Chase and Medill--A few facts in Contrast.

The Newark Advocate says: "It is well nigh two years since Salmon P. Chase has been Governor of Ohio. In all that time, he has written nothing in which a single word can be found urging the necessity of restraining the State Treasurer from an illegal or improper use of the public money.

In his inaugural address, he spoke eloquently in favor of NEGRO FREEDOM, but said NOT A WORD concerning the safety of the public money.

In his annual message last January, he has much to say about mismanagement in the affairs of the State House and new public institutions, but he utters NOT A WORD in regard to the necessity of placing a better control over the State Treasury.

☞He is MUM on that subject although his Attorney General had obtained from the Treasurer, a large amount of public money on which he established a private BROKER SHOP in Cleveland.

☞He is MUM although Gibson had failed six months before, to put the July interest (1856) in New York at the time it was due to the public creditors.

☞He is MUM although vast amounts of the public money had been taken from the Treasury and loaned out to various banks and bankers without taking the security required by law.

Whilst MUM on all these matters Gov. Chase was NOT silent where he felt disposed to speak. In his annual message, he had much to say in scandal of the extravagance of his predecessors. He had, also, much to say about "bleeding Kansas,"—but not a word did he utter not a SUGGESTION did he make that would give "aid and comfort" to the friends of "TREASURY REFORM."

Leaving Gov. Chase where the foregoing facts necessarily place him, let us now turn to Gov. Medill and see in the foregoing extracts from two annual messages, the contrast which they present to the MUM policy of the "Model Governor" now in office.

Extract from Gov. Medill's first Annual Message, Jan. '54.

"Intimately connected with the tax laws is the custody of the public money between its connection and disbursement. The money collected upon the grand duplicate in one year is not disbursed until the year following, so that much of our public revenue remains one year and more in the State and County Treasuries. Evils have arisen from this which require early attention. Our revenue officers have been tempted to use the public funds for purposes of private emolument. The pernicious influences that must necessarily flow from such malfeasance to say nothing of the danger to which the public treasurer is exposed, are too obvious for comment * * * At all events, the most stringent laws should at once be passed against the private use of the revenues of the State, which no well organized government permit for a moment."

Extract from the last Annual Message of Gov. Medill, Jan. 55

"A practice is said to have grown up in many of the large towns, of Banks and Brokers paying interest on deposits. The State surely has no objections to this when confined to the transactions of private individuals. But it is also charged that these establishments sometimes become the depositories of public officers, and that large sums are realized by speculating upon the money of the people. These representations may have their origin in MERE SUSPICION, but they have called forth a feeling of dissatisfaction and alarm, that can only be allayed by the adoption of such measures as will prevent the possibility of so dangerous a practice. The present statues are defective in this particular, and require revision. The public money should be guarded with the utmost care, and all application of it, except for the purposes for which it was raised, should be strictly prohibited by law.

☞A wealthy but miserly old man, dining out one day at a restaurant with his son, whispered in his years—

"Tom, you must eat for to-day and to-morrow."

"Oh, yes, retorted the half-starved youth, "but I hain't eaten for yesterday and the day before yet, father!"

☞There is a good story told of a young man who had a light and incipient mustache. One day, while fingering the few hairs, he said to Harry, "Had'nt I better dye this mustache?" "Oh no," Harry; "let it alone, and it will die itself."

☞St. Cyprian says that "the conversation of women is the devil's own bird lime to catch and enslave men."

Cyprian was a saint which accounts for his peculiar opinion. Pity he had not been married.

☞One of the most important female qualities is the sweetness of temper. Heaven did not give women insinuation and persuasion in order to be surly, it did not give her a sweet voice to be employed in scolding.

☞Persons "cured" by quacks should be in haste to give their certificates to that effect. They generally die very soon afterwards.

☞By doing good with his money, a man, as it were, stamps the image of God upon it, and makes it pass current for the merchandise of heaven.

☞A young lady inquired the other day of a sailor why a ship was always called she? "Because," replied the sailor, "the rigging always costs more than the hull."

☞Will sixteen carat gold make good vegetable soup?

END OF A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN

The celebrated Lady Hamilton was distinguished almost above every other of her age for personal beauty. Her accomplishments were scarcely inferior to her beauty. She was skillful in music and painting, she had exquisite taste, and her features would express every emotion by turns. The only occasion on which Bedford, of Fonthill Abbey, threw open his splendid mansion to company was when Lady Hamilton along with Lord Nelson visited it. All that the wealth of the wealthy owner could furnish was provided to give splendor to the scene. The grounds were illuminated by lamps and torches, and the interior of the apartments was a blaze of jewelry, gold and silver. Spiced wine and confectionary in golden baskets were handed round to the company. A numerous party was assembled, and Lady Hamilton shone the envy of them all. Attired in a rich costume, she entered with a golden urn in her hands, and recited some verses, which the company was far too polite not to applaud, spoken as they were by one who had such influence over the hero of the hour. No men was there to tell her that all this was deception, that sin surely carried its own punishment with it, and that the pleasure she was enjoying was but a shadow!

