THURSDAY, March 14, 1912

Upon occasion, Theodore Roosevelt emphatically said (and he is notorious for saying things with emphasis), "On the 4th of March, next, I shall have served three and a half years, and these three and a half years constitute my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms regards the substance and not the form, and under no circumstances will I be a candidate or accept another nomination." There is no quibble about this statement. He says that he will not accept another nomination. Theodore Roosevelt on many occasions promised his fellow citizens that he would not again be a candidate. The question on every one's lips is, what made him change his mind, why did he do it? Can not the answer be found in his character? Of a strong and impetuous nature, with unbounded confidence in himself and his destiny; of an imperious disposition, is his not just the character that our forefathers had in mind when they wished to protect the country against the possibility of a third term? If the love for office and the passion for power made Roosevelt break his solemn pledge, what guarantee have the people of this country that he would not do the same thing over again? If he were to announce tomorrow that he would not be a candidate for a fourth term, would anyone believe him?

Then, too how about his breaking faith with the man of whom he said, in speaking of President Taft, "I do not believe there can be found in the whole country a man so well fitted to be president." Roosevelt has many very admirable qualities, but the easy way he has of going back on his friends on the plea of standing by the people, should relegate him to the rank and file of the "has-beens."

A petition to President Taft to set aside the sentence imposed upon Attorney H. H. Hendricks, of Fossil, by the U. S. Circuit Court, for subornation of perjury, has been received by Heppner parties. Mr. Hendricks will have to serve a term of 13 months on McNeil's Island unless the President interfers. When it is understood that his conviction was secured upon the false testimony of Bill Hawk, our citizens should not hesitate to sign a petition for pardon. Mr. Hendricks has received sufficient punishment for a crime that it is very evident he did not commit. His petition was signed by every citizen of his home town.

William J. Bryan has just completed a visit to the Northwest, and now there is much talk that he may possibly be the nominee of the democrats again for president. This is not an impossible thing, for there is much strife and dissention in that party over prospective candidates and there is no denying the fact that Bryan is the most popular man in the party to-day. Of course Mr. Bryan is not an avowed candidate at this time but like our own Teddy, he may be induced to heed the demands of "the peepul" at the opportune time.

Obituary.

Dr. J. E. Adkins was born near Kirksville, Mo., October 24th, 1845, and died at his home in Hillsboro, Oregon, Feb. 22, 1912, at the age of 66 years, 3 months and 28 days.

With his parents he crossed the plains to Oregon in 1865, settling in Lane county near Eugene, and in October, 1868, came to Eastern Oregon, settling on Rhea creek to the southwest of Heppner. He was married in Heppner to Miss Martha Sperry, daughter of the late Rev. Carpus Sperry, on July 11, 1880. To this union were born six children, two of whom died in infancy, and four are now living: one daughter, Mrs. Mabel Wadsworth, of Portland, and three sons, William, Edward and Arthur, of Hillsboro. His wife died 18 years ago, and a few years later he was married to Mrs. Letitia Stewart, of Hillsboro, who died some three years later.

Dr. Adkins was a pioneer dentist of Hillsboro, having moved there 27 years ago and practiced his profession in that city up to the time of his death. He was a member of the Baptist church and a Mason in good standing for many years. He was well known, not only in the section of the state where he resided so long, but in Eastern Oregon as well, especially in Morrow county, where he resided for so many years before going to the Willamette Valley, and he frequently made professional visits to Heppner and Lone, enjoying a good practice here.

His funeral was held at the First Baptist church in Hillsboro on Sunday, Feb. 25, the Masons taking charge of the services at the grave.

To The Hibernians.

E. H. Deery, state president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and John Keeny will arrive in the city Saturday night from Portland. The gentlemen are coming to initiate new members into the Heppner council of the A. O. H. Ceremonies will take place at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Hibernian hall. As there will be an unusually large number of men in town from the surrounding country it is to be hoped that they will turn out in goodly numbers to join the A. O. H. and greet State President Deery and delegate Keeny. Both Mr. Deery and Mr. Keeny will take part in the St. Patrick's eve entertainment. Mr. Deery is a noted speaker and Mr. Keeny will certainly please his audience by some of his famous numbrs.

Matt T. Hughes shipped three car loads of prime beef steers to the Portland market yesterday morning. This is a bunch of feeders that he fattened on alfalfa this winter, and they were top stuff.

Philip Cooper, recently of Vancouver, Wash., is a new arrival in Morrow county. He has purchased the Warren place of 400 acres in the Eight Mile section, on Hale ridge, and expects to get right onto the place at once. He this week purchased a complete outfit of horses, wagons and other supplies at Lexington and will enter upon the work of farming in earnest. He thinks we have a good country here and is well pleased with the place he has purchased.

Church Announcements.

M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School at 10 a. m. Morning worship at 11 a. m. The subject for the morning sermon will be "The More Excellent way." Epworth League at 6:30. The League will meet with the Baptist Young people; and they will adjourn in time for the Methodist evening service. Evening worship at 7:30, p. m. The evening discourse will be a lecture on "Christian Evidences." Everybody cordially invited to all these services.

W. A. PRATT, Pastor.
Last Sunday was the red-letter day with the local Methodist church. In the morning at 9 o'clock there were six baptisms by immersion in the baptistry of the Disciples' church, by the Rev. W. A. Pratt, the pastor. At the Methodist church building at the eleven o'clock service there were as many more baptisms by sprinkling, by the Rev. H. O. Perry, the District Superintendent. Then the pastor received into the church twenty new members, most of them persons that had become Christians in the recent revival meetings. Then the Rev. Perry preached a very inspiring sermon and administered the communion to a large number of communicants, preaching again at night to the delight of many.

BAPTIST CHURCH.
