KNOXVILLE WEEKLY JOURNAL.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.
SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 31, 1875.

EDWARD PATERET,
Publisher and Proprietor.

JOHN BELL,
FOR PRESIDENT.

Electors at Large:
W. B. Campbell, of Wilson County.
Andrew Johnson, of Greene.

Democratic Nominations.

For Governor,
JAMES D. PORTER, of Shelby.

For Secretary of State,
GEORGE W. MARTIN, of Knox.

For Treasurer,
JOHN M. BRIGHT, of Sumner.

For Comptroller,
JOHN V. Wright, of Davidson.

For Attorney General,
JOHN C. BRANNER, of Washington.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction,
JAMES D. HOSKINS, of Madison.

For Commissioner of Agriculture,
JOHN P. McCONNICO, of Obion.

For Presidential Electors,
At Large—
W. B. CAMPBELL, of Wilson.
ANDREW JOHNSON, of Greene.
1st District—
JOHN M. FLEMING, of Hawkins.
2d District—
JOHN M. BRIGHT, of Sumner.
3d District—
JOHN V. WRIGHT, of Davidson.
4th District—
JOHN C. BRANNER, of Washington.
5th District—
JOHN P. McCONNICO, of Obion.
6th District—
JAMES D. HOSKINS, of Madison.
7th District—
JAMES D. PORTER, of Shelby.
8th District—
GEORGE W. MARTIN, of Knox.
9th District—
JOHN H. THOMAS, of Bradley.

Democratic Platform.

The Democratic party of Tennessee, in convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the principles of the Federal Constitution as interpreted by the Democratic party, and declares that the following are the principles which it will maintain in the present campaign:

1st. We hold that all the sovereign powers not granted by the people to the Federal Government, as defined by the Constitution of the United States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people, and that the Federal Government is a government of limited powers.

2d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to coerce a State, or people of a State, and that all coercive measures are unconstitutional.

3d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to impose taxes for the purpose of internal improvements, and that the power to impose taxes for the purpose of protecting one branch of industry against another is unjust and unequal.

4th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a National Bank, and that the Act of Congress creating the present National Bank is unconstitutional, and that the charter granted thereby is a violation of the rights of the States.

5th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a system of internal improvements, and that the Act of Congress appropriating money for the improvement of the Mississippi River is unconstitutional.

6th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a system of education throughout the States, and that the Act of Congress appropriating money for the support of the Agricultural and Mechanical College is unconstitutional.

7th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Immigration, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Immigration is unconstitutional.

8th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Statistics, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Statistics is unconstitutional.

9th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Education, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Education is unconstitutional.

10th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Agriculture, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Agriculture is unconstitutional.

11th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Labor Statistics, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Labor Statistics is unconstitutional.

12th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Mines, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Mines is unconstitutional.

13th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Manufactures, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Manufactures is unconstitutional.

14th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Commerce, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Commerce is unconstitutional.

15th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Navigation, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Navigation is unconstitutional.

16th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Fisheries, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Fisheries is unconstitutional.

17th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Forestry, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Forestry is unconstitutional.

18th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Mechanics, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Mechanics is unconstitutional.

19th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Engineering, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Engineering is unconstitutional.

20th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Architecture, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Architecture is unconstitutional.

21st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Medicine, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Medicine is unconstitutional.

22d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Surgery, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Surgery is unconstitutional.

23d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Dentistry, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Dentistry is unconstitutional.

24th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Pharmacy, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Pharmacy is unconstitutional.

25th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Chemistry, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Chemistry is unconstitutional.

26th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Physics, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Physics is unconstitutional.

27th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Astronomy, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Astronomy is unconstitutional.

28th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Geology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Geology is unconstitutional.

29th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Meteorology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Meteorology is unconstitutional.

30th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Zoology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Zoology is unconstitutional.

31st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Botany, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Botany is unconstitutional.

32d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Ethnology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Ethnology is unconstitutional.

33d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Anthropology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Anthropology is unconstitutional.

34th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Archaeology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Archaeology is unconstitutional.

35th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Ethnography, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Ethnography is unconstitutional.

36th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Philology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Philology is unconstitutional.

37th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Linguistics, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Linguistics is unconstitutional.

38th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Literature, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Literature is unconstitutional.

39th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Art, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Art is unconstitutional.

