

Evening Public Ledger

and
THE EVENING TELEGRAPH

Philadelphia, Tuesday, July 30, 1918

LIGHT AND SHADE IN THE NEWS OF THE DAY AS GLIMPSED BY THE 'CAMERA'S KALEIDOSCOPIIC EYE

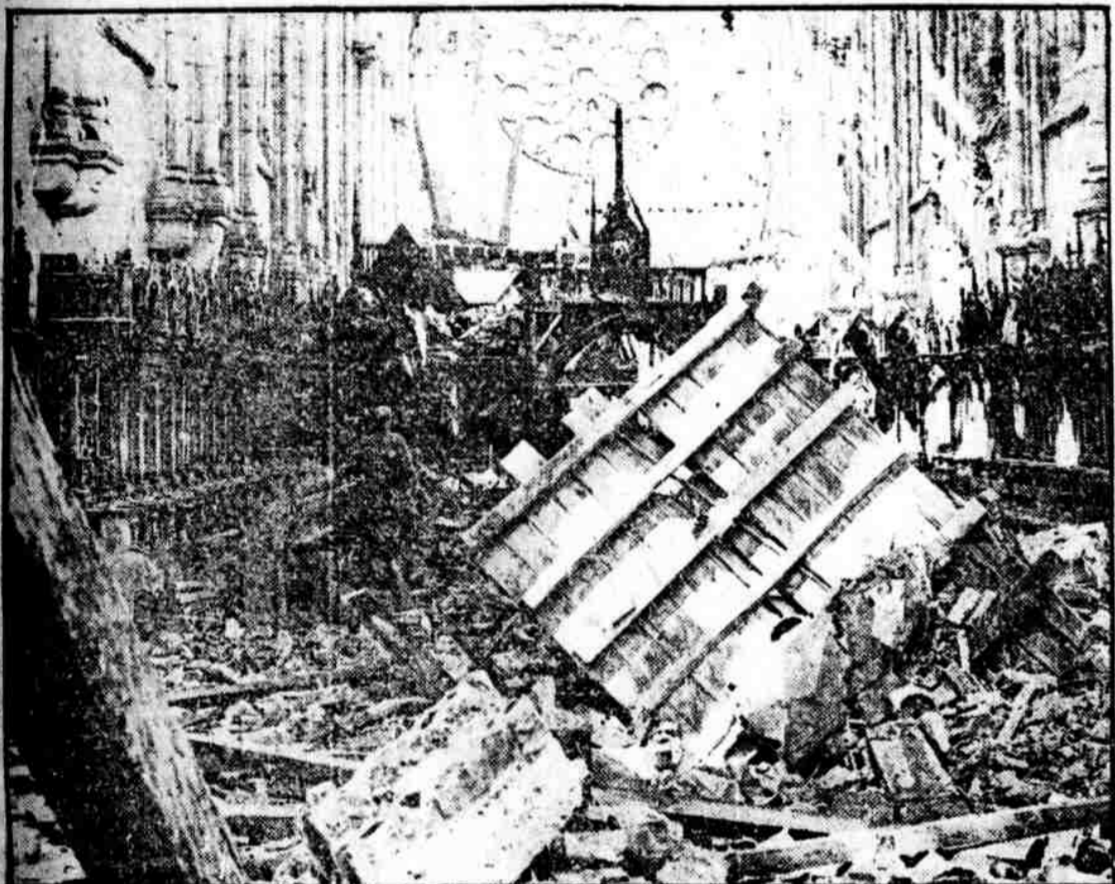

THIS WOMEN'S MACHINE GUN SQUAD, of the New York Police Reserves, is prepared to prove that the female of the species is at least as deadly as the male.

International Film Service.

IT'S HARVEST TIME for these light-hearted farmerettes, who are having a fine time on the Harlan Farm near Meadowbrook.

