Federal Judge Says Correspondents Are Exempt.

Louisville, April 30.—Correspondents of newspapers and publications cannot be considered agents of such in any action for damages for libelous statements, according to a ruling by Judge Walter Evans in the federal court. The Southern Furniture Journal of High Point, N. C., and Fred Hirschfeld, their Louisville correspondent, were sued by W. B. Miller for the publication of an article about a local furniture company, in which the wrong company was named. Judge Evans held that the correspondent sold his wares to the publication like any other customer and could not be included in the suit.
