

QUEEN GOLDIE RULES

Klamath Falls' First Harvest Carnival Is Now In Full Sway

Grand Coronation Ceremonies Attract Big Crowd—Citizens Enter Into Spirit of the Occasion and as Loyal Subjects Pledge Allegiance to Their Queen

Klamath Falls first Carnival was opened in last evening by the peering of whistles and blowing of horns. The Steamer Klamath and water boats, the saw mills and the edge were steamed up to their full capacity and for fully fifteen minutes the noise was such as was never heard in Klamath Falls before. It is estimated that the harvest days had come and every citizen and visitor from the county and state was invited to join in the grand celebration which is to last an entire week.

During the blowing of the whistles, the grand Carnival parade was formed near the bridge. It was headed by Neil Campbell, acting as Grand Marshal, and was followed by the Klamath Falls Military Band, with twenty players dressed in black coats, black trousers and caps. Then came the Royal Automobile with Queen Goldie and her two Maids, Misses Esther Cannon and Lena Kattenhorn, closely following the Queen's conveyance were automobiles containing the Maids in waiting on the Queen, Misses Edna Houston, Maud Martin, Flora Olive and Mayael Sanderson, and carriages containing Mayor Stills, carrying the golden key to the city and Judge George Noland, speaker of the evening, and court jokers in appropriate costume.

The parade proceeded down Main street to Eighth, thence to Pine, thence to Seventh, thence to Main and back to the Court House Square, in which an elaborate throne and reception room had been erected. It is estimated that fully two thousand people were present to witness the crowning of the Queen, who is to reign over the festivities of this week. As the Royal Auto drew up before the approach to the Royal Booth, the Mayor graciously assisted the Queen to alight and conducted her, followed by her maids, to her seat in the dais in the Royal Booth. Amid the tumultuous cheering of the multitude.

Crowning of the Queen.

After the Queen was seated, Judge Noland in a short address defined the custom and purpose of the Carnival and, on behalf of the people, welcomed the Queen and her maids to the city, and in concluding, said:

"And now, Queen Goldie, as the people have honored you by electing you Queen we hope you will reign over your subjects with a kindly dignity. I now crown you Queen of the Carnival, may joy and peace be yours. Should you seek to choose a consort from among our young men, he is yours, for in this country every American is an uncrowned king, so choose your consort and have a good time. I welcome you and your maids."

After the crowning of the Queen, Mayor Stills, in a few appropriate remarks, presented the keys of the city to the Queen and offered to her his allegiance and that of the people of the city.

In response Queen Goldie arose with true queenly grace and said: "I thank you, my people, for the great honor conferred upon me, and will guard your city well." The Queen was seated and the immense throng, entering into the spirit of the occasion, did not need a second invitation to come forward and greet their Queen, and for fully an hour Queen Goldie graciously and with a smile for each, received the homage of her loyal subjects.

The Queen and her six maids presented a very pleasing sight and many were the words of praise and admiration heard on all sides. It was an event in the lives of these young ladies which will be long remembered and each received her due quota of admiration and was pointed out as a further proof of the feminine beauty of which Klamath County so proudly boasts. Goldie, as queen of them all, was resplendent in a handsome white satin gown trimmed in Dutch lace and jewels and made with the new sheath skirt. The crown was made of heavy metal and was studded with amethysts and opals. She wore a royal blue velvet robe with elaborate trimming of heavy gold braid and cord.

The Queen with her maids will receive her subjects at the Royal Booth each evening at 7:30.

AN ATTRACTION THAT PLEASES THE PEOPLE.

Manager Houston has at last succeeded in securing an attraction which is giving perfect satisfaction and is pleasing the people. The Eckhardt Company, which made its first appearance at the Opera House last evening, was pronounced by both the first floor and the gallery as the best show that ever came to town. The gallery is the true critic of the play and the demonstration from this quarter last evening was sufficient to please even the oldest stage favorite, and is a true indication that Eckhardt's will have a successful week in Klamath Falls.

It would be unjust to make special mention of any of the players as there is not an amateur in the cast. Mr. Eckhardt has a fine company of artists and has not made the mistake of attempting to adapt his company to a play but rather has selected his plays to fit the cast and thereby every performance is bound to receive approval of the audience.

If any special credit is given it is due to Mrs. Eckhardt, who personally superintends every detail of the stage settings and decorations. If there is anything which makes a farce of the most perfect acting it is in the incongruity of the surroundings with the lines of the play, and is very often seen on stages, especially in the smaller towns. In last night's performance, however, there was no detail too small that did not receive Mrs. Eckhardt's attention, and the perfect harmony which prevailed was no doubt the real reason why the audience followed every line so closely and seemed to be able to feel, with the performers, the part that was being portrayed.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

Owing to the fact that some unscrupulous peddlers or fruit packers or both, have scattered wormy fruit around the country, I wish to again request that all parties would at once examine the same, and if found infected with scale or worm holes, immediately call me up by phone, that I may secure and condemn the fruit; also be sure to get the name of the seller of the fruit to the end that drastic measures may be taken to put a stop to the outrageous business.

It is impossible for me to intercept all fruit peddlers as they come at all times, day and night, but if the people who are interested in having pests kept out would exercise a little care and cooperate with me, it would soon be a very risky business to bring into the county anything unsalable.

All wormy fruit should be rejected, unless it be for purposes of identifying and convicting the vendor.

O. A. STEARNS, Inspector.

SCHOOL EXHIBIT.

An exhibit of work done by the pupils of the Klamath Falls Public School is now being arranged at the Public Library room and is expected to be ready for inspection this evening. There are over 300 books in the exhibition and they show some work that each child did from the first grade up.

LIQUOR SELLERS FOUND GUILTY.

Second Conviction at Pendleton Or., Makes Total of $7000 in Fines.

PENDLETON, Ore., Oct. 12.—After putting up a stubborn fight lasting more than two days, Bogart & Keegan were found guilty of selling liquor in violation of the Prohibition law. The jury was out about an hour and a half.

This is the second fight put up by the accused liquor dealers, and it is believed by the District Attorney that it will be the last, as he thinks the few accused men who have not already done so will now change their pleas of not guilty to guilty, and thus escape standing trial.

With the collection of more than $7000 in fines and two verdicts of guilty, District Attorney Phelps feels he has fulfilled the promises made when he began his wholesale prosecution of those breaking the local option law.

CAMP AT TULE LAKE

Work Is Finished on West Side Canal and Camps Moved

Government Crew Sent to Tule Lake to Commence Work on Outlet—Building Cement Headgate on South Branch Canal also Turnouts for Laterals

Work on the West Side canal as far as Moore's Power plant is finished and the government began yesterday moving camp. Water has been turned into the canal, but it will take some two weeks to prime and test the canal before a full head of water can be turned on. This is the largest and most difficult piece of work under the Klamath Project yet attempted by force account.

A number of men working on the west side canal have been laid off, some have been sent to Tule Lake and the remainder have been assigned to work on other sections of the project. Work will commence at once on the Tule Lake outlet and a camp is being established with a crew of about 15 men. This work will be under charge of a competent foreman, who will endeavor to enlarge the present outlet sufficient to enable the engineers to determine if the water in the lake can be materially reduced by means of a subterranean passage.

The work on the South Branch canal is sufficiently advanced so that cement work has been started on the headgates where the south branch leaves the main canal and also on the turnouts for the laterals.

The Clear Lake dam work is progressing at a good rate and a large force of men are now building the cement outlet to connect with the headgates and also commencing work on the dam.
