The Weather and the Crops.

The unusual wet weather, which has prevailed all over the Western States, during the last three weeks, has made farming, to any extent, impossible, and the consequence is, very little Corn has been planted as yet. Letters which came to hand during the past week, speak very gloomily of the prospects as regards the Corn crop. In Illinois Kentucky, Indiana, and this State, not over one-fifth of a crop has as yet, been planted; and the ground is generally so wet, that no attempt can be made to plant. Ordinarily, Corn planting is finished at this date, though in some years, planting has been done to some extent, about the 1st of June, but when planted so late, a late and favorable season is required to mature it. Should the weather become dry now, and remain so throughout the remainder of the month, no fears need be entertained that a sufficient quantity will not be planted to make a large crop; but the indications to last evening, did not indicate this. The weather is also unfavorable for Wheat, making it grow too luxuriant, and therefore liable to "lodge" and to injury by "rust."—Rye is already in head, and looks promising. Grass is very luxuriant, and the yield of Hay must be enormous.

As a general thing, with the exception of Corn, the prospect of a most abundant harvest are, so far, highly favorable. The supply of all kinds of agricultural produce promises to be abundant; and should the weather become dry now, which, to say the least, it is not unreasonable to expect, the Corn crop will not be an exception.

The Fruit, chiefly Peaches and Cherries, have been injured by frosts in some localities, but on the whole, taking the country together, the yield will be abundant. In the Southern States where the greatest alarm prevailed regarding the damage by frost, it has been found, according to the advices by the last mails, that the injury was but partial and confined to certain localities. In the vicinity of Knoxville, Tennessee, where it was thought the Fruit had been all killed, it has been ascertained there will be an average crop.—Cin. Price Current.

Our Navy Now and In 1816.

The Washington States is discussing the present condition of our Navy as compared with its condition in 1816.—Thirty effective ships of all classes, it says, compose the present navy of the United States; these are all in commission, and upon them alone are we to rely for protection against insult. Is not this a deplorable state of things, it enquires, when it is considered that we have a commercial marine, exceeding in tonage and enterprise that of any other nation on the globe? The "States" adds, that:

"Forty-two years ago we found seventy-four vessels, all in good and effective condition, necessary to give protection to our commerce, which was only eight hundred thousand tones; while now we find that with a commerce of nearly five millions of tone, we have but thirty ships-of-war in commission to protect it; which number could only be increased from our present naval resources to the number of fifty, and even then at great expense and delay. What excuse can there be for such neglect to our navy? Other nations have nutured their navies and kept pace with their other material developments, but we seem to have neglected it until it is really a farce.

The whole effective force of the British navy in 1858 is 843 vessels.

Leaving out the vessels engaged in "harbor service," we find the British navy to consist of seven hundred and thirty-five vessels of all classes, while the United States navy consists of thirty in commission, and probably fifty effective vessels of all classes, although the commercial marine tonnage of the United States exceeds that of Great Britain.

"In view of these facts, it is no wonder that Palmerston left as a lagacy to Lord Derby the admiralty orders to search well all United States merchantmen even suspected of being engaged in the slave-trade. If they do give offence in executing these orders, an apology will make the amende honorable, as they know the President has no means to exact more. But, thank God, this artful diplomatist has missed his mark for once. The Premier is, to a great extent, the Government of England; but neither the President nor Congress is the Government of this country. The people can be heard here, and on some subjects their voice is like thunder, and this is one of them; its tones are becoming so clear, and distinct, that Cabinets, and even Congress, if it respects its brief authority, must listen."

"There could not have been a more propitious moment for us, in the last fifty years, to adjust this principle of "free trade and sailors' rights" than the present, and a more unpropitious for England. We are free from any "entangling alliance," and have at the helm an old and tried statesman, who baffled Pam himself, while in London, and for which the Premier has, perhaps, never forgiven him As a coadjutor is the venerable Secretary of State, who gained his first prominent diplomatic fame in Franc, against England on this very point.

"England has her cares just now engrossed with India, China, and France; while her commercial classes are so dependent upon us, that, to wage war with us on a principle which is so manifestly our just due, would cost her a revolution at home more dreadful than any foreign invasion."

