

MINORS WANT PEACE WITH MAJOR LEAGUES

Close Springfield Meeting After Taking Steps to Restore Draft—Tourney Is Elevated.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 13.—With the choice of Kansas City, Mo., as the 1920 convention city and the transaction of considerable minor business, the annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues closed today.

H. W. Dickerson, sporting editor of the Grand Rapids, Mich. Herald, was elected Class B member of the national board of arbitration. A. R. Tearney, president of the Western league, was advanced to Class A membership on the board.

A ruling was put through regarding liens on baseball territory with the result that liens may be exercised for only three causes: unpaid players' salaries, debts due club in another and nonpayment of dues to the national association.

Business relations between the minor and major league leagues, which were strained a year ago with the abrogation of the national agreement, will be resumed as a result of action taken yesterday.

According to Secretary John H. Farrell's report, following an all day executive session, the minors have decided it is best to work in harmony with the major leagues. He made no announcement, however, as to the methods to be followed in bringing the subject before the American and National league representatives.

Among other things the new agreement would mean the re-establishment of the draft and optional agreements.

A general revision of the salary limits in the minor leagues was made. The Class AA clubs were given permission to increase their monthly limit to $2,500, an increase of $1,000, while other leagues were granted proportional increases. The request of Class A clubs for one more representative on the national board of arbitration was granted.

President Daniel O'Neill of the Eastern league from Class B to Class A, the ruling which the eastern league now has. The board now consists of three Class A representatives, instead of two, three Class AA and one Class B members. A. R. Tearney of the Western league being chosen to the latter office.

J. Cal King of Oakland, Cal., was elected vice president of the national association to succeed A. T. Baum of San Francisco, retired. Mr. King was also named a Class A representative on the arbitration board to succeed Mr. Baum.

Why The Big Loaf?

THERE is an incontrovertible reason why you should buy bread in big loaves, of the pound-and a half weight.

That reason is this: That it costs less to process large loaves, in the bakery, and what the baker saves here he can put back into the quality.

The baker makes as good bread as he can, at the market price. For better bread is the secret of better sales and greater success.

You may be sure that we put back into HOLSUM bread, in increased quality, what we save by making HOLSUM in the large size only.

Why does it cost less to make large loaves? Because the larger the unit the lower the overhead. Large loaves require less labor per pound, less equipment, fewer pans, less wrapping paper per pound and so on.

But there are other arguments for the large loaf. It is of a size and weight that bakes to a better texture, and a finer flavor. Also, it has less crust in proportion and keeps fresh longer.

If you haven't tried our big loaf of HOLSUM yet---be sure to do it today. You yourself will detect its unusual excellence.
