AFTER.

when I was holding an office under that party.

"I told Mr. Collins that I had said this to Mr. Sawyer and that I could do nothing whatever, even though I felt the Democrats in this combine were enemies of mine and working against me; that he could do as he pleased in this matter.

"He told me to tell Mr. Wannamaker that he wanted to see him. I delivered this message to Mr. Wannamaker without making any comment upon it whatever. I heard nothing more concerning this matter.

"I never knew he made a trip to Peninsula, until I saw the statement made in the Beacon Journal a few evenings ago. I never said a word to him or any other Democrat in Mr. Wannamaker's behalf, nor did I ever pay a single penny to Mr. Collins or any other living soul to assist Mr. Wannamaker or any other Republican.

"A week or two ago, I heard that Mr. Collins should have said that I came to him in Mr. Wannamaker's behalf. A day or two after, I met him at the corner of Market and Main streets and asked him concerning the story. He denied it most vehemently; said he never said any such thing; that whoever said so lied.

"I told him that I understood he was working for Judge Anderson; that I felt he, as a Democrat, was making a mistake by so doing. He said he was not in this thing for his health; that he proposed to know where he was at before he did any work.

"I asked him what he meant. He said: 'You know what I am after—the appointment of Chief of Police.' I said to him: 'You don't imagine for one minute that those fellows would appoint you Chief of Police? Even if they made this promise how could they fill it? They certainly could not remove Chief Harrison without preferring and sustaining charges against him.' I said: 'If they did make you a promise, they would only laugh at you after election.' He said: 'Never you fear about that, I will have them so tied up that they will have to keep their promise, and they will have no trouble in getting rid of Harrison, either.'

"This may explain Mr. Collins' motive in making false and malicious statements about me, and may also explain some of the zeal he is exhibiting on behalf of his new found friends.

"Last night I sent word to him, through a mutual friend of ours, that I wished to see him. The friend telephoned me this morning and said he had seen Mr. Collins; that Mr. Collins said: 'If he wishes to see me, he knows where to find me.' He evidently does not care to meet me at this stage of the game."

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence this 4th day of November, 1899.

AFFIDAVIT

By Three Prominent Akron Democrats

Concerning Mr. Paige's Position in Contest Last Spring.

The following affidavit speaks for itself:

State of Ohio, } s.s.
Summit County, }
Before me, a notary public in and for said county, personally appeared Stephen McGowan, Charles H. Isbell and W. E. Young, who being duly sworn, say that Friday, March 31, 1899, the Friday immediately preceding the spring election, at two p. m., they had a meeting with Mr. A. T. Paige in the private office of the City Clerk at the City building; that at this meeting, Mr. Paige was told that Mr. W. T. Tobin had, on the day before, told a certain Democrat that he, Mr. Paige, was with them, meaning the Central Union Telephone company, in their fight against Mayor Young; and that on Friday or Saturday, Mr. Paige intended to openly bolt the Democratic ticket. Mr. Paige denied these statements. It was then stated to him that a number of Republicans had reported that he was with them and that even the chairman of the Republican City Committee had told a certain friend that Mr. Paige was against the Mayor. It was then suggested to him that a brief statement be drawn up to the effect that these stories were false, that he was heartily supporting the Democratic ticket and was asking his friends to do the same, and that said statement be published in that evening's issue of the Democrat. Mr. Paige agreed to this. The statement was dictated to a stenographer run off on a type writer, and Mr. Paige read it over, made some few changes in it, signed it and put it into his pocket. Mr. Young then left the City building, after remarking that Mr. Paige and Mr. McGowan had better go the Democrat office at once, in order to get it in the paper that night. Just as they were ready to start some one called Mr. McGowan aside for a minute's conversation. When he was through, he looked around, but could see nothing of Mr. Paige, nor did Mr. McGowan see anything of Mr. Paige again that day.

Retirement of Godkin.
New York, Nov. 4.—The Evening Post printed the following statement: "In response to numerous inquiries we regret to announce that Mr. E. L. Godkin has severed his active connection with the Evening Post. It was his intention to do so in any case on Jan. 1 next, but the step has been hastened by impaired health. He will continue to be an occasional editorial contributor."

Would Not Hear Election Cases.
New York, Nov. 4.—The action of District Attorney Gardner in refusing to give his assent to the placing of election cases before the grand jury without preliminary hearings before magistrates was upheld by the grand jury, which refused to hear a number of such cases presented by Superintendent of Elections McCullagh.

Sharkey Unable to Wrest the Championship From Him.

New York, Nov. 4.—James J. Jeffries retains the championship of the world, Referee George Siler giving him the decision at the end of the twenty-fifth round over Sailor Tom Sharkey, at the Coney Island Sporting club. It was one of the most marvelous battles that has ever taken place, and the greatest crowd that ever gathered in the Coney Island clubhouse witnessed the desperate struggle for supremacy.

In five rounds Jeffries had the better of the fight, in the first two and in the last three. During the other 20 Sharkey

OFFER TO YIELD SUBMISSION.

Filipino Authority in Europe Made One, Addressed to United States.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The following statement addressed to the United States from the highest Filipino authority in Europe, was given to a correspondent: "The Filipinos are prepared to agree, first to fully meet and assist the United States in carrying out the promise made to Spain in the treaty of peace with reference to a stable government in the Philippines."

"Second—The Filipinos will accept an American protectorate with a government similar to that of Canada until a greater measure of self-government is permissible."

"Third—The United States is to have every facility which the islands offer as a base of political and commercial operation."

"Fourth—Americans are to have all the privileges of native Filipinos."

"Fifth—A mixed commission to be appointed to decide whether all or any of the indemnity paid to Spain for the islands shall be a charge upon the Philippines."

The document concludes: "Under these conditions, subject to modifications made by mutual consent, we are prepared to yield formal submission to the United States, which is not derogatory to the dignity or honor of our arms."

The document is absolutely authentic.
