LOCAL AND LITERARY.

Cash Up--Important to Everybody.

Hereafter, no advertisement will be admitted into the JOURNAL until it is paid for, except where there is a special agreement to the contrary; and in all cases, the person presenting an advertisement for insertion, will be held responsible for the same. We cannot pay our debts with accounts on Tom, Dick and Harry, of whom we know nothing. The cash system is better for all parties, and we shall adhere to it.

School Examiners' Notice.

The board will hold their next regular session for the examination of Teachers, at Perrysburg on the first Tuesday in Sept.

In addition to the usual course, all Teachers will hereafter be examined in American History.

No applicant will be examined who is not present punctually at 10 o'clock A. M.

J. W. WOODBURY, Clerk.

☞ The Buffalo boats now leave Toledo at half past twelve o'clock P. M.

☞ Geo. W. Brown & Co., are putting an engine into their foundry, and will no longer depend upon the Hydraulic for power.

☞ This week we conclude the publication of the laws, and shall hereafter be able to give our readers more of a variety of reading matter.

☞ After a long absence, Hellen Mornington has again favored us with a meritorious prose article, which will find a place in our columns next week.

☞ We learn that the Hydraulic is to be repaired and put in proper condition as fast as the work can be done. A new dam is being put in and the other necessary improvements will be made so as to furnish a sufficient quantity of water at an early day.

☞ Powers has just received a large assortment of Bibles, embracing some which surpass anything of the kind ever before offered to this public in gorgeousness of binding and beauty of typography. They can all be had at low figures, and no mistake.

☞ W. V. Way, Esq., returned from his tour through the west on Saturday last. He says vegetation looks better in Wood county than in any section of the country through which he passed.—We have heard similar expressions from many visiters and travelers.

WHO CAN BEAT IT?—Our friend W. R. Bryant, Esq., residing near Freeport, Montgomery township, has a radish, of this year's growth, which measures twenty-nine and a half inches in circumference, at the but-end. That is ahead of even California radishes.

☞ Geo. Powers, Esq., has our thanks for a basket of the finest apples we have seen this season. They are of the Early Harvest variety—large, mellow, and pleasant to the taste. Mr. P. goes on the principle that good fruit takes up no more room than poor, and therefore has none but choice varieties.

☞ An independent military company has been organized in Manmee, our friend William Robertson being Captain. It has been a long time since we have seen men go through with war-like maneuvers, and a little "mustering" will be something of a change and break the monotony which has become somewhat oppressive.

☞ The steamer Swift will leave this place tomorrow at 12 M. to accommodate those who wish to join in the Bethel excursion. The Swift is chartered by the managers and no additional fare will be charged for going to or returning from Toledo. The tickets purchased at the book store are good for the "round trip," without supper, for which 25 cents extra will be charged.

☞ The meeting at the Court House on Saturday last was well attended, and we never saw a set of men more cheerful and confident of even greater success than has ever before crowned their efforts. From all parts of the county we hear most encouraging reports, and have no doubt but the modern pro-slavery democracy will be drowned out before the second Tuesday of October.

☞ Gen. Houston has our thanks for a sack of beautiful flour from new wheat, fresh from his Diamond Mill. Citizens of Wood county attending this mill are now passed over the bridge free, and we observe that the General's enterprise and liberality is being appreciated by our people. The farmers will find it to their interest to take their grists to the Diamond Mill.

☞ Our young people had a pleasant night for their excursion last week, and as the full-orb'd moon traversed

"Her princely way among the stars, in slow
And silent brightness,"

all hearts seemed impressed with the thought that

"Pleasure's the only noble end,
To which all human powers should tend,"

Everything that could make the occasion pleasant was provided. They enjoyed a ride on the lake by moonlight, all feeling invigorated by the breeze which played upon the water.

☞ The beautiful "Lines" on our first page, by Nelly, are from the pen of a lady whose relatives reside in this place—two of her sisters being connected with our Union School. It is seldom that we meet with a more meritorious production. Its breathings are from the heart's warmest affections, and the ease with which the author's emotions are thrown into verse, conveys to the reader every thought-pulsation with much force and arouses in the breast an echoing sympathy.