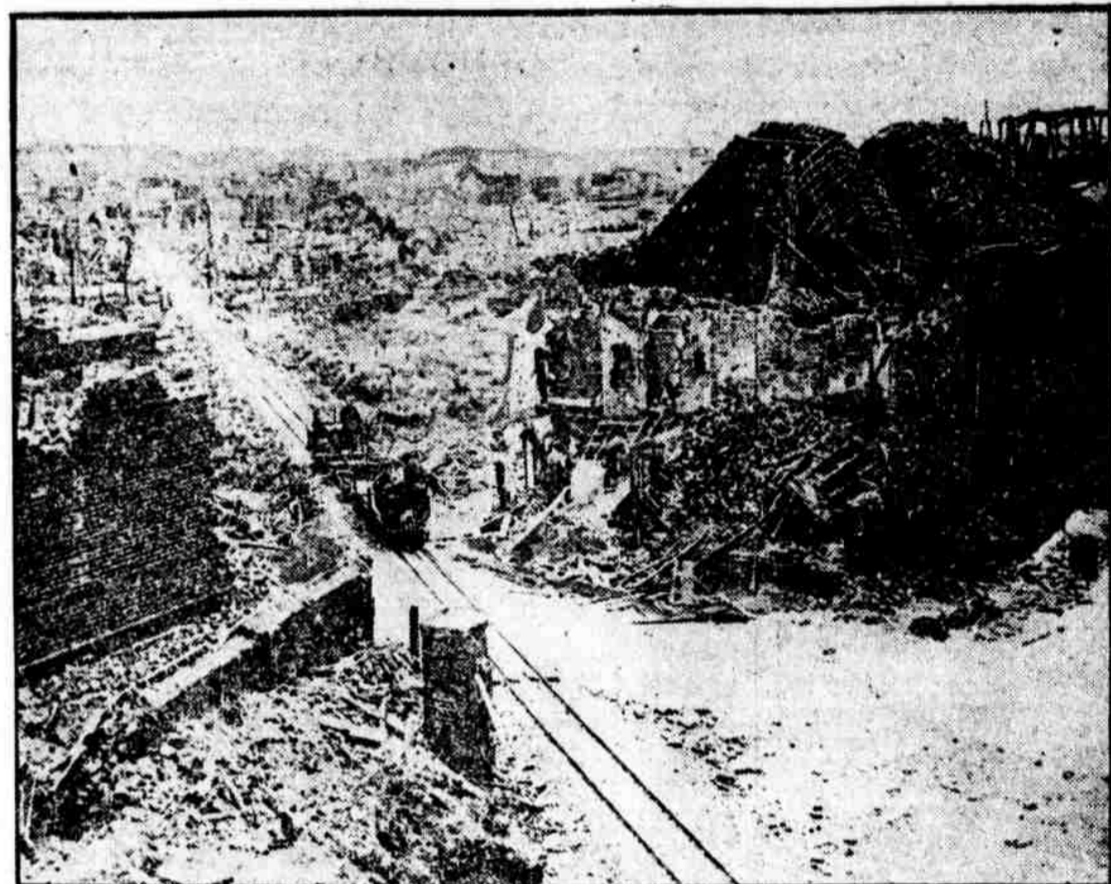

THE FAMOUS MONASTERY of Mont des Cats, where Prince Max of Hesse is buried, is being destroyed by German artillery despite the Kaiser's orders to save it. The photograph shows the destroyed abbey.

French Pictorial Service.

"NEVER FORGET, MY BOY, that it is God's cause which you are defending in France," said an old monk at the Abbey of Hautecombe in Savoy to a visiting American.

French Pictorial Service.

