Time for Advertising.

We notice that our merchants are receiving their Spring Stock of goods, which fact cannot be so well and advantageously known to the community...

Panorama of Arctic Explorations.

This splendid painting which covers over 3300 feet of canvass, will be exhibited at the Town Hall, this (Wednesday) and to-morrow (Thursday) evenings...

An Adjourned Session.

The prospects at present are that we will have an adjourned session of the Legislature. A joint resolution to adjourn from April 12th to the first Monday in January...

Fire.

On Sunday afternoon last, our citizens were alarmed by the cry of fire, which, however resulted in nothing more than an alarm—a small frame dwelling near the depot was thought to be on fire...

Our neighbor of the Register is very sadly mistaken when he says we "reviled lustily over the fact that it (the Democrat) seconded the motion" of H. B. Payne's nomination for Governor...

Our readers should bear in mind that they all need something to regulate them, to keep them "in time," and that the place to find the article is at Chamber's Jewelry establishment.

Keep Together!

"Democrats, stand together! Don't let a temporary question divide you—Whether Lecompton or anti-Lecompton, you can still be Democrats. Don't read or be read out of the party. Differ, but not divide."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Right to the Point.

The Chillicothe Advertiser, at the time Payne made his first move in the anti-Lecompton ranks, spoke very severely of his disorganizing course.

The Democracy of Ohio have already suffered sufficiently by the management of some of these worthies; and it is doubtful whether they will be willing much longer to endure them.

The Louisville Democrat speaking of the passage of the Lecompton constitution says: After Congress assents that this shall be the constitution of Kansas...

Certainly not, nor does the Federal Government wish to help itself. The position of the Lecompton Democrats and the President is one designed to help the people of Kansas more than themselves.

The President's Kansas Policy.

We agree with the Dayton Empire that there is not a day passes over our heads but develops the wisdom of the President in his Kansas policy...

This was the policy of the Democratic party in 1854; it was the policy upon which Mr. Buchanan was nominated and elected in 1856; it was the policy of the Democratic party in 1857, and it is the policy of the party now in 1858...

This was the settled policy of the country in regard to the much vexed question of territorial government. It was so understood and advocated by Douglas and Walker and Wise and the whole party...

Kansas has knocked for admission into the Union with a constitution "Republican in form," framed, adopted and presented in pursuance of the law...

Croakers Again.

The New York Tribune and press of that character, as has been their character in the past, are now discouraging emigration to Kansas by mistaken representations in regard to the late election...

The whole tendency of these croaking papers, from first to last, has been to make Kansas what those journals have professed a duty to avoid. Our only hope of saving Kansas to freedom lay through emigration...

For the carrying out of this principle, the President and those who coincided with him, are assailed, not only by the Black Republicans, but by those from whom we have a right to expect other treatment...

They have no right to go behind or before this. They have no authority to reject and send back a constitution to the people of the Territories because they find some objectionable feature in it...

Then what objection is offered to her admission under this constitution. Simply the same objection that has been made to the policy of the party for the last four years...

admission under this constitution. Simply the same objection that has been made to the policy of the party for the last four years...

"Old Hickory" and "Old Buck." We love to indulge in comparison, especially when the objects are endearing, and contrast but imparts additional charms to them.

Those who are old enough, says our cotemporary, can well remember the thrilling political times incident to the removal of the government deposits from the Bank of the United States...

We predict that similar will be the case with James Buchanan and those Democrats who have deserted him on a vitally important question.

Removal of the Oldest Inhabitants.

Senator Pugh's Amendment.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, in a late letter, has the following in relation to the proposed amendment of Senator PUGH to the bill for the admission of Kansas:

"I find that the Democratic Senators are generally in favor of adopting Mr. Pugh's amendment to the Kansas Bill. There are but two Southern, and no Northern Democratic Senators, who declare their determination to resist it."

"The Southern States-rights men who objected to Mr. Pugh's amendment to the Lecompton Bill, will accept it substantially."

"SECTION.—And be it further enacted, That the admission of the States of Minnesota and Kansas into the Union, by this act shall never be so construed as to deny, limit, or otherwise impair the right of the people of said States, with the assent of their Legislatures, severally, at all times, to alter, reform, or abolish their form of government, in such manner as they may think proper, so that the same be still republican and in accordance with the Constitution of the United States."

The New York Commercial Advertiser, (Anti-Lecompton) closes an article on the subject with the following confession:

"Such reliable assurances be given that such an amendment as Mr. Pugh proposes would be valid and operative, there probably would be little further opposition to the immediate admission of the Territory, the actual wrong committed, and the violated pledges of the President notwithstanding."

The amendment of Mr. PUGH is simply an affirmative of a well-known article in the Democratic creed, and which is the foundation on which popular sovereignty rests. Should Congress adopt it, it will be in the nature of instructions to the Executive to do, so far as he legitimately can, the people of Kansas in asserting their right to alter, reform or abolish their form of government, in accordance with that section of the law.

Governor Weller and the Kansas Question.

A letter from California to the Philadelphia Press, asserting that Governor WELLER and other prominent Democrats of that State, were opposed to the Kansas policy of the President had been going the rounds of the Republican and DOUGLAS papers, with the usual comments, for some time.

"As, however, the statement has been again reiterated that Governor Weller is opposed to the views of President Buchanan, we are authorized to say that he stands by the Administration."

The Senate, yesterday, passed a bill amending the act prescribing the duties of Attorney General. A resolution to adjourn on the 12th of April to the first Monday in January next was defeated by the casting vote of the Lieutenant-Governor.

The House concurred in the Senate amendments to the bill reviving the act of Feb. 24, 1848, allowing fees to the country auditors for filling and preserving certain papers.

PARTY FEALTY AND PARTY ALIENS There is going on all over the country, a fearful hollowing among a lot of political harlequins who seem to fear proscription by the administration and the loss of Democratic character.

Lecompton Constitution passed the Senate.

We clip the following from the congressional proceedings of Tuesday last:

When Mr. Crittenden concluded, Mr. Green without further remarks, withdrew Minnesota from the bill altogether, and moved three amendments to the original bill. Firstly—To strike out the preamble and insert the following: "Whereas the people of the Territory of Kansas did by a convention of delegates, called and assembled at Lecompton, on the 9th day of September, 1857, form for themselves a constitution and State government, which said Convention, having asked for the admission of the Territory into the Union as a State on an equal footing with the original States, &c. Carried—Secondly—To amend the second section by inserting, 'that nothing in this act shall be construed as to abridge or infringe on any right of the people at all times to alter, reform or abolish their form of government, in such a manner as they may think proper, Congress hereby disclaim any authority to intervene or declare any instruction of the constitution, except to see that it is republican in form and not in conflict with the Constitution of the United States.'"

Mr. Pugh withdrew his amendment of March 2, to the amendment of Mr. Green, and substituted another, setting forth that the Federal laws shall not inapplicable be extended into the State of Kansas; that a judicial district be formed, and that a Judge, District Attorney and a United States Marshal be appointed and paid as in Iowa.
