MEMOIR. Music, when soft voices die, Vibrates in the memory; Like a bell that never rings, But whose tone we often hear.

Biographical.

SCHUYLER COLFAN. The Hon. Schuyler Colfax, Speaker of the House of Representatives, was born in New York, March 23, 1823, and is a lineal descendant from General Schuyler and Captain Colfax, both of Revolutionary celebrity.

At the age of thirteen he went to Indiana, where he entered a printing-office, and continued to follow the parent profession with degrees of advancement, until about the year 1844, when he became editor and proprietor of the South Bend Register.

At the opening of the Thirty-fourth Congress occurred the memorable contest for the Speakership, resulting in the election of Mr. Banks to that position.

Selected Miscellany.

ERUPTION OF MAUNA LOA.

Thrilling Description by an Eye Witness. H. M. WARREN, editor of the Honolulu Standard Islands, Astoria, gives the following description of the eruption of Mauna Loa and the accompanying earthquakes.

On ascending the ridge just opposite the Mamala Falls of Kalaheo, which is about two miles from the crater, we were struck by a series of earthquakes.

As a speaker, Mr. Colfax is earnest, frank, pointed and fluent. His manner is pleasing, and his language well chosen, and refined. He is a man of great energy, and his speech is full of vigor.

With the best of us, we are all a little impatient of the slow and tedious progress of the machinery of the State.

How rapidly and yet how gloriously we are making history; but posterity will read it on the open pages of our country's annals.
