

expounder, John C. Calhoun, would have exactly found a way by which they could pry out of the national treasury the money with which to do that in South Carolina.

"I have been all around the United States, zigzagging about, so that I have covered about 12,000 miles, and everywhere the question is, 'How can the land be made to bear more than it is bearing?'"

"The accumulation, the concentration of millions of people in cities is not healthy, and the improvements in country life, the suburban electric railway, the telephone, the rural delivery and the means of reducing the hard work of the farmer's wife by inventions and the cooperative arrangements are reaching such a point that it becomes I hope, or soon will become, more comfortable to live in the country than to live in the city."

"The rewards of agricultural success are becoming so much greater for the young men who exert ingenuity, intellect, professional knowledge and energy upon their work that they will be retained in the country. Otherwise, I should feel that the movement was one of degeneracy and not of progress."

"It does not make for the good of the State, and what we must do is by such means as possible, such laws as will encourage it, such enterprises as will bring it about, to enlarge instead of reducing our farming work community, and when that is done, when the public questions to be solved are determined largely by those who till the soil, we may know that the consideration given will be that of men engaged in an occupation that does not rack their nerves, that does not make them gamblers and liveries of rapid lives, but commits the fate of the country to men who give considerate judgment to the questions submitted to them, and have a deep-seated loyalty and a deep-seated conservatism that will preserve to us the institutions that our fathers handed down to us inviolate."

"And now, my friends, I am going to make some more speeches, and I must limit myself at each so as to reserve strength enough for all. You have a fair here, and I suppose you have a track. I may use the metaphor, or the simile, of the track to say that I am on the home stretch, and I want to get into the goal without any evidence of having broken down. Therefore, I ask you to excuse me from further remarks, but only to speak my cordial and heartfelt thanks for your hospitable reception in the capital of this great State of South Carolina."

GREATEST BATTLESHIP

In World.—The North Dakota With Turbine Engines Breaks Speed Record For Her Class.

New York World.

Rockland, Me., Nov. 4.—The North Dakota is the fastest battleship of the Dreadnought type afloat, as well as one of the two most powerful battleships in the world.

In attaining this surprising speed, the turbine engines of the North Dakota were forced to the development of more horse-power than has been reached by any other battleship afloat.

The maximum number of revolutions of her nickel composition propellers was 286 a minute. It was found that 263 revolutions in this time were sufficient to maintain the contract speed of 21 knots.

The North Dakota, by her performance today, takes precedence as a general first-class battleship over any other afloat. Her sister ship, the Delaware, which was given her trials over the same course on Oct. 23, was in uncertain possession of this honor after her trial performance, but the figures recorded for the North Dakota are decisive.

The tide was in the North Dakota's favor and this is not subtracted from the best figure. In the recorded mean, or average, however, tidal corrections are made.

While the speed runs were being recorded the North Dakota was also undergoing a two hours' test for consumption of oil and coal.

The Fore River Shipbuilding company, at Quincy, Mass., built the North Dakota, which is the first America battleship of the first class to have turbine engines installed.

Capt. Edward G. Evans, who narrowly escaped death when the tug Nezinscott was sunk off Cape Ann several months ago was in charge today. A working crew of 400 men pushed the vessel to her record performance.

Beginning at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning the North Dakota is to be put through the second test, a four hours' run at 21 knots. The run will end off Boston Light, where she will anchor and prepare for her twenty-four hours' run at twelve knots.

Within six months, it is expected, the North Dakota and the Delaware will take their places in the van of the American navy's line of sea fighters and will then rank as the greatest battleships in commission in the world.

PEARY OUTDOES THE FAUNAL NATURALIST

He Is to Get $1.20 a Word For 50,000 Words Telling of His Polar Achievement.

New York World, 5th.

The literary end of discovering the North Pole is more profitable than that of running on errands in Africa for the Smithsonian Institute. Commander Peary is to get twenty per cent. more a word for the Magazine story of his achievement than ex-President Roosevelt is getting for his hunting story, and as a rule words do not grow as long in the Arctic as they do below the Equator.

Mr. Roosevelt's price is $1, so Commander Peary is to get $1.20 a word for a story of about 50,000 words that is to run serially in Hampton's Magazine for the next eight months. A statement that the contract had been closed with the explorer was made yesterday by Benjamin B. Hampton, the editor.

LESS THAN 10,000,000 BALES.

President of National Ginners' Association Says Most Southern States' Product Will Be Much Less Than in Past Years.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 5.—J. A. Taylor, president of the National Ginners' association, today issued the following bulletin:

"Complete returns indicate a maximum crop of 9,780,000 bales, not including linters or repacks. Minimum figures 9,486,000.

"The heavy falling off is over the belt except in Georgia and the Carolinas, where there is about as good a crop as last year on a little smaller acreage.

"Maximum report by States: Alabama 969,000; Arkansas 644,000; Florida 60,000; Georgia, 1,870,000; Louisiana 239,000; Mississippi 958,000; Missouri and Virginia 58,000; North Carolina, 648,000; Oklahoma 587,000; South Carolina 1,185,000; Tennessee 253,000; Texas 2,309,000. Total 9,780,000.

"The ginners say the small yield is largely due to the smallness of bolls and low yield of line. As the crop is so near ginned, we will probably not make our December estimate."

The cotton crop in 1908 was 11,581,829 bales, while in 1907 the yield was 13,550,760.