☞A rich man one day asked a man of wit what sort of a thing opulence was? "It is a thing," replied the philosopher, "which can give a rascal the advantage over an honest man!"

☞"Here's Webster on a bridge," said Mrs. Partington, as she handed Ike the dictionary. "Study it contentively, and you will gain a great deal of inflammation."

☞The smallest and slightest impediments are the most annoying, and as little letters most tire the eyes, so do little affairs most disturb us.

The American Tract Society.

Abolitionism has a thousand artful wiles by which it seeks access to the public mind. Every avenue to credulity, prejudice or conscience, is eagerly appropriated, and antislavery sentiments of every grade inculcated, from the bitter, defiant, blasphemous intensity of Garrison, to the mild and christian fervor of those divines who believeto to be their duty to bear testimony against the sin of slave-holding. Yet, although there is unceasing activity, continuing, preserving untiring agitation, on the, part of political as well as religious abolitionism, it is a remarmable as well as encouraging fact that as soon as the noisy workers are brought before the competent tribunal to test their relative numbers, they at once dwindled into a faction, and are overpowered by the national conservative sentiment of the country. While in the open field, with their declaimers and their presses, they appear from the noise they make to be a mighty host, but when drawn up in a line and counted, the deception vanishes, and their real poverty of numbers can be no longer disguised. The American Tract Society has just gained a splendid victory over the abolition element which sought to use it as a vast machine for the dissemination of anti-slavery tracts. The history of this contest, resulting in the total discomfiture of the abolition wing, is an interesting feature of the times, and an illustration of the fact we have stated, that the agitators have but to be brought in contact with the conservatives to be beaten.

The American Tract Society is an organization embracing all the Protestant denominations of the country, North and South. Its publications have uniformly avoided reference to controverted doctrinal points, or any subject, which would tend to disrupt the bonds of fraternal union; but were confined to essential truths constituting the common ground of all creeds. Some New England and New York minjsters and laymen, who regard slaveholding as the sum of all human depravity, could not rest easy while their christian brethren of the South remained undenounced, and they demanded the publication of tracts assailing the instiution of slavery. This busy faction labored and schemed until, in 1857, they procured the adoption of a resolution providing that those moral duties growing out of the existence of slavery, as weil as those moral evils and vices which it is known to promote, should be discussed in the publications of the society. Under the sanction of this resolution a tract was written instructing masters as to their duties to their slaves, the publication of which would have produced an intense excitement at the South, and caused the immediate disruption of the society. The Executive committee very prudently resolved not to publishthe tract, in view of the incalculable evil it would occasion, and appealed to the annual meeting of the society for an endorsement of their course. That meeting was held on the 13th instant, at New York, and the committee were sustained by a vote of ten to one. The excitement of the controversy drew forth all the members of the society, and the utmost exertions were made on both sides. the anti-slavery wing stimulated by the hope of grasping the great engine of the Christian Church, and hurling it with destructive effect into the midst of those polluted by the sin of slaveholding; the conservative wing animated by a calm determination to stay the desolating tide of agression, and preserve the society from the destructive assaults of the fanatical. The victory of the latter was emphatic and final.

The fact that this very tract upon the duties of masters, which the consciences of some of the restless anti-slavery members of the society demanded should be published, was written by a decided freethinker and laudator of Theodore Parker is an admirable illustration of the genius of Modern New England abolitionism. No fouler spirit ever needed exorcism. Those infected by it have a marvelously acute vision for the mote in their brother's eye. What would have been the use of publishing a tract attracted particularly to masters? It would not have obtained circulation at the South, and at the North it could have no other influence than to inflame already overheated imaginations. Why not leave the task of reproving cruelty, neglect, and the other undoubted evils growing out of the institution of slavery, to the christian minister located in its midst; whose duty it is to preach to the masters. Is not the meddling of Northern ministers, and worse than all, Northern men who make no pretence to christianity, an aggravated insult which even forbearance could not tolerate?—Northern men talk of a conscientious conviction of duty which demands that testimony should be borne against the great national sin of slavery. Suppose the tables to be turned, and that Southern men should demand—and from conscientious conviction of the duty too—a tract against the evils of abolitionism, and its poisonous moral fruits, what could be said against that? Could they not point with reason and truth at the rank infidelity germinating in abolitionism and its offshoots, spiritualism, woman's rights free love and kindred antasies? Could they not show that the religion of Garrison, Parker, Phillips, and the host of abolitionism who disgust and shock the very lowest moral development by their blasphemy and their gasconade, is but a morbid humanitarianism devised by men who have truthlessly trampled out the last sparks of vital christianity? And after uncoiling fold after fold of this slimy monster, and exposing its prolific brood of evil delusions, who would not say that it, as well as slavery, is known to promote moral evils and vices. Let the anti-slavery men who imagine themselves pure enough to rebuke the fancied vices of those at a distance from them, look at it that the South does not institute a critical examination of their faults and subject them to the rack.—Patriot and Union.

