Citizens of Havana and members of the American Club in that city have been providing lavish entertainment for the 800 officers and men in the flotilla, and the jacksies are making the most of their sojourn in that wet town. Photo shows a view taken from the mother ship Camden, of American submarines in Havana harbor.

MOVIE STARS ENJOYING A HEAVY SNOWFALL

Marjorie Daw and Jane Novak, two popular leading ladies of the movies are natives of Southern California, where snow is as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth. It is no wonder therefore, that the pretty maids wax enthusiastic when an opportunity is afforded them to enjoy the fleecy white. Here we see them "on location" in Northwest Canada, while "exteriors" for Marshall Neilan's new picture, "The River's End" were being staged.
