HARDING SELECTS CAMPAIGN ISSUES

Labor, League, Tariff and Agriculture Are to Get Emphasis.

WILL SPEAK LABOR DAY

Address on Labor to Be Made From Front Porch; Marion Bodies to Be There.

EXPECTS NOISE ON TARIFF

Looks for a "Lot of Shouting" Over One Issue; to Outline a Protective Schedule.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 14—Labor, the league of nations, agricultural issues and the tariff are to be made headlines of Senator Harding's campaign during early September, under a program revealed here today in connection with announcement of plans for the republican nominee's first speech outside of Ohio.

Speaks Labor Day.

The labor address will be delivered labor day, Monday, Sept. 5, probably from the front porch. No delegation has been booked so far to call on that day, but it is understood a number of labor organizations have asked for the appointment.

Agriculture and the league are to be coupled in an address Sept. 9 at the Minnesota state fair grounds between Minneapolis and St. Paul. In announcing plans for the trip, which will be Senator Harding's first speaking excursion outside his own state since his nomination, he said no other speech would be made along the way and that his decision to go to Minnesota was in no sense a modification of his front porch program.

To Emphasize Tariff. No definite day has been set for discussion of the tariff, but the nominee today made plain his purpose to emphasize it as his campaign develops. He said he expected to see a "lot of shouting" about the tariff soon, and that he would advocate a protective schedule worked out by congress in co-operation with the tariff commission.

It was understood following a conference between Senator Harding and former Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, member of the republican nominee's advisory committee, at the Harding home here today that Senator Harding would be "well satisfied" with the progress his front porch campaign was making, and he was determined there would be no divergence from it despite the pressure of other republican leaders to have him speak more extensively elsewhere than Marion.

Senator Harding will deliver a number of important speeches at large centers of population as his campaign progresses, Senator Weeks said. "He will, however, largely confine himself to meeting the issues of the campaign in addresses he will deliver from his front porch from time to time."

Senator Harding plans to make his trip to Minnesota in leisurely fashion leaving here tonight for the way for political conferences. He does not expect to travel by special train or private car, but will have an ordinary sleeper reservation for himself and his party.

The state fair officials originally had asked that the candidate make his speech there labor day, but he

President Picks up Kids; Takes Them Home in Auto

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Three kids, just out of a swimming hole in Rock Creek park, were picked up today by President Wilson, treated to a 45-minute motor ride and dropped out at their home in town, so proud the folks there could not hold them with a rope.

The trio had just come from a dip in one of the park's streams and were hiking along the roadside when they saw the white house car and recognized the president. Off came their caps and as Mr. Wilson ordered the car stopped, they timidly approached and asked how he was getting along.

"Hop in," said the president, and they hopped.

All along the ride they kept their eyes on the president and Mrs. Wil-

Daughters Investigate and Find Father Who Fails To Recognize Them

A Tulsa family has been reunited, a father has been returned to his true domain, a gap that extends 12 years into the past has been bridged and a mystery that was shrouded deep in the suspicion of death has been solved.

For Frank Henry, proprietor of a plumbing shop at Newkirk, Okla., has been identified as Frank Henry Peters, the husband and father to a family of seven residing on South Boulder, who left his home in Garfield, Ark., in 1908 with a large sum of money, and whose whereabouts were never known to his loved ones until Aug. 19, 1920.

Given up, probably as dead, it has been learned that Peters wandered about the country for more than half a score of years under the name of Frank Henry, his mind a blank concerning the past with the future but an abstract quantity. In the meantime the family moved to Tulsa and has lived here for three years, with the lost husband and father a few miles away. But recorded fact, stranger than fiction, tells the story best.

Back in 1908 Peters left Garfield and came to Oklahoma. The family had formerly lived in this state and Peters came to collect some accounts due. This he did and in addition sold a team of horses at Blackwell, Okla. From there he started to Anita, but never arrived. On the road he was set upon by robbers, his money taken and his mind rendered blank, presumably by a blow on the head.

Peters is said to remember an accident in which he was badly hurt. But he is somewhat confused in the event which rendered the past out of reason and a train wreck soon after in which he was caught. It is the assumption that highwaymen took the funds for Peters was never known to have reached his destination and according to his own story of later travels his condition was little better than that of a pauper after the robbery.

Search Unavailing. The family initiated a search. Police in many cities were requested to help find the missing man. But the search was useless. Peters had dropped into oblivion so far as the family could ascertain, for he might have been murdered and his body concealed, and as they gave it up, they moved to Tulsa.

How Peters recovered from his wounds, how he was cared for and how he existed may forever remain a mystery. The man does not know and his memories that he started a seemingly endless wandering.

His mind in a state of coma, Peters remembers having taken up odd laboring jobs. For some time he was foreman of a crew of section hands.

In the Kansas train collision in which he received his second injury Peters can't remember the incident but in a state insufficient to provide for rational action and the fragments of the past were scattered again by the time he recovered from his second accident. This he knew and Newkirk became his home.

ALTENDORF IS JAILED

Advices from Mexico Say Train With Agent, Leaving Country, Was Stopped Near Nava Laredo.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 14—Information received here today by authoritative sources said that Dr. Paul Altendorf, recently ordered to leave Mexico as an undesirable foreigner, had been taken from a train at Monterey, N. M., while on his way to Nava Laredo and returned to Mexico City, where he has been placed in prison.

Altendorf's wife, who was Mrs. Wallace McVoy Woody of Louisville, Ky., has been in San Antonio several weeks and has been without word of her husband since August 7, when she received a telegram from the American embassy at Mexico City, saying her husband had been arrested.

