

LYING IN STATE

General Grant's Remains in the National Metropolis.

The Journey from the Mountain to New York.

Funeral Services on the Mount—The Stop at Albany, Where Thousands View the Remains.

Mr. McGREGOR, N. Y., August 4.—Within sight of the towering shaft of granite which marks the spot where General John Burgoyne surrendered to the American troops on October 17, 1777, August 4, 1865, took place the funeral of the illustrious General Grant.

The family at the cottage were astir as the morning touched 6 o'clock, and correspondents and guests were moving at the hotel. The mountain train at 6 o'clock had begun bringing up people, and every hour thereafter the little engine drew up at the depot.

Last night the family, in a group and alone, had taken their final farewell of the remains of the dead General, and to-day they gave up his body to the Nation. At 9 o'clock the family, except Mrs. Grant, were paired off for breakfast. After their return, Colonel Grant and his wife, with Mrs. Sartoris, passed upon the ridge at the rear of the cottage, and among the pine, scanned the bright picture of mountain and valley, fresh fields and glittering seas, away to the eastward, and then the train departed for the cottage, and preparations began for the funeral journey. Males and men servants were busy and lay waiting the burden it should carry.

At 10 o'clock the head of a long line of baggage wagons, omnibuses, and various kinds of vehicles, appeared climbing up the steep incline near the eastern outlook, and soon the army of the living departed from the cottage was through with horses and wagons and farmers, with their wives and families.

At 10:30 a train of two cars brought General Hancock and a number of distinguished visitors. The two companies of soldiers were directed to receive the train. They proceeded from the station to the cottage in the following order: General Hancock and his staff, General Sherman and his staff, General Sherman, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls.

The ceremony opened with the reading of a Latin prayer by Rev. Bishop Harris. The hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," was joined in by the whole assemblage of guests with the effect.

Dr. Newman then came forward and delivered a sermon on the subject of the dead General, and his noble and heroic life.

THE FUNERAL SERVICES.

The following is a synopsis of the Grant funeral services.

"Well done, my son, good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of the Lord."—Matthew xxv, 21. My brother, in the history of the world, there is no more noble and heroic life than that of the late General Grant.

At 10:30 a train of two cars brought General Hancock and a number of distinguished visitors. The two companies of soldiers were directed to receive the train. They proceeded from the station to the cottage in the following order: General Hancock and his staff, General Sherman and his staff, General Sherman, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls.

The ceremony opened with the reading of a Latin prayer by Rev. Bishop Harris. The hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," was joined in by the whole assemblage of guests with the effect.

Dr. Newman then came forward and delivered a sermon on the subject of the dead General, and his noble and heroic life.

The following is a synopsis of the Grant funeral services.

conspicuous attendance upon divine worship, and a general expression of the public opinion upon the subject of the late General Grant.

At 10:30 a train of two cars brought General Hancock and a number of distinguished visitors. The two companies of soldiers were directed to receive the train. They proceeded from the station to the cottage in the following order: General Hancock and his staff, General Sherman and his staff, General Sherman, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls.

The ceremony opened with the reading of a Latin prayer by Rev. Bishop Harris. The hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," was joined in by the whole assemblage of guests with the effect.

Dr. Newman then came forward and delivered a sermon on the subject of the dead General, and his noble and heroic life.

The following is a synopsis of the Grant funeral services.

"Well done, my son, good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of the Lord."—Matthew xxv, 21. My brother, in the history of the world, there is no more noble and heroic life than that of the late General Grant.

At 10:30 a train of two cars brought General Hancock and a number of distinguished visitors. The two companies of soldiers were directed to receive the train. They proceeded from the station to the cottage in the following order: General Hancock and his staff, General Sherman and his staff, General Sherman, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls.

The ceremony opened with the reading of a Latin prayer by Rev. Bishop Harris. The hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," was joined in by the whole assemblage of guests with the effect.

THE FUNERAL SERVICES.

The following is a synopsis of the Grant funeral services.

"Well done, my son, good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of the Lord."—Matthew xxv, 21. My brother, in the history of the world, there is no more noble and heroic life than that of the late General Grant.

At 10:30 a train of two cars brought General Hancock and a number of distinguished visitors. The two companies of soldiers were directed to receive the train. They proceeded from the station to the cottage in the following order: General Hancock and his staff, General Sherman and his staff, General Sherman, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls, Senator Everts and General Rufus Ingalls.

The ceremony opened with the reading of a Latin prayer by Rev. Bishop Harris. The hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," was joined in by the whole assemblage of guests with the effect.

Dr. Newman then came forward and delivered a sermon on the subject of the dead General, and his noble and heroic life.

The following is a synopsis of the Grant funeral services.

FOR OUR YOUNG FOLKS.

JOHNNY RUNS AWAY.

The sky was clear, the stars were bright, and the moon was shining brightly. Johnny was sitting on the ground, looking up at the stars.

"I'll take my clothes, I'll take my all, I'll take my life, I'll take my soul, I'll take my everything, I'll take my all."

Tommy Harmon's Lasso. How the Joke of the Farm Was Held in Making an Important Capture.

For a long time Tommy Harmon's lasso was the joke of the farm. He had read somewhere of the wonderful dexterity of Western cowboys with the lasso, and from a description given in that account he had made himself a very fair specimen.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

Tommy, accordingly, baited a steel-trap with a nice young chicken, and set it between the barn and the wood shed, and he was sure to catch it.

FOR SUNDAY READING.

PRECIOUS PROMISES.

"I will not leave you comfortless, I will come to you."—John, 14:18.

The mind of Christ does not mean His capacity or type of mind. No man may hope to attain these.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

FOR SUNDAY READING.

PRECIOUS PROMISES.

"I will not leave you comfortless, I will come to you."—John, 14:18.

The mind of Christ does not mean His capacity or type of mind. No man may hope to attain these.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

FOR SUNDAY READING.

PRECIOUS PROMISES.

"I will not leave you comfortless, I will come to you."—John, 14:18.

The mind of Christ does not mean His capacity or type of mind. No man may hope to attain these.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

FOR SUNDAY READING.

PRECIOUS PROMISES.

"I will not leave you comfortless, I will come to you."—John, 14:18.

The mind of Christ does not mean His capacity or type of mind. No man may hope to attain these.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.

The mind that was in Christ is not a sorrowful following of His life and way.