Criminal Court Holds Busy Session--Sixteen Given Jail Sentence.

The November term of Criminal Court came to a close late Saturday afternoon, after one of the busiest sessions held here for some time. The docket was heavily loaded with misdemeanor cases, most of which were tried and a verdict of guilty rendered.

There were 26 Bone Dry cases; 37 public drunkenness; 10 pistol cases and three, for the unlawful manufacture of liquor, and other cases of different nature, disposed of this term. At the close of the term sheriff Spurlock had 16 new boarders.

The case of the State against Jesse Young, charged with assault with intent to commit murder, was continued by the defendant.

The jury in the Lee Netherton case, returned a verdict of "not guilty". Netherton, was tried for killing Millard Young about two years ago, in a difficulty which occurred at Netherton's home.

The case of John E. Brown charged with kissing Mrs. Lawson with carnal intent was tried. The jury was out only a short time and returned a verdict of "not guilty".

The following citizens served as grand jurors, returning 47 indictments:

W. H. Sadler foreman; Burr Keith, C. L. Lock, Tom Trisdale, Rufus Craghead, John M. Dixon, Roy Harris, Bent Smith, Morgan Murphy, J. H. Anderson, A. M. Ballard, D. C. Morgan, Georgie Flatt.

JAMES W. STAFFORD DIES SUDDENLY.

James W. Stafford, 76, one of county's most prominent and leading citizens, died suddenly Saturday morning, Nov. 12, at his home four miles southeast of Gainesboro. He had not been in good health of late, but there was no fear of any immediate danger and his death was a great shock to his relatives and friends.

Funeral service was held Sunday afternoon at the residence, conducted by Bro. John W. Fox, and Bro. John Dudley, who paid a high tribute to the memory of the deceased. A large concourse of friends attended the funeral, attesting to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Interment occurred in the Stafford cemetery near the home.

Surviving him are his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Geo. Dunuey of Freestate, and one brother, John H. Striford of Gainesboro.

James W. Stafford was the son of Joseph and Nancy Stafford, and first saw the light in Talley's Hollow. His boyhood was spent on the farm, where he learned that industry and honesty were the two cardinal principles for success in this life. He made these apart of his every day life and they became the outstanding features in his character.

During the Civil war his sympathy was with the Union and in the spring of 1863 he joined the Confederate army under Col. A. E. Garrett, and was attached to the 1st Tennessee Cavalry and stationed at Murfreesboro. He was discharged at Nashville, April 2, 1865, with a most excellent record for service.

He was first married to Miss Lucinda Netherton, who only lived a short time. One daughter, Mrs. Geo. Dudley, was born to this union, who survives him. After living a widower a few years he married Miss Elizabeth Harley, a daughter was born to this union, but died at the age of five.

Political, Mr. Stafford was a Republican. He voted the first Republican ticket cast in Jackson County, and when only two others besides his were cast. He preached the Republican doctrine in season and out of season and at a time when it took strong courage and backbone. Mainly through his efforts has the Republican party become a factor to be reckoned with in this county. The first district, where he has spent all of his life, has been a Republican stronghold for years. He served his party well and for many years has been chairman of the county executive committee. He was the Republican member on the County Board of Election and has served since this first became a law.

He served as Clerk and Master from 1886 to 1890, being appointed by Judge Wade.

For twenty-five years he has lived in the vicinity of his late home, where his estate is. He conducted a store successful for a number of years, in connection with his farm. This he sold four years ago, and since then has devoted his time to other interests.

He was devoted to his friends, and took special delight in helping those who needed help. No one was ever turned away from his door, and many will ever remember the succor given by his hands, now still in death. Peace to his memory.

PEPTO-MANGAN KEEPS BLOOD PURE Growing Children Need Plenty of Red Cells in Blood.

When the young body is growing, children, frequently experience weakness. Girls and boys sometimes play too hard and over-tax their system. They become pale, weak, and sickly. They lose their appetites, become languid, and are not able to make progress in school work. "Growing too fast" is often true. It must be important to keep the blood of growing girls and boys in a healthy state.

Pepto-Mangan keeps the blood pure. The red cells in the blood are increased. They carry life-giving oxygen to all parts of the body, and wholesome youthfulness bloom again in clear complexions, bright eyes and buoyant spirits. Sold both in liquid and tablet form by druggist everywhere. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on the package. Advertisement.

B. Toney Passes Away.

W. H. (B.) Toney, age 72, one of the county's most reliable and worthy citizens, died at his home on Cumberland river four miles east of Gainesboro, Monday night at 11:30 o'clock, following an attack of flue-pneumonia. He had been sick about four weeks and his death was not unexpected by those familiar with his physical condition.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, Elder Marion Harris officiating in the presence of a large number of people. The remains were laid to rest in the family cemetery near the home.

