauseating even to the people of his own county. The Democratic censure of the man who has made a burro of himself throughout the sagebrush land is severe. Giffen's crown of "glory" is now worn upside down labeled "little me."

Nevada legislators will ask the president to please open and maintain our little mint at Carson, and before he would have time to answer he is given a great "upper cut" in the jaw. It is better to put a man on the shoulder when you wish to accomplish some good than to go after him in a boisterous and harsh manner.

Why don't the legislature wake up to real economy and do something towards making Nevada's school fund a godsend to our farming contingent? Legislation of this sort would have a tendency to prove to voters that our lawmakers are in dead earnest about being economic.

And to think—Mr. Giffen says he is conservative! If he really believes what he says, Nevadans should not criticize him too severely—rather, they should be inclined to be sympathetic.

The world-wide reputation Nevada is getting (and is not a good one, either) as a result of Mr. Giffen's resolution, is not calculated to do the state of Nevada any particular good.

Speaker Giffen will go back to the "nut pines," and then—unsought and forgotten.

With the recent snow storms—disagreeable as they are—Nevada's sheep raisers can look into the future with that smile that don't wear off.

Evidently Oregon wants to be in the limelight. It has introduced a Japanese resolution prohibiting Japanese, Hindus and Chinese from entering Uncle Sam's domain.

NEVADA ROADS BEING WATCHED FOR FUGITIVE

BISHOP, Feb. 5.—The two toll roads leading across the mountains from Inyo county to Nevada are being guarded tonight by deputies armed with warrants for the arrest of A. A. Stanton, representing San Francisco capitalists, who took a bond on the Monster mine near Big Pine about three months ago and this morning disappeared, leaving many angry creditors. Stanton is most wanted by J. P. Fitting, associated with Charles M. Schwab, who alleges embezzlement, and this morning secured a warrant for Stanton's arrest.

Stanton sent his wife and son north to Mina today on the train, but, realizing he was watched, secretly secured two horses, and, with a guide, took to the hills, presumably headed for Nevada. Within half an hour after his disappearance Fitting secured a warrant and urged Constable Logan to take up the trail. The nearest road from Big Pine to Nevada is across the White mountains over the Goldfield toll road. Heavy snowfalls in the mountains, however, have completely blocked traffic. A high wind accompanied by snow furies, it is believed, has caused the riders to go astray.

Stanton has had many men employed on the Monster mine taking out ore and shipping this to the smelter at Keeler. He kept the returns for the ore, neglecting to pay his bills and refused, also, to come through with the royalties on the ore due Fitting and Schwab.
