The New Home of The Tulsa Bread Company —and— HOLSUM BREAD

The opening of the new bakery of the Tulsa Bread Company is an event of unusual interest to the citizens of Tulsa. It ranks among the leading bakeries of the country in the up-to-dateness of its appointments and equipment.

The painstaking care exercised in every detail of its erection, and the months of study given to the designing and installation of the wonderful mechanical equipment, without regard to original investment, express our confidence in the future growth of our city.

The Best Bread Possible to Make

There was one predominating thought back of this new bakery, and that was that the people of Tulsa wanted the best bread containing the maximum food value—bread that is made of pure materials and which, above all other things, is made clean.

No expense, therefore, was spared to provide every modern, scientific, mechanical or hygienic facility that would contribute to this result.

And now we are ready to offer our new bread, HOLSUM, made in this new bakery

by an entirely new and scientific method—as our proof that better bread has come to make Tulsa its permanent abiding place.

HOLSUM is made by bakers who are masters of the art—men who have spent their lives in a concentrated study of the business of bread making.

HOLSUM is offered in large loaves only, for this is the scientifically correct size for perfect baking results. The large loaf bakes to a better texture, has better keeping qualities, and finer flavor.

HOLSUM is now on sale in nearly every grocery store in Tulsa and will soon be available in outlying towns. Won't you try it today, and put to the Test our Claims regarding its Unusual Quality and Goodness?