☞ Arrangements are all made and tickets are selling rapidly for the excursion to-morrow. The Western Metropolis will leave Toledo at 2 o'clock, P. M., and will visit either the Islands in the Lake, or Malden, C. W., as the excursionists may prefer. The fare for gentlemen will be $1.00; for ladies, 50 cents, and for children accompanied by parents, 25 cents. As the proceeds of the excursion go to the Bethel at Toledo, the public should not hesitate to give it a generous support.

A DANGEROUS WIDOW.—A young widow has established a pistol gallery in New Orleans. Her qualifications as a teacher of the art of dueling are of course undoubted for she has killed her man.

—A school teacher, named Moore, was attacked and cut to pieces, while in school, in Greenville, Hunt county, Texas, by a family named Howard, for chastising one of the children of that family who had written some indecent language in a young lady's copy book.

☞ The Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, of Toledo, will make our town a visit on Saturday next, August 15th. They have chartered the steamer Belle for the occasion, and 150 or 200 persons are expected. This is a benevolent organization, designed to protect the Irishman from his greatest enemy—whiskey—and to prevent fighting and rioting on public occasions. Its objects are truly praiseworthy, and we trust our citizens will extend to them the courtesy which they so richly merit. They will visit Fort Meigs, where Michael Hayes, Esq., will have a table spread for their benefit.—Will not our citizens volunteer and aid Mr. H. in this matter?

TOO BAD.—A heathenish fellow down in Philadelphia, named Henry B. Hirst, has written a pome on Mr. Buchanan, in which he invokes him in settling the Kansas and other difficulties to—

Acm: Go forth salted to the fight!

What an unreasonable, unnatural request to make of our modest bachelor President! That fellow should be ashamed of himself.—Sandusky Registar.

The Wickedness of Paris.

Rev. Dr. Tyng, in his ramblings abroad, has been looking at Paris, and, according to his testimony in the Protestant Churchman, Sodom and Gomorrah, in their worst days, could not have surpassed modern Paris. The Doctor says:

I have seen Paris repeatedly before—but I have never seen human wickedness so shameless, and its lures spread out so unshrinkingly there before.

The Dr. goes to the Champs Elysees:

I thought it wise to let my boys see for themselves how Paris kept the Sabbath, that they might judge of the comparative worth of its observance and neglect. I walked with them through the Champs D'Elysees, where was every conceivable variety of human amusement and riot, high and low, from the most gorgeous display of singing women on stages surrounded by immense plate glass, except in front, down to the lowest and vilest of the mountebank theatres. Every species of gambling seemed to be collected there. Here was what the English Sunday Leagues had endeavored to accomplish in England. Here was what a similar class in our country would love to produce. These youths shrank back with amazement and horror. Well they might. The mind of an American must be schooled in sin to look upon such a scene with any other feeling. We returned with a grateful feeling for our Sabbaths at home—acknowledging to each other that there was no happier way to pass the Sabbath than God's own way; and the nearer we could come to that, the happier the day would be.

HAPPY HOUSES.—The homes of the people are the landmarks of civilization. They are a standard by which we measure their moral and social greatness. What is a nation but a large family possessing rights and privileges? The influence of each member of that family for good or evil is reciprocal. As the shock of electricity vibrates and expands, so the influence of human actions is diffused from the centre to the circumference of human society. The moral power of a people is just in proportion to the combined virtuous influence which exist in the homes of that people. Hence it may be truly said that our homes are the nurseries of the nations' greatness. Here the sympathies of the heart, and the affections of the mind are nourished and developed, and all that is good and great in our nature is brought to maturity. But what constitutes a happy home? The pleasures of literature are essential to the happiness of both masters, apprentices, and children. No table should be without periodicals, suitable for children as well as adults. A good and substantial library is equally essential. How gratifying it is to see a neat book case in a poor man's house, containing useful works of the world's greatest authors! There are many homes in this country which do not contain this; but their happiness would be much more complete if they did. An assortment of truly valuable books contains more sterling wealth than the gold mines of California.

