

MT. VERNON IS HOST TO MEN OF LOUDONVILLE, O.

Chamber of Commerce Entertains Visitors Coming From Northeast

ONE OF BEST MEETINGS EVER HELD BY CHAMBER

Inspiring And Felicitous Talks Are Made By Representative Visitors

One of the best meetings ever held by the Mt. Vernon Chamber of Commerce was that held jointly with the Loudonville Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday evening in this city. Fifty-two members of the Loudonville chamber came down and were the guests of the local chamber. Including the visitors there were 135 present.

A group of men, friendly, genial and congenial were brought together under pleasant and happy circumstances. Although they have been relatively near neighbors until the completion of the C. C. C. highway this past summer there has been always a natural barrier of difficult and almost insurmountable hills separating them making intercommunication at most times difficult and at times impossible.

The completion of the highway between Mt. Vernon and Loudonville has reduced to minutes a trip which, when it could be made at all, occupied hours. A few weeks ago the people of these two communities met together in neighborly fashion and dedicated this section of the highway. Wednesday evening one of the speakers suggested that that meeting was one of the first of the social results to follow and to attend the opening of the highway.

The dinner was served at 6 o'clock in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce by a committee of ladies from St. Paul's Episcopal church. Following the disposition of a very excellent repast President Beam rapped with the gavel to secure attention. He first presented Principal H. C. Koch, who on behalf of the high school thanked the members of the chamber for making it possible to send the Mt. Vernon high school eleven to Columbus on the occasion of the coming O. S. U.-Michigan gridiron engagement dedicating the new stadium. A few words also were spoken concerning the play, "Cappy Ricks," to be presented here under the auspices of the high school.

A pleasing innovation was introduced by President Beam. Each member of the two chambers stood and gave his name and business for the information of those others to whom they are strangers.

President Beam quite happily and with a cordiality that is peculiarly and distinctively his welcomed the visiting guests from Loudonville. He suggested that such organizations as are Chambers of Commerce, in Mt. Vernon, in Loudonville or elsewhere, are no place for selfish men. Their members are working for, not themselves nor for their own personal interests but for the entire community. This is true of every city and town, however great or however small, where such a body of men is to be found.

President Beam announced that the program for the evening would be in charge of the membership committee to which he gave it following his presentation of Chairman Thomas Shaw. The first matter was the announcement of the result of the Senior-Junior membership contest. The senior committee, Chairman Shaw announced, had secured two active members and the Juniors had secured 13 members.

The new Junior members were inroduced by Carson Young and Kenneth Martin. They are: Lester Williams, James A. Beam, K. E. VanAmmon, Phil Lee, John Lord, Willard Pitkin, Frederick Lorey, Herbert Wyant, William Kahrl Russell J. Willett, Chester Bishop and A. B. Capron. The two new active members are Mr. Wilder and Rev. Dr. A. D. Mink.

Carson Young spoke briefly but appreciatively in behalf of himself and other Junior members for the opportunity given them to associate themselves with the chamber.

The entire speaking program was given into the charge of members of the Loudonville chamber. Protesting they were but tyros and amateurs they nevertheless acquitted themselves in such an excellent way as almost to convince the Mt. Vernon folks they do little or nothing in Loudonville but to make happy and felicitous after dinner speeches.

President H. J. Bebout of the Loudonville chamber first was presented. He spoke first in hearty and complete appreciation of the generous hospitality that had been the occasion for inviting him and his fellows down to be guests of the Mt. Vernon chamber. The only way they really could express their appreciation, he said, was by coming in force, which they had done. They came expecting to find something they could take home with them, something worth while from friendly association, something that may be used in the social and business life of their community.

Mr. Bebout is a former Mt. Vernon product and secured his early business education and training under William M. Coup, to whom he referred feelingly as "the prince of all bosses."

