DEATH OF AN AFRICAN SOVEREIGN. The death of Quow Daddy, King of Axupim, West Africa, is announced. It occurred in Tunc and the event was signalized according to the unpleasant fashion of Axupim, by the sacrifice of thirty or forty men and women of his household. We wonder if the deceased sovereign was a relative of the "High Daddy" renowned in song, wherein he is repeatedly requested to "get up in the morning."

BURNING OF THE MUSEUM.

LETTER FROM MR. BARNUM. NEW YORK, July 11, 1866. Messrs. Herring & Co. (REVEREND MEN)—The destruction of the American Museum has produced a serious loss to myself and the public. I am happy to verify the old adage, that "it is an ill wind that blows nobody good," and, consequently, congratulate you that your well known sales have again demonstrated their superior first-rate qualities in an ordeal of unusual severity. The safe you made for me some time ago was in the office of the Museum, on the second floor, back part of the building, and on opening it this day has yielded up its contents in very good order—books, papers, post-cards of postage, bank bills, all in condition for immediate use, and a noble commentary on the truthfulness of Herring's Fire Proof Safes. Truly yours, I. T. BARNUM.
