The Price Could Be Cut—This Way

If Cloverbloom Packages Weighed Only 15 Ounces—The Price Would Drop

IF CLOVERBLOOM were packed, like some ordinary butter, in 15-ounce cartons, the price would be lower because you would get less butter!

But Cloverbloom, high grade Northern creamery butter, is sold only in full pound cartons. Even though you pay a cent or two more, it actually costs you less per ounce. Besides, it goes farther and is better quality. Ask for Which Size Are You Paying For? The smaller 15-ounce cartons are reimported throughout. That's why it's hard to detect the difference. A little better is taken off each of the sides and ends.

To save these two cartons are almost alike. In weight, they differ. And, based on relative cost, per ounce of butter, the full pound of Cloverbloom is cheaper.

Read the Label on Your Carton The law specifies that the net weight of the contents shall be plainly printed on every carton of butter. Look at the label.

Finest Butter Churned Only the best pasteurized cream is used in churning Cloverbloom butter—rich, pure and sweet. To protect its whiteness and flavor it is wrapped in waxed paper parchment and cartons, and for it.
