POLITICAL ACTIVITY SHOWN

Government Attorney Points To Documents To Prove Contentions.

TWO WITNESSES TESTIFY

Denial Made That Antagonistic Firms are Marked for Discrimination.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Evidence relating to political activities of brewers and their alleged efforts to boycott firms and individuals antagonistic to the liquor business was adduced today before the senate committee investigating brewers' propaganda and the purchase of the Washington Times by Arthur Brisbane.

Major E. Lowrey Humes, who is conducting the inquiry for the committee, also understood to show from documents produced by officers of the United States Brewers association, a connection between that organization and the German-American alliance. The charter of the alliance was revoked recently by congress after a senate committee had investigated its activities.

Major Humes put into the record lists of candidates for public office which he said were to be supported by the brewers' association and the alliance, and also a statement which he asserted was prepared for C. J. Heizer, of Philadelphia, former president of the alliance, at the office of the brewers association. The statement, Major Humes declared, was German propaganda.

Two witnesses—Hugh F. Fox of New York, secretary of the brewers' national organization, and John Gardner of Philadelphia, former chairman of the national committee, were examined today.

Fox was questioned at length regarding the war waged by brewers on antagonistic firms and individuals. Some of the firms named were the John Wamaker company, the Cadillac, Packard, National and Reo automobile companies, the H. J. Heinz company, the Goodrich tire company, the American rolling mills, Middleton, Ohio; the Fox Brothers company, the Maryland and Baltimore Casualty company, the Proctor-Gamble company, the Gracell Chemical company, of Cleveland, Ohio; some subsidiary companies of the Standard Oil company, the United States Steel corporation, the S. Cressie company, the Red Raven water steam company, the American Sheet and Tinplate company, and Republic Rubber company, and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad company.

Fox denied that any of the firms named had been blacklisted, saying that the association's purpose merely was to give "preference to those who were friends." Later he told the committee that he would be willing to assume the responsibility of relations relating to the firms which Major Humes put into the record were taken from the files of the association. Major Humes told the committee that the firms were listed by the brewers' association because of their attitude against the use of liquor by their employees or because of the activity of individual members of the firms and in some instances by employees against the liquor business.

The inquiry into political activity began when John Gardner was called to the stand. The witness admitted that he had seen lists of candidates at different times from 1911 to 1914 which the brewers' association endorsed in its state conventions in Iowa, Texas, Pennsylvania, Indiana and one candidate for congress from Illinois, but he could not recall the details. He admitted that the association's organization committee decided to publish a list.

THE FRIENDLY CALL

When a friend drops in for an evening call
Is the time I fancy the heat of all
When the lights are lit and the shades are closed
And hushed in the noise of the busy town
And the rage has cooled and his hate died out
And the spirits of peace hover all about
Then the lights are lit and the shades are closed
As friendship closes and seals the day
There's something rich in the gentle smile
Of the friend that sits by our hearth
Somewhat deeper than eyes may find
In the light of day where the great wheels grind
And it tells me more of his soul
Than ever is seen when men walk about
For the striving and gaining are at an end
And he's less a toiler and more a friend
The talk is gentler than e'er have heard
In the busy town where men's souls are
Goals are distant and goal seems base
And we have slipped from the dusty
And settled down in a calm serenity
Where hearts are gentle and thoughts are clear
And it tells something better than fame
In the tales we tell and the songs we sing
The world's shut out with its noise and
For we've all the peace and joy we need
For a little while we are free to say
The thoughts that lie in our minds all day
For a little while we can romp and
And in our spirit come dancing out
So I thank the Lord for each day that
With the home enriched by the love of friends

HOUSTON SUGGESTED CONGRESS PREPARES FOR FIFTH MEMBER TO ADJOURN TODAY

Secretary of Agriculture, It Is Believed, Will Be American Peace Commissioner

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—There were no developments on the surface today in the preparations for President Wilson's trip to France and for America's representation at the peace conference. Arrangements are going steadily ahead, however, and an announcement of the peace commission's personnel with the program for the journey may be expected at any time.

Members of the senate who attended the white house conference last night to their colleagues today of the president's determination to stay in France indefinitely or until all of the greater issues arising out of the war have been settled. How long this may be the president will guess so the president will take with him a full executive staff, prepared to transact aboard ship or at the American embassy at Paris virtually all business of the white house.

FOOD PRICES WILL DROP PRODUCERS' PREDICTION

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20.—Food prices will drop, not through the lowering of the cost of raw materials but by lower markets for raw material.

This was agreed upon by some of the largest food producers in America at a convention of the American Specialized Manufacturers Association, which opened a two-day session here today. No forecast was made when the lower prices would come, but it was predicted that the reduction would follow the purchase of raw material on a lower market after present high price stocks are exhausted. The walls of soap retailers were sent forth by speakers at the meeting of members of the soap section, and it was the consensus of opinion that soap prices will remain as high if not go higher because of the scarcity of fats and oils on account of the demand in Europe.

English Government Sends Warning to Germans On Practices.