"Uncle B.," as he was generally called, was a consistent member of the Christian church and was noted for his veracity and honor. He had lived in this county all his life, and by hard work and good management had accumulated a substantial living, and was always ready to share his part in any worthy cause. He was a man who attended strictly to his own business and was liked by all who knew him.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Malissa Toney, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. F. Dodson, and Mrs. Lizzie Jackson, of Rt-2.

Dick Cornwell.

Cookeville, Tenn., Nov. 16.—H. M. Cornwell, familiarly known to practically all the traveling men of the state as "Uncle Dick" Cornwell, a highly respected citizen of this city, is critically ill. He was stricken with paralysis several days ago and his condition has gradually grown worse and is now extremely precarious. He has for several years been the proprietor and manager of the Riche-lieu hotel of this city. He has been engaged in the hotel business in this section of the state for many years.—Nashville Banner.

Mr. Cornwell has numerous friends in Jackson county who will deeply regret to learn of his illness.

Stork Delivers the Goods.

Mr. and Mrs. Young are formerly of Gainesboro, and have been married 22 years the 11th of this month, and this is the first little cherube to brighten their home. Their many friends here extend congratulations.

CLUB WORK KEEPS BOYS ON FARM

County Agents Rendering Great Service In Training Junior Farmers

For several years the farmers in almost every section have complained bitterly about the boys leaving the farms and seeking work in the cities. But it was not until the Division of Agricultural Extension became active in club work, organizing boys' and girls' corn clubs, pig clubs, calf clubs, and lamb clubs that anything definite was done to stop this cityward trend of the country boys.

The work of the county agent covers a broad scope, all of his work is valuable, there is not better investment than a County Agent, but of all the work that has been performed by the County Agents in the Southeast the organization of boys' and girls' club is outstanding. Through the medium of boys' and girls' clubs, these little men and women are taught the fundamentals of agriculture and stock raising, and it is indeed amazing to note how soon they become interested and how they each try to excel the others in their efforts. Another interesting fact, frequently the father has followed certain given lines in farming or feeding for years, and would not listen to any argument along progressive lines, yet will permit his son or daughter to join a club, raise an acre of corn or feed a pig or calf, and the father then unconsciously absorbs valuable lessons through his child being taught along modern methods.

Farming, which embraces stock raising and feeding, is becoming more and more a business every day, and the farmer needs all the information he can get. The Extension Service of the University of Tennessee and those of other state universities in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Departments are doing a great deal of research work and conducting experiments all the time. Through the boys' and girls' club work, the youngsters can receive full benefit of all research work and experiments pertaining to agriculture and livestock applicable to their respective sections of the country, boys' and girls' club work means the best possible education at the lowest possible cost.

Value of Work Shown. Never before since club work in agriculture and home economics for boys and girls was started has the value of such been demonstrated in Tennessee as it has during the past season. At community, county and division fairs their work was in evidence. Pigs, calves, poultry, field crops, cooking, canning, etc., exhibits fitted, prepared and shown by these future farmers and homemakers of the great state were wonderful. No one who saw these splendid exhibits could help but be impressed with far reaching value of the work from an educational standpoint as well as a remunerative one. They won many valuable prizes and in some cases where they entered their products in competition with experienced farmers and farm women they were by reason of their expert training able to take the choicest prizes. In growing increased yields and in the production of livestock as well as in household arts club boys and girls have brought home to their fathers and mothers many valuable lessons.

If there is a County Agent in your county and he is active in boys' and girls' club work, be sure your boys and girls join these clubs; if you don't see to this you are not treating the boys and girls right. If you haven't a County Agent, get busy with your neighbors and your County Court and see to it that one is secured without delay. Resolve now to let your boys or girls join some of the clubs which will be reorganized in the early spring.

DON'T BUILD POULTRY HOUSE TOO WIDE OR TOO HIGH

A poultry house should not be so wide that the sun cannot reach the back of the house, says Mrs. Kate E. Wells, poultry specialist, Division of Extension, University of Tennessee, or it will be damp. Eighteen feet is a convenient width for a large house if there are no alleyways. The house should be built as low as possible without danger of attendants bumping their heads against the ceiling. A low house is more easily warmed than a high one. Dimensions recommended by Mrs. Wells are 5 feet high at back and 7 to 8 feet high in front.

The size of the building required will depend largely on the number of fowls to be kept and on the size of the flocks. From 25 to 100 seems to be about as many as is safe and economical to keep together. With flocks of this size about 4 square feet of floor space should be allotted to each bird, which will suffice in most cases where careful attention is given to cleanliness and ventilation. Three to 3 1/2 square feet is enough for Leghorns in large flocks. If the fowls are kept in smaller flocks a little more floor space per bird will be needed. Where the climate is so mild that it is unnecessary to keep the fowls confined, except for a few days at a time, and especially if the fowls are kept in small colony houses, less space per bird will be sufficient. The smaller breeds, being more active and restless require about as much room as the larger breeds.