☞There is a divinity that shapes our ends," as the pig remarked when he was contemplating the kinks in his tail.

Editorial Life.

There is so much of truth in the following, from the pen of Captain Maryatt, that we must be allowed to quote it. But few readers ever think of the labor and care devolving upon an editor, one who justly feels his responsibility. Capt. Maryatt says:

"I know how a periodical will wear down one's existence. In itself it appears nothing; the labor is not manifest; nor is it the labor, it is the continual attention it requires. Your life becomes, as it were, the publication. One day's paper is no sooner corrected and printed than on comes another. It is the stone of Sisphus, and endless repetition of toil, and constant weight upon the intellect and spirits, demanding all the exertion of your faculties, at the same time that you are compelled to the severest drudgery. To write for a paper is very well. but to edit one is to condemn yourself to slavery."

☞"If ever I'm married," said Ike, looking up from the book he was reading, and kicking the stove door energetically—"If ever I'm married"—"Don't speak of marriage, Isaac, till you are old enough to understand the bond that binds congealing souls. People musn't speak of marriage with impurity. It is the first thing that children think of now a days, and young boys in pinafores and young girls with their heads fricased into spittoon curls, and full of love sick stories, are talking of marrige before they get into their teens. Think of such ones getting married! Yet there's Mr. Spaid, when heaven took his wife away, went right to a young lady's cemetery and got another, no more fit to be the head of a family than I am to be the board of mayor and alderman." She tapped the new box that her friend, the colonel, had given her, with her eye resting upon the gold heart inlaid in the centre of the lid as if the hearts were trumps in her mind at the time, while Ike without finishing the sentence kept on with his reading, accompanying himself with a pedal performance on the stove door, and a clatter upon the round of his chair with the handle of a fork in his left hand.

☞A good old Know Nothing Methodist, having read a great deal in the papers about the "Conference Kansas Bill," says he thinks Conference, might find something better to do than be getting up bills about Kansas.

THE PERFUME
OF THE
WESTERN HEMISPHERE
FRESH FROM LIVING FLOWERS.

MURRAY AND LANMANS
FLORIDA WATER.

This rare perfume and cosmetic is prepared from TROPICAL FLOWERS of surpassing fragrance, without any admixture of coarse essential oils, which form the staple of many "Essences" and "Extracts for the Toilet." Its Aroma is as inexhaustable as that of the "Farina Cologne," and as fresh and delicate as the breath of LIVING BLOSSOMS.

What are its Antecedents!

For twenty years it has maintained its ascendency over all other perfumes throughout Cuba, South America and the West Indies. It has been introduced into the United States, in response to the earnest demand growing out of its SOUTHERN REPUTATION A cure for HEADACHE AND FAINTNESS!

As an odor for the handkerchief, it is as delicious as the "Otto of Roses." It lends freshness and transparency to the complexion; and removes headache and faitness.

A MEDICAL REVOLUTION?
THE WORLD UNANIMOU

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

THE GREAT COUNTER IRRITANT

The virtue of disease often makes its way to the internal organs through the pores of the skin. This penetrating Ointment, melting under the hand as it is rubbed in, is absorbed thro' the same channels, and, reaching the seat of inflamation, promply and invariably subdues it whether located in the kidneys, the liver, the lungs, or any other important organ. It penetrates the surface to the interior, through the countless tubes that communicate with the skin as summer rain passes into the fevered earth diffusing its cool and regenerating influence.

Skin Diseases and Glandular Swellings.