Information reaches his majesty's government of a shocking lack of organization in the release of British prisoners in Germany territory and of their recent march on foot, miserably clothed, without food or transport and with no escort or guides to the allied lines, with the result of lamentable suffering and heavy mortality.

His majesty's government cannot tolerate continuation of this cruel treatment and must insist on adequate arrangements being made in all the above respects by the German authorities. Otherwise we shall be compelled to take this into account in our question of revivifying Germany or satisfying the requirements of the German population.

MAY ASK EIGHT BILLION IN 1919

Treasury Plans Offering of Securities; 2 Billion From W. S. S. Expected.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Secretary McAdoo and members of the capital issues committee agreed today that the committee should continue indefinitely its functions of supervising proposed issues of stocks and bonds for capital purposes, as a measure of rationing capital in preparation for future war loans. At the same time it became known that the treasury plans tentatively to float about $8,000,000,000 more securities during 1919 and hopes to get at least two billions of this sum from war savings.

RESTRICTIONS TO SAFEGUARD LIBERTY BONDS IS DEEMED TO BE NECESSARY.

Some advocate that congress be asked to give the committee compulsory power, which it lacks, and without which it is feared it cannot make its restrictions effective after the ardor of wartime co-operation among business interests has cooled. Others suggest that the functions of the committee be taken over by a treasury agency to which members of the capital issues committee, although expressing themselves as individually anxious to relinquish their duties, agreed to take up questions of relaxing their past strict regulations to permit the floating of bonds for public improvements by states, counties and municipalities and to facilitate the construction of buildings in regions where materials and labor are available without detracting from more essential government projects. In other words, the committee now intends to work out a systematic program for permitting the financing of a wide variety of projects, to take up the slack in industrial and labor fields caused by cessation of war activities.

Twenty Delivered to England in First Offering

Similar Deliveries to Be Made on Thursday and Friday.

CEREMONIES ARE IMPOSING

British Admiral Receives Craft; Eye Witness Tells of Event.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Twenty German submarines were surrendered to Rear Admiral Reginald W. Tyrwhitt, 30 miles off Harwich this morning at sunrise, according to a Press association dispatch. These are the first U-boats to be turned over to the allies by Germany.

Admiral Tyrwhitt received the surrendered submarine on board his flagship, a British cruiser. The surrendered submarines will proceed to Harwich in charge of their own crews. The U-boats will then be boarded by British crews and interpreted and proceed to Parkenton quay, nearby. The Germans will leave the submarines there and board transports for their return to Germany.

Twenty additional submarines will be surrendered on Thursday and 20 more Friday. The remainder of the U-boats to be handed over in accordance with the armistice terms, will be given up later.

Harwich mentioned in the foregoing dispatch, has one of the best harbors on the east coast of England. It is in the county of Essex, northeast of London.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(British wireless service)—The following account of the surrender of the first batch of 20 German submarines which was accomplished this morning, followed by an eye-witness account of the event. More than 50 other German submarines are to be handed over to the allied naval command before the end of the week.

After steaming some 20 miles across the North sea, the Harwich force which consisted of five light cruisers and 20 destroyers were sighted. The flagship of Admiral Tyrwhitt, the Commodore, was the Curacao. High above the squadron hung a big observation balloon.

The squadron headed by the flagship then steamed toward the Dutch coast, followed by the Coventry, Dragoon, Danal and Centaur. Other ships followed in line with their navigation lights showing. The picture was a noble one as the great vessels, with their funnels flying, plowed their way to take part in the surrender of the German U-boats.

Mine Devices Dropped.

Soon after the British squadron started, the "Paravanes" were dropped overboard. These devices are shaped like tops and divert any mines which may be encountered, for the vessels were now entering a mine field.

Almost everyone on board donned a life belt and just as the red sun appeared above the horizon, the first German submarine appeared in sight.

Soon after 7 o'clock 20 submarines were seen in line accompanied by two German destroyers, the Thetania and the Sierra Venetia, which were followed by the submarine crews back to Germany after the transfer.

Surrender Is Made.

The crews of the submarines, in response to a signal from the admiral turned and led the way toward England and the submarines were ordered to follow. They immediately did so. The surrender had been accomplished. Each cruiser turned, and keeping a careful lookout, steamed toward Harwich. On one of the largest of the submarines, which carried two 2.5 guns, 22 officers and men were counted on her deck. The craft was estimated to be nearly 300 feet in length. Its number had been painted on the side.

Near the Wash lighthouse three large British seaplanes, followed by an airship, were observed. The Harwich forces and the seaplanes and airship made a most impressive sight.

One of the submarines was seen to send up a couple of carrier pigeons, and at once a signal was flashed from the admiral that it had no right to do that.

When the ships had cleared the mine field and entered the war channel the "Paravanes" were hauled aboard. On reaching a point some 20 miles off Harwich, the ships dropped anchor and Captain Addison came out on the warship Maddston.

British Crews Go Aboard.

British crews were then put on board the submarines to take them into harbor. With the exception of the engine staffs all the German sailors remained on deck. The submarines were then taken through the gates of the harbor and the German crews were transferred to the transports which will take them back to Germany.

As the boats went through the gates the white ensign was run up. CONTINUED ON PAGE SEVEN