BOAT RACING IS CURAT.—The first session of the Supreme Court at Batavia on Friday the case of Eugene O'Neil agt. Patrick Keenan was finished, and the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant. This was an action brought by a depositor for the recovery of $300 from the stake-holder on a boat race. Judge Nixon ruled that neither boat racing or horse racing were illegal in themselves, but that all wagers of any kind upon the same were so. Boat-racing, some maintain, is a manly sport which deserves encouragement, and he doubted not that the jury entertained the same views, and felt proud that so many young men were engaged in it. In regard to the rights of parties as to the money placed in the hands of a stake-holder, the court ruled that the stake-holder may legally pay it over to the winning party, even if the wager is illegal, and no one can recover the amount from him unless he had previous notice that he will be held responsible for the payment. The question in this case was, whether or not such notice was given the defendant. The jury, after a brief absence, decided in the defendant's favor.—Boston Herald

Put to Use.

Doesticks thinks it would be advisable to have the comet "hit" yet, if the following engagement can be entered into:

"But hold! I have a splendid idea—a magnificent plan, by which I think this threatened visit of a fiery enemy, instead of being a terrible disaster, may be turned to most excellent account, for I have no doubt that the enemy would listen to the voice of reason and humanity. I think a deputation ought to be immediately appointed, with full power to arrange matters with the comet. The people must take the thing in hand themselves, for if it is left to the public officers, there would be so much routine and circumlocution that the world would be smashed into nineteen millions of small fragments before they would get ready to act. It is extremely probable that the delegation would be able to effect a compromise on behalf of the useful portions of the earth, and they might induce our distinguished visitor to confine his attentions, to certain specified portions of it. For instance, any little arrangement by which the State of New Jersey could be knocked completely out of the universe, would be a blessing and a boon. A kindness of this kind would be appreciated by all mankind, and though Jerseymen themselves would object to this, as they do to all measures for the public benefit, the comet would, of course, fulfill his contract and do his duty nobly, without heeding their liberal opposition."

CURIOUS HABITS OF MACKEREL.—The habits of these fish are very peculiar. And although they have been taken in immense numbers for three-quarters of a century, their habits are not well understood. They often move in immense bodies, apparently filling the ocean for miles in extent. Then are found near the surface. Sometimes they will take the hook with the greatest eagerness; at other times, not a mackerel will bite for days, although millions of them are visible in the water. When they are in the mood for taking the bait, ten, twenty, and even thirty barrels, are taken by a single vessel in a few hours. They usually bite most freely after sunrise in the morning, and towards sunset in the evening. They all come to bite about the same time, as if they were actuated by a common impulse. They are easily frightened, and will then descend into deep water. It has often happened that a fleet of vessels has been lying off the Cape, say a mile or two from shore, in the midst of a school of mackerel, and taking them rapidly upon their decks, when the firing of a gun, or the blowing of a rock, would send every mackerel fathoms deep into the water, as suddenly as though they had been converted into so many pigs of lead, and perhaps it would be some hours before they would re-appear. They are caught most abundantly near the shore, and very rarely out of sight.

Brownlow's Obituary.

Parson Brownlow, of the Knoxville Whig complains, in common with the craft, of the inconvenient and unnecessary length of the obituary notices sent him for publication, which he pronounces useless nonsense, and concludes by saying, when we die we desire some friends to pen this obituary for us:

Departed this life, on —— day, in the —— year of his age, W. C. Brownlow, for many years the editor of a newspaper. He desires it stated to the world, that if he had his life to live over again, he could improve it in many respects. He leaves no apologies to be made to men in this life, and asks no favors of anybody "on the other side of Jordon" but his God! His friends if he has any left behind, can be of no service to him; his enemies, he is proud to know can't reach him!

—The beauty of Indian names when translated is all a humbug. Mississippi means no such thing as "Father of Waters," but simply "Big Water," or "Big River." An exchange says that Niagra means "Hark to the thunder." It does not. In the Tuscarora language, Niagra signifies nearly the same as "Big Water tumble."

—A gang of counterfeiters, eleven in number, have been arrested in the counties of Rush, Henry, Decatur and Bartholomew, Indiana, by a Cincinnati official. Several of them profess to be physicians, but have neither standing in their profession or the community.
