

NURSE IS GIVEN BACK ONLY SON

Mother Comes All the Way From Paris to Get Custody of Boy.

MAY TAKE HIM BACK

Only Objection of Father Was He Wanted Son to Be American.

Special to The World. MIAMI, Dec. 21.—Mrs. Florence E. Dudley, Red Cross nurse, was given back her 6-year-old son in district court here yesterday after spending all the way from Paris for him.

She is from an aristocratic family at Augusta, Ga. Her divorced husband, H. E. Dudley, is a mining operator here. She told the court the boy had been given to her at the divorce trial, but that while in France the father had brought him back to Miami without her consent. The father told the court he was willing for Mrs. Dudley to have the boy provided she did not take him back to France with her.

He said he had reasons to believe she would return to Paris for a large American firm and rear her son there. He wanted him to be an American boy with American ideals. The Dudleys were divorced in 1915. She returned to Georgia with her boy tonight.

Woman Injured While Riding on Free Transportation; Sued and Got Judgment.

Special to The World. WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The supreme court in a decision by Chief Justice Edward A. White has granted the application of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Kansas road and the National Surety company for a writ of certiorari and will review the case of Hannah L. Zuber against the three companies.

Mrs. Zuber, wife of a brakeman, living at Baltimore, Md., was injured in a wreck at Hannibal while riding a M. K. & T. train on the Santa Fe tracks, she was riding on a pass and therefore the companies were not responsible, the petitioner claims. They are asking that the verdict of the district court at Hannibal giving Mrs. Zuber $3,000 damages, which the Oklahoma supreme court upheld, be set aside.

What Do You Know? Asks Dr. Scott of Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 20.—To Everyman. Are you educated? Perhaps you think you are and aren't. Perhaps you think you're not and are. At any rate, here's your chance to see how you "stack up" with what should be the standard college graduate.

According to an Oklahoma professor, Dr. A. C. Scott of the extension department of the state university, a man's education may be tested as to its breadth and culture by his familiarity with the books in the following list, which he prepared for the Oklahoma Library commission.

"By good education," says Doctor Scott, "I mean here what might be called cultural or liberal education. Many men whose interests lie in special directions and whose readings follow those directions are indeed narrow, but can hardly be called uneducated or even poorly educated. But a man with a liberal education would naturally be familiar with the following productions of literature. I do not speak of the Bible, because I take it for granted."

1. Shakespeare at least such outstanding plays as "Hamlet," "Julius Caesar," "King Lear," "Macbeth" and "The Merchant of Venice."

2. Representative poems of Tennyson, Burns, Browning, Byron, Wordsworth, Shelley, Keats. To these might be added Milton's "Paradise Lost."

3. In English fiction at least two or three representative books of Scott, Dickens, Thackeray, George Eliot, Stevenson and Hardy.

4. In recent English fiction two or more representative books of Galsworthy, Bennett, Kipling and Barrie.

5. In American fiction two or more representative books of Hawthorne, Cooper, Howells, James and James Lane Allen.

6. In American poets, a rather familiar knowledge of Longfellow, Lowell, Bryant, Whittier, Poe and Lanier.

7. In miscellaneous reading, a reasonable knowledge of Addison, Caesyle, Burke, Ruskin, Macaulay, Emerson and Ibsen.

8. A reasonable amount of general reading in history, biography and science.

9. Certain world books such as "Don Quixote," "Les Miserables," "Pilgrim's Progress," "Gulliver's Travels," "Robinson Crusoe," "The Iliad," "The Odyssey," "Goethe's Faust," "The Vicar of Wakefield," "Tom Sawyer" and other books of Mark Twain.

WHEAT SHOWING UP SPLENDIDLY

Unfavorable Weather Is Responsible for Poor Condition.

Special to The World. OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 20.—The condition of Oklahoma winter wheat on December 1, according to the report just issued by the United States bureau of crop estimates and the state board of agriculture, is 79 per cent. The condition in the nation was 82.2 per cent. The average sown this fall was 2,811,000 acres as compared with 3,728,000 last year, a decrease of 24 per cent. The acreage in the nation this fall was 38,779,000 as compared with 50,489,000, a decrease of 23 per cent.

The condition of rye in Oklahoma December 1 was 81 per cent and the average sown this fall 8,000 acres, as compared with 10,000 a year ago. The average sown this fall is the smallest since 1913 when the figure was 2,577,000. The first year of the war witnessed an increase of 35 per cent and last year, prompted by the possibility of another year of war and a guaranteed price the wheat acreage rose to 147 per cent of that shown in the pre-war year. The average acreage sown during the five years of the war period was 3,339,000 acres, that of the five years preceding 1,811,000 acres, for the decade 1909-1918, 2,672,000 acres. The average sown this fall is only 9 per cent more than that sown the year immediately preceding the war. Among the reasons for decreased acreage this fall are: The high price of cotton and absence of guaranteed wheat price for 1920, distress of soil in the early part of the season which discouraged plowing, excessive soil moisture following the drought leaving wheat in shocks and shortage of threshers which delayed plowing, shortage and high price of farm labor.

Because unfavorable weather has prevailed this fall and the reported condition of wheat is comparatively low for this season of the year, it does not necessarily follow that the condition may not in a measure be reversed before harvest. The following conditions operating in different parts of the state, have all had an influence on wheat sown this fall. Early plowing made good start, late plowing caused late start. Heavy rains in October retarded sowing; cool, wet weather retarded growth. In places, seed bed was poorly prepared; fields left spotted in north and south counties by Hessian fly; good start in many localities with favorable moisture and snow conditions.