Every species of exterior irritation is quickly reduced by the anti-inflammatory action of this Ointment. Angra ERUPTIONS, such as SALT RHEUM, ERYSIPELAS, TETTER RINGWORM, SCALD HEAD, NETTLE RASH, SCABIES (or Itch) &c., die out, to return no more, under its application.—Hospital experience in all parts of the world proves its infallibility in diseases of the skin the muscles, the joints and the glands.

ULCERS, SORES AND TUMORS.

The effect of this unrivaled external remedy upon Scrofula, and other virulent ulcers and sores, is almost miraculous. It first discharges the poison which produces suppuration and proud flesh, and thus the cures which its healing properties afterward complete are safe as well as permanent.

Wounds, Bruises, Burns and Scalds.

In cases of the fracture of bones, injuries caused by steam explosions, BRUISES, BURNS, SCALDS RHEUMATISM, STIFFNESS OF THE JOINTS, and contraction of the sinews, it is employed and warmly recommended by the faculty. This marvelous remedy has been introduced by its inventor in person into all the leading Hospitals of Europe and no private household should be without it.

UNDENIABLE TESTIMONY.

The Medical Staff of the French and English Armies in the Crimea have officially signed their approval of Holloway's Ointment, as the most reliable dressing for sabre cuts, stabs, and gun shot wounds. It is also used by the surgeons of the Allied Navies.

Both the Ointment and the Pills should be used in the following cases:

Bunions, Mercurial Eruptions, Swelled Glands, Burns, Piles, Sore Legs, Stiff Joints, Chapped Hands, Rheumatism, Sore Breasts, Sprains, Tetter, Chilblains, Ringworm, Ulcers, Fistula, Salt Rheum, Sore Throats, Gout, Venereal Sores, Scalds, Sores of all kinds, Wounds of all kinds, Lumbago, Skin Diseases,

HEALTH OR SICKNESS?
CHOOSE BETWEEN THEM.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

The blood furnishes the material of every bone, muscle, gland and fibre in the human frame. When pure, it secures health to every organ; when corrupt, it necessarily produces disease. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS operate directly upon the elements of the stream of life, neutralizing the principle of diseases, and thus radically curing the malady, whether located in the nerves, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, the muscles, the skin, the brain, or any other part of the system.

Used Throughout The World!

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are equally efficacious in complaints common to the whole human race, and in disorders peculiar to certain climates and localities.

ALARMING DISORDERS.

Dyspepsia, and derangement of the liver, the source of infirmity and suffering, and the cause of innumerable deaths, yield to these curatives, in all cases, however aggravated, acting as a mild purgative, alterative and tonic; they relieve the bowels, purify the blood, and invigorate the system and the constitution at the same time.

General Weakness—Nervous Complaints.

When all stimulants fail, the renovating and bracing properties of these Pills give firmness to the shaking nerves and enfeebled muscles of the victim of general debility.

DELICATE FEMALES.

All irregularities and ailments incident to the delicate and sensitive organs of the sex are removed or prevented by a few doses of these mild, but infallible alteratives. No mother who regards her own or her children's health should fail to have them within her reach.

SCIENTIFIC ENDORSEMENTS.

The London "Lancet," the London "Medical Review," and the most eminent of the faculty in Great Britain France and Germany, have eulogized the Pills and their inventor.

Holloway's Pills are the best remedy known in the world for the following diseases:

sthma	Diarrhoea	Indigestion
Bowel Complaints	Dropsy	Influenza
Coughs	Debility	Inflamation
Colds	Fever and Ague	Inward Weakness
Chest Diseases	Female Complaints	Headaches
Costiveness	Liver Complaints
Dyspepsia	Stone and Gravel	Lowness of Spirits
Piles	Secondary Symptons
	Venereal Affections	Worms of all kinds

☞Sold at the Manufactories of Professor HOLLOWAY, 80 Maiden Lane, New York, and 244 Strand, London, by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicine throughout the United States and the civilized world, in boxes at 25 cents, 62½ cents, and $1 each.

☞There is a considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patience in every disorder are affixed to each box.

☞CAUTION!—None are genuine unless the words "HOLLOWAY, NEW YORK AND LONDON," are discernable as a WATER-MARK in every leaf of the book of directions around each box or pot; the same may be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.