Advices reaching this city today stated that the train on which Dr. Altendorf was being deported was halted on orders from Mexico City and the prisoner taken from the train, returned to the capital and placed in prison.

Telindeh, Mexican consul here, declined comment on the incident except to remark: "Altendorf is all right. It is foolish to worry about him."

son and answered questions asked. Water from tumbled heads trickled over their sunburned faces and dripped on the president's shoes. One youngster staked to save the president's shoe and apologized, but was told not to worry.

Coming down Connecticut avenue the youngest of the trio, a thin, frail lad barely 3 years old, asked a kid he knew as called to him by name. The youngster in the street dropped a loaf of bread and gasped.

When the kids got up all three shook hands with the president and his wife.

"So long, bo," one shouted to the secret service man on the front seat. The president lifted his hat and started home.

Charges Republican Senators Plan Annexing the Presidency. NOT TIED BY ANY RING

Says He Is Not Controlled by Any Clique; Promises About "When I Am Elected."

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 14—Charges that republican senators are trying to "annex the presidency to their domination," he made here tonight by Governor Cox in an address closing his first pretentious attack upon his political foe.

"The republican party has passed into reactionary control," the democratic presidential candidate declared in his speech in a public meeting on the Ohio river front tonight, following a night of hold me there, here tonight by Governor Cox in an address closing his first pretentious attack upon his political foe.

"I am not nominated by a senatorial ring, or any other kind of a ring," said Governor Cox at tonight's meeting. "I decline to be tied to my party by a senatorial ring. I deny the right to hold me there, muzzled in the face of a great public emergency and when I am elected I do not intend that a senatorial ring, or any other kind of a ring shall own me. I believe in the constitution of the United States and the preservation of divided authority by the people and their representatives, each retaining its independence, but not exceeding its function."

The republican senators purpose, following the kind of a ring, said, with a fling at what he termed the "nadir government" proposed by Senator Harding, is to make executive decisions not the affair of "the responsible president himself, but of the ring that surrounds him."

"Teddy's" Control Short. Charging the republican party with being under reactionary control, Governor Cox said the late Colonel Roosevelt's fight for his reform was but temporary effect.

"Domination by political figures, once violently repudiated by the American electorate, is unobscured and unmitigated. Governor Cox declared. "The men who control the United States senate are determined to exceed their function."

Hundreds of pedestrians stood by. The bandits jumped into a stolen car and dashed through the streets closely pursued. They lost control and crashed into an elevated railway pillar, wrecking the machine. They got away but the money was recovered.

National and State Situation Favorable to His Election Over Democratic Rival.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 14—Amor- tization of the national debt is likely as a result of the collapse of the financial dealings of Charles Ponzi, was given tonight by Joseph C. Allen, state bank commissioner.

The Hanover Trust company and the Polish Industrial association are the only banking institutions in New England known to be in any way affected by the Ponzi failure," Mr. Allen said.

The Polish industrial association, conducting a private bank, steamship agency and other accommodations for immigrants, was taken over by the commissioner today. Henry H. Chmielinski, president of the association, is also president of the Hanover Trust company, closed by the commissioner earlier in the week. Affairs of the two institutions are hopelessly interwoven. The Polish association had exhausted virtually all its cash and its loans "are either had or of doubtful value."

No bondsmen were forthcoming today for Ponzi or for the three officers of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange company, the "100 per cent in six months" concern, who were arrested yesterday. Samuel Zorn, an agent of the foreign exchange company, was released on $10,000 bonds.

Hearing Tuesday. Definite clarification of Ponzi's tangled affairs is looked for if petitions for receivers for his securities exchange company are granted by the federal court. A hearing will be given on these petitions Tuesday.

Bankruptcy petitions were filed against the Old Colony Foreign Exchange company in bankruptcy court today.

By The Associated Press. BERLIN, August 14.—Russian bolshevik forces captured Soldan on the Warsaw-Danzig railroad about 15 miles northwest of Miawa, Friday night, it was learned here today. The city was only slightly damaged. The Poles are reported to be retreating to the northwest.

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, August 14.—An informal inquiry into the character and policies of the anti-bolshevik leader in southern Russia, General Wrangel, has begun by the government officials.

No immediate anticipation of recognition by the United States is involved, officials say, but should the inquiry develop satisfactorily, it is thought possible that the elements clustered about the Russian leader may afford a road to the creation of conditions in Russia, permitting her reacceptance among the nations.

One report on the career of the Russian general already has been received written by a neutral observer attached to the staff of General Wrangel. It is said to be the first authoritative summary of the anti-bolshevik leader's achievements received in Washington.

General Wrangel, only 39 years old, according to the report, began his career in the Russian army by enlisting in 1901, as a private in the Norse guards regiment, after having been educated as a mining engineer. Though his remote ancestors are said to have come from Germany, his stock is of Baltic province derivation.

Is Distinguished. Leaving the Russian army in 1902, after promotion to a lieutenant, Wrangel re-enlisted upon the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war and was twice promoted for bravery. Subsequently he was graduated from the general staff academy and at the outbreak of the European war was a captain commanding a cavalry squadron. He distinguished himself with his squadron August 27, 1914, taking a German battery, for which he was decorated with the highest Russian military order, the Cross of St. George.

Promoted to the rank of colonel, he was appointed as an aide to the czar and later became a commander of the first trans-balkal Cosack regiment with which July 1916, he captured an entire battalion and several machine guns. He was then promoted to the grade of major-general.

Following the first days of the revolution, when the successful Russian offensive in Galicia was preceded by a disorderly retreat, General Wrangel is said to have rendered such service "as to have prevented a great military disaster."