40th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Music, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Music is unconstitutional.

41st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Poetry, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Poetry is unconstitutional.

42d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Prose, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Prose is unconstitutional.

43d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Drama, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Drama is unconstitutional.

44th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Comedy, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Comedy is unconstitutional.

45th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Tragedy, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Tragedy is unconstitutional.

46th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Farce, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Farce is unconstitutional.

47th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Satire, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Satire is unconstitutional.

48th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Irony, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Irony is unconstitutional.

49th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Humor, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Humor is unconstitutional.

50th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Wit, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Wit is unconstitutional.

51st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Repartee, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Repartee is unconstitutional.

52d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Epigram, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Epigram is unconstitutional.

53d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Pun, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Pun is unconstitutional.

54th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Anecdote, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Anecdote is unconstitutional.

55th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Story, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Story is unconstitutional.

56th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Fable, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Fable is unconstitutional.

57th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Myth, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Myth is unconstitutional.

58th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Legend, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Legend is unconstitutional.

59th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Tradition, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Tradition is unconstitutional.

60th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Folk-Lore, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Folk-Lore is unconstitutional.

61st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Mythology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Mythology is unconstitutional.

62d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Theology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Theology is unconstitutional.

63d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Religion, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Religion is unconstitutional.

64th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Morality, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Morality is unconstitutional.

65th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Ethics, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Ethics is unconstitutional.

66th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Aesthetics, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Aesthetics is unconstitutional.

67th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Metaphysics, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Metaphysics is unconstitutional.

68th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Logic, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Logic is unconstitutional.

69th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Rhetoric, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Rhetoric is unconstitutional.

70th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Grammar, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Grammar is unconstitutional.

71st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Orthography, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Orthography is unconstitutional.

72d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Orthoepy, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Orthoepy is unconstitutional.

73d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Etymology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Etymology is unconstitutional.

74th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Phonology, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Phonology is unconstitutional.

75th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Phonography, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Phonography is unconstitutional.

76th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Stenography, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Stenography is unconstitutional.

77th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Typography, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Typography is unconstitutional.

78th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Printing is unconstitutional.

79th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Publishing is unconstitutional.

80th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Bookselling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Bookselling is unconstitutional.

81st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Binding, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Binding is unconstitutional.

82d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Making, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Making is unconstitutional.

83d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

84th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

85th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

86th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

87th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

88th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

89th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

90th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

91st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

92d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

93d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

94th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

95th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

96th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

97th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

98th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

99th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

100th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

101st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

102d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

103d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

104th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

105th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

106th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

107th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

108th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

109th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

110th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

111th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

112th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

113th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

114th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

115th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

116th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

117th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

118th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

119th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

120th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

121st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

122d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

123d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

124th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

125th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

126th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

127th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

128th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

129th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

130th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

131st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

132d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

133d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

134th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

135th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

136th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

137th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

138th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

139th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

140th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

141st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

142d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

143d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

144th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

145th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

146th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

147th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

148th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

149th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

150th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

151st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

152d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

153d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

154th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

155th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

156th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

157th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

158th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

159th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

160th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

161st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

162d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

163d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

164th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

165th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

166th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

167th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

168th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

169th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

170th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

171st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

172d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

173d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

174th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

175th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

176th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

177th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

178th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

179th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

180th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

181st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

182d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

183d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

184th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

185th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

186th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

187th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

188th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

189th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

190th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

191st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

192d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

193d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

194th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

195th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

196th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

197th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

198th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

199th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

200th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

201st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

202d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

203d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

204th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

205th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

206th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

207th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

208th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

209th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

210th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

211th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

212th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

213th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

214th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

215th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

216th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

217th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

218th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

219th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

220th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

221st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

222d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

223d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

224th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

225th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

226th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

227th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

228th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

229th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

230th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

231st. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.

232d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Using, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Using is unconstitutional.

233d. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Reading, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Reading is unconstitutional.

234th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Writing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Writing is unconstitutional.

235th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Printing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Printing is unconstitutional.

236th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Publishing, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Publishing is unconstitutional.

237th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Selling, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Selling is unconstitutional.

238th. We hold that the Federal Government has no power to establish a Bureau of Paper-Buying, and that the Act of Congress creating the Bureau of Paper-Buying is unconstitutional.