THE RED CROSS

Count your hours; if you have worked out your 800 hours, take it up with Miss Wells. Refugee garments, those cute little pinafores, are ideal work for the speeding of the hours.

What Does It Cost to Run the Red Cross Organization?

It cost the American Red Cross but two cents of each dollar of the millions appropriated to operate the administrative bureaus in the United States which took a vital part in the management of the greatest relief program the world has ever known.

For each dollar contributed by the American people for War Relief more than one dollar and one cent is expended for that purpose, the extra cent being provided by interest on the funds.

"When You Get Home"

In order that every man released from service in the American Army or Navy may resume his position in civil life with a full understanding of his rights under special war legislation the American Red Cross is printing a booklet entitled "When You Get Home." A copy of this will be

Cattle Buying for Swift & Company

Swift & Company buys more than 9000 head of cattle, on an average, every market day.

Each one of them is "sized up" by experts.

Both the packer's buyer and the commission salesman must judge what amount of meat each animal will yield, and how fine it will be, the grading of the hide, and the quantity and quality of the fat.

Both must know market conditions for live stock and meat throughout the country. The buyer must know where the different qualities, weights, and kinds of cattle can be best marketed as beef.

If the buyer pays more than the animal is worth, the packer loses money on it. If he offers less, another packer, or a shipper or feeder, gets it aw from him.

If the seller accepts too little, the live-stock raiser gets less than he is entitled to. If he holds out for more than it is worth, he fails to make a sale.

A variation of a few cents in the price per hundred pounds is a matter of vital importance to the packer, because it means the difference between profit and loss.