Speaking of the community, Loudonville, to which he had transplanted himself, he said there is no other community to be found so free of selfishness. Its citizens always are ready to aid any worthy cause. Good feeling and cooperation are the result of close and intimate association in their clubs, lodges and organizations like the Chamber of Commerce. Discussing cooperation Mr. Bebout told his hearers what it has accomplished in Loudonville affecting the lighting plant, water works, streets, sewers and schools. They have hopes of securing a white way before next summer. It was an entrancing picture that he presented to the mind's eye of his audience inviting them to view Loudonville from the top of Brewer's hill on the C. C. C. highway on a summer's evening.

C. E. Budd, superintendent of the Loudonville schools, spoke with splendid effect. He was also gracious in his expression of appreciation of a generous hospitality. He touched also upon the note of unselfish service. He held it is the duty of such organizations to extend their help and their influence to the man or men who need it. In that way it is possible to widen the plane of civilization.

Chief among the problems of this country is that of making the highways safe. This involves another problem, that of obedience to law. We can prosper only as we bring the country to obedience for law. There is a serious significance in the disloyalty of the American public to an amendment they have written into their constitution. If the American people continue for ten years, he predicted, winking at fundamental law we will be on the verge of revolution and anarchy.

We claim to be a nation ruled by majorities but we fast are coming to be a nation ruled by small minorities. In illustration he cited the things attending the miners' and railroad workers' strikes of the past summer protracting business. We want our communities to be social but much more than that we want them to be fundamentally safe.

The Rev. M. S. Ayers, pastor of the Loudonville M. E. church, next was introduced. He also was happy and witty, felicitous in what he said. Like Mr. Bebout he had formerly lived in Mt. Vernon serving the M. E. church here as its pastor. He gave a peculiarly delicious account of his coming here wearing the tall silk hat and Prince Albert coat that distinguished ministers in those days in common with cab drivers, lawyers, and professional gamblers. The first Sunday he was here a member of the congregation sat down on and ruined his new silk tie. After that he got himself a real man's hat.

Taking his inspiration also from President Beam's suggestion of unselfish service Mr. Ayers improvised a line of thought demonstrating that it is thoroughly Christian.

Paul Kuhlman, principal of the Loudonville high school, reminded his auditors that Mt. Vernon and Loudonville are linked together by the most wonderful road in the state. Make it a real connecting link, he said, paraphrasing the French "Hands across the sea" and making it over into "Hands across the hills."

Mr. W. J. Weirick, an attorney of Loudonville and reputed by Chairman Shaw to be well known in Shreve, was another visitor presented. He had been, he said impressed strongly by the suggestion of a drive for junior membership. He spoke at some length in an able and interesting manner.

President Beam bringing the session to a close thanked the visitors for coming and giving inspiration in their talks. He announced at the next session of the Mt. Vernon chamber there will be a discussion of Interurban Relations. It is proposed to appoint a large committee.

State Senator L. D. CORNELL

To the Electors of 17-28-18-19 State Senatorial District; Fellow Citizens:—Election day, Tuesday, Nov. 7, 1922, is near at hand, and it will be impossible for me to meet many of you before election day. I have been asked many questions by voters who seek my views on measures of great importance to voters. So, to give answer to many of the questions asked, I have formulated a platform and will communicate same to you through the press.

I FAVOR:

- Enforcement of law.
- Taxation by "Uniform Rule"; $500 tax exemption instead of $100 as now provided; farmers, renters and laborers will be justly benefited by such exemptions.
- Amendment to teachers' pension law, making same optional with teacher to take under the law, or not, and relieving district from paying 5.57 per centum of teachers' salary, and teacher from paying 4 per centum of salary to teachers' pension fund.
- A large majority of teachers are opposed to paying 4 per centum of their wages into such a fund, not expecting to teach time required to secure such pension; and why require of taxpayers such tax, when taxes are very high? More than one-half of the seven million dollars paid into such pension fund the past two years could have been saved to rural and village taxpayers had such an amendment been in force.
- Labor unions, collective bargaining, and seniority rights to laborers. A fair living wage for laborers of all industries.
- Do not believe in government by Commission or by injunction. Believe in right of trial by jury. Home rule in government.
- Against teachers' tenure of office; also I favor home rule in hiring of teachers.
- Against assistant county superintendency.
- For laws to prevent price-gouging and profiteering.
- For laws to protect farmers and laborers.