Thirteen years after the banquet at Fonthill had taken place, a lady buying some meat for her dog at a butcher's stall in Calais, was thus accosted by the butcher's wife—"Ah, madam, you seem a benevolent lady, and up stairs there is a poor English woman who would be glad for the smallest piece of meat which you are buying for your dog." Who was the grateful recipient of such humble alms? Alas! it was the beautiful Lady Hamilton! After the death of Lord Nelson, deserted by those who had fawned upon her in prosperity, she gradually became impoverished, and died in a wretched lodge at Calais. Her property consisted only of a few pawn-broker's duplicates. Her body was put into a common deal-box, without any inscription; and over the praised of statesman, warriors, poets, and artists, the funeral service was read by an officer of half-pay. She was the end of the beautiful Lady Hamilton.

HENRY B. PAYNE.

The Democratic State Convention of Ohio have made a most excellent nomination for Governor in the person of this gentleman. The selection is fully and entirely in accordance with the popular sentiment of the Democracy of Ohio, as manifested in meetings held previous to the Convention.

Mr. Payne is a resident of Cleveland, and for many years has enjoyed a high position among the able and popular men of the State. His political fidelity is unquestionable, and his private character pure and spotless. He is emphatically a new man, in the political sense, having never before been a candidate for a State office, or known as a seeker after patronage or place. He has been Mayor of Cleveland, and has had other high and local honors bestowed upon him by his neighbors, although a majority are opposed to him in politics.

He is a fine and eloquent speaker, is in the prime of life, and is just the man, in every respect, to bear the Democratic standard in triumph through the State at the next election. He will receive an immense vote on the Western Reserve, and will beat Salmon P. Chase badly in the contest, if the Democracy will only come up to the work with that spirit and vigor which are in in accordance with the present indications.

Pittsburg Post.

☞Nothing better illustrates the proclivities of the Republican party of Ohio on questions of banking, than the constitutional amendments relating to corporations, which the Republican legislature of last winter caused to be submitted to the people at the next State election. This amendment is specious in its tendency, and to the casual reader, may appear harmless. But it is in fact designed to do away with all the safeguards of the new constitution on this subject. Corporations for banking can be now formed only under general laws.

The amendment allows special legislation at the discretion of the legislature. If adopted the exception will become the rule, and we shall be cursed with even a worse system of banking than that which is now saddled upon us. It will be well for the people at a time when our State is suffering so deeply from its connection with the banks to look into this matter, and defeat the nicely laid scheme of the Kelly bankers, who appear to have more complete control over the Republican politicians than they had even over the old Whig party of Ohio.—Toledo Com.

☞Joshua R. Giddings has written a letter to infidel Greeley's Tribune, in which he says the "God of Abraham" is not his God. We know that—the Devil is his God, and the father of all other liars!

☞"Jack," said a man to a lad just entering his teens, "your father's drowned."

"Darn it," replied the young hopeful, "and he's got my knife in his pocket."

☞A chap, reading that Mexican files had been received in New York city, went into a hardware store and asked to look at some of them. He is a brother of the man who inquired for a pound of Liverpool dates received by one of the steamers.

☞The kisses of friends are insipid. Kisses should be sacred to lovers. It is the passion that is in the kiss that gives it its sweetness.

☞We have seen women not only too weak to bear food, but even too weak to bear contradiction.

☞Why is a cat, running after its tail like a Millerite? Because it has its latter end in view.

☞No vices are so incurable as those which men are apt to glory in.

☞An Irishman being on a visit to some of his realatives, a little more polished than himself was requested on going to bed, to be careful to extinguish the candle, he was obliged to ask the meaning of the word, when he was told to put it out. He treasured up the term, and one day he was sitting at home with his wife, enjoying his potatoes and buttermilk, when a pig unceremoniously walked in, whereupon he said proud of his bit of learning,

"Judy, dear, will you extinguish the pig?"

"Arrah now, Pat, me honey, what ded ye mane?" inquired Judy.

"Hush then, you ignorant erature," replied Pat, "it manes put him out to be sure."

☞Relatives are not necessarily our best friends; but they cannot do us an injury without being enemies to themselves.

☞When you go to drown yourself, always pull off your clothes—they may fit your wife's second husband.

☞A sound head, an honest heart, and an humble spirit, are the three best guides through time and eternity.

HEALTH OR SICKNESS?
CHOOSE BETWEEN THEM.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

The blood furnishes the material of every bone, muscle, gland and fibre in the human frame. When pure, it secures health to every organ; when corrupt, it necessarily produces disease. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS operate directly upon the elements of the stream of life, neutralizing the principle of diseases, and thus radically curing the malady, whether located in the nerves, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, the muscles, the skin, the brain, or any other part of the system.

Used Throughout The World!

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are equally efficacious in complaints common to the whole human race, and in disorders peculiar to certain climates and localities.

ALARMING DISORDERS.

Dyspepsia, and derangement of the liver, the source of infirmity and suffering, and the cause of innumerable deaths, yield to these curatives, in all cases, however aggravated, acting as a mild purgative, alterative and tonic; they relieve the bowels, purify the fluids, and invigorate the system and the constitution at the same time.

General Weakness---Nervous Complaints.

When all stimulants fail, the renovating and bracing properties of these Pills give firmness to the shaking nerves and enfeebled muscles of the victim of general debility.

DELICATE FEMALES.

All irregularities and ailments incident to the delicate and and sensitive organs of the sex are removed or prevented by a few doses of these mild, but infallible alteratives. No mother who regards her own or her children's health should fail to have them within her reach.

SCIENTIFIC ENDORSEMENTS.

The London "Lancet," the London "Medical Review;" and the most eminent of the faculty in Great Britain France and Germany, have eulogized the Pills and their inventor.

A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.