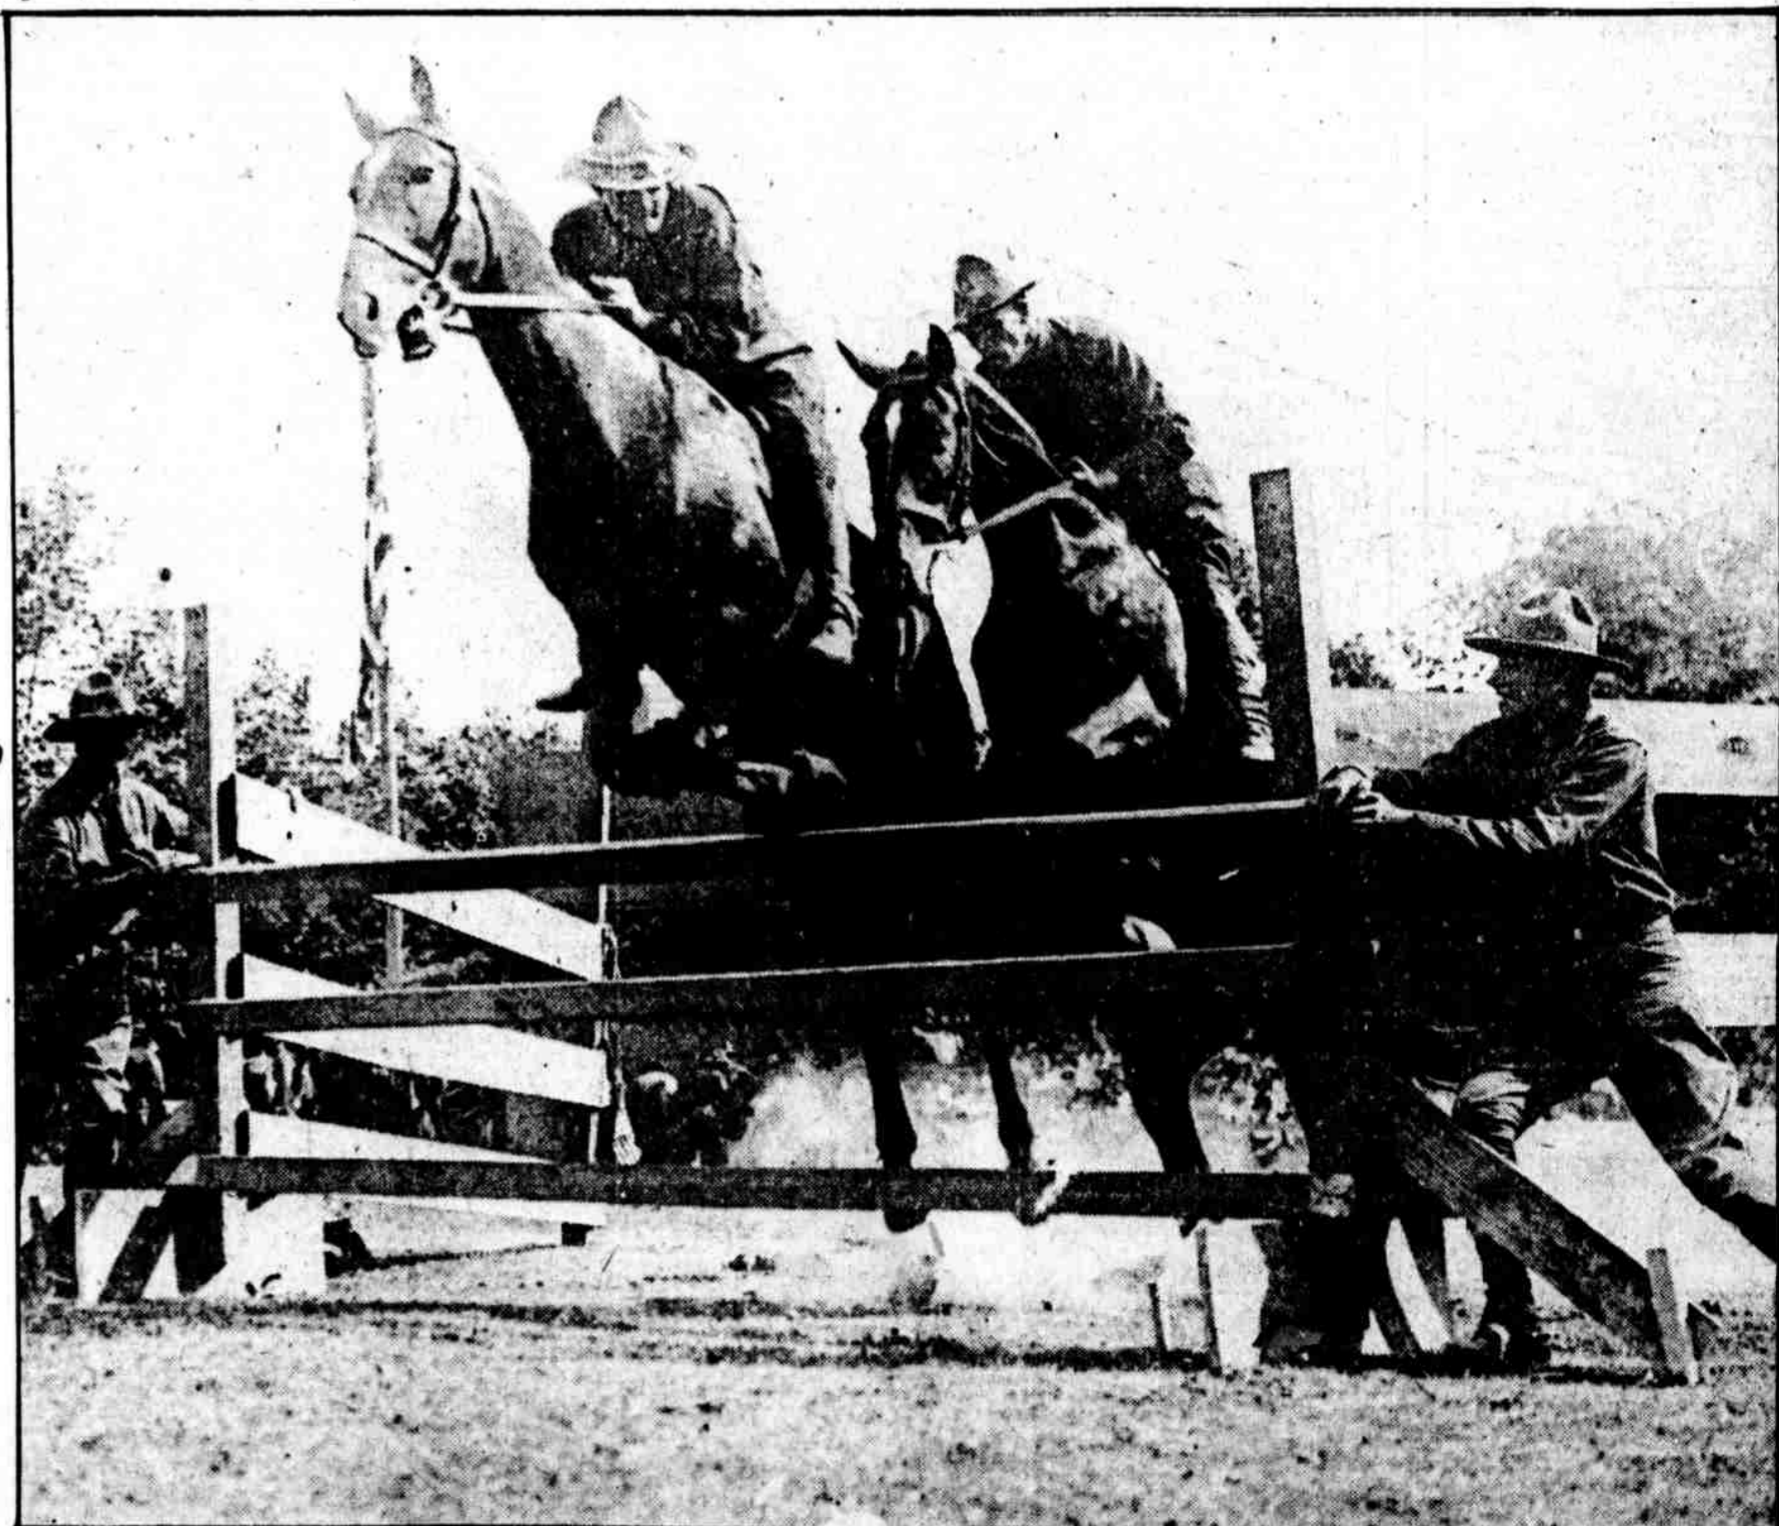

RIGHT THROUGH A RUINED VILLAGE in France the Canadians ran the track of their corps tramway to facilitate carrying materials to the front and in reconstruction work behind the lines.

Canadian Official Photograph. Underwood & Underwood.

"DEVIL DOGS" are what the Germans call the U. S. Marines, and this fine specimen snapped at the summer camp at Paoli shows the reason why.

THE MOST SEASONED COWBOY from the "wild and woolly" West can display no greater horsemanship than that exhibited by these cavalymen from Camp Dix, who have exhibited their skill in many remarkable feats.