PLANNING WORK ON THE FARM ESSENTIAL FOR SUCCESS.

Farmers should plan their work so as to be ready to do the right thing at right time. To be successful in farming, it is just as essential that operations be systematized as it is that system is necessary in any other business. Some farm work, such as repairing, building fences, etc., can be done at any season of the year, while feeding, preparing the soil, planting, cultivation, harvesting and marketing must be done when all the conditions are favorable for that particular work to get the best results.

The farm employs who wants to succeed and earn the reputation for dependability cannot afford to neglect doing his work on time—doing it when it should be done. He cannot afford to put off till tomorrow the task assigned for today. It does not matter in what capacity we work we have responsibilities. Somebody is depending on us. And in order to do our work well and at the right time, we must plan for each day and week.

In a former article I discussed the value of dependability, especially in its relation to work on the farm. There is a time to do certain things on the farm, and upon certain ones on the farm depends the responsibility for doing it or seeing that it is done and done well.

The farmer is a business man—or should be. He must know with definiteness and skill many things. He must know when to plant and what to plant in certain soils. He must know how wisely to choose cattle for feeding; to buy feedstuffs wisely for them, such as he cannot produce himself and may have to buy; and he must know how to feed them economically.

BIG OPPORTUNITY FOR TRAINED YOUNG MEN ON THE FARM.

There is no better business than farming, and there is none that offers a better guarantee of independence to the man who will give the business proper study. Thousand of wealthy men are today wise enough to be acquiring landed estates. Most of them desire to live upon them, at least part of the time. They are searching for men who know how to manage these estates. They are willing to pay generously for trained young men who have the ability to manage farms, and get the best out of them. They want the young men who know how. There are not nearly enough trained young men to do this work. The Department of Agriculture frequently receives letters from owners of large farms who want the service of capable farm managers. And I regret to say that there are very few who can be recommended who are not already employed at good salaries.

It is a well known and deplorable fact, that the boys and girls in recent years have been drifting from the farms to the cities, and this has been one of the chief causes of the increased cost of living. There are not enough people on the land producing the foodstuffs and material for clothing. There must be a movement back to the farm. And there is no better opportunity for the bright and intelligent farm boy than to make a special

To The Voters of Jackson County.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of Trustee.

It has been the custom in this county for many years, that when a party has filled the office of Trustee and made an efficient officer, to honor him with the office the second time. I have filled the office of Trustee one term and the records show, for themselves, how well I have performed the duties of the office, and every citizen of this county is invited to inspect these records. While I do not rely on custom, or tradition to elect me to the office, which I seek, I do rely on my record, both as a private citizen and a public official.

In case you should honor me with your confidence, and re-elect me as County Trustee, I will endeavor to do, in the future, that which I have done in the past: Perform the duties of the office to the best of my skill and ability, according to one and all a courteous and fair treatment.

I will endeavor to see every citizen of Jackson County before the August election, and to talk the matter over with each of them, and to lay my claim to the office before them. However, if circumstances be such, that I fail to see you before that time, I do most sincerely and earnestly solicit your vote and influence, and when you go to cast your ballot for Trustee will ask that you consider the matter from every standpoint, and that after doing so you place thereon, your choice.

Your Obedient Servant,
J. F. Stout,

study of farming because there will always be a demand for men who know how successfully to operate farms. "Ever remember," said Goldthwait, "that for health and substantial wealth, for rare opportunities for self improvement, for long life and real independence, farming is the best business in the world. So celebrated and authority as Emerson says: "The first farmer was the first man, and all historic nobility rests on possession and use of land."

Happy the man who till his field,
Contents with rustic labor;
Earth doth to him her fullness yield,
Hap' what may be his neighbor
Well days sound night; oh can there be
A life more rational and free?

Middle Tennessee Normal

This has been general clean up week in Murfreesboro. The program has been carried out pretty well, and the city has been cleaned up in general.

The local physicians have used the Chapel period this week in discussing some phase of sanitary conditions, essential to the health of the community as a whole.

On Monday the farm and dairy of Henry King was sold. His farm lay's 1½ miles south of town and contained 170 acres. It was sold for $5,000 on day of sale.

Mr. King also had one of the the most up-to-date herds of pure bred Jersey's to be found about--LABOR "Labor not for the meat that perisheth but for that which endureth unto eternal life."--John: 6-27.

What God Says

God says that to Christian believers. He doesn't much care what other people labor for. As long as they are self-willed and have their back turned on Him they might as well have as good a time as they can, working for what they like.

But the true believer is cared for by God, especially as long as he keeps working for things that endure unto life eternal. What are those things? Three, surely: "Now abideth Faith, Hope, Love." Faith in God as revealed in Jesus Christ, though the infallible Word of God—Hope, in the one solution of all earth's problems in a benevolent autocracy, presided over by that Godman whom the world rejected—Love, which in its very essence is eternal because God is Love.

Get right with God through Jesus Christ, you fellowmen, and go to work for these things and don't worry about having three meals a day and a place to sleep.

The most miserable people in the world are they who are forever sticking up for their own rights. And the happiest are those who sweat in a God-inspired effort to bring God's Faith and His Hope and His Love into some other fellow's life.

anywhere in this section of the state. The 80 head of Jersey's brought $19,210. These were composed of cows and calves. However, this was a general average of a little better than $240.00 per head. That was very good money, considering the number of calves that he had among them, I might add that these cattle were all of the Island bred type.

On Friday evening the Claxton & Drongole gave their annual play, which proved to be a success.

Reservations are now being made for the summer school, so if you anticipate coming to the Normal this summer, it would be wise to make your reservation now.

Work of the new building is progressing nicely.

News From Neighboring Counties.

(Smith County.)

The spring term of our school so efficiently taught by Miss Aliene McDearman and her two splendid assistants, closed Friday evening with an interesting and well rendered program, each of the children acquitting themselves well.

There will be a play given by the pupils of the Chestnut Mound High school Saturday evening, May 6, 1922, at high school auditorium. Music and reading will be features of the program, directed by Miss Lola Hughes.

The residence of Van D. West of Deafated was destroyed by fire about 8 o'clock last Tuesday morning. Mr. West was preparing breakfast at the time the fire was discovered and it is thought the fire originated from the kitchen flue. The flames gained head way rapidly and practically all the household goods were burned.

Mr. West was postmaster and the postoffice was in his residence, but it is understood that most of the valuables connected with the postoffice were saved. Mr. West was partially covered by insurance.

Those who are interested in the Smith County Co-operative Creamery, recently started at Carthage, are well pleased with the way the institution has started off. During the first week the creamery turned out something like one thousand pounds of butter, and the butter is first class in every respect, it having passed the approval of the government creamery man who was here a few days ago to look over the plant and inspect its work.

The amount of cream being received is steadily increasing each week and the people are more and more appreciating their own home industry. —Carthage Courier.

Man Meets Horrible Death.

(Overton County)

Grady Zachry, a young man about 22 or 23 years of age, who lived on the farm of Charlie Billingsley, two miles north-east of town, came to a violent death Sunday afternoon in a most unusual manner.

He and his family were spending the day with the family of a man named Savage. Early in the afternoon, his host told him something about a cave or sink hole near by and the two men, at Zachry's suggestion, went to look at it. The hole is some 20 to 30 feet deep and some 6 to 8 feet in diameter. The men looked in, and Zachry threw a rock into the hole. As he turned the rock loose, his feet slipped and he was thrown into the opening violently. When men went in to rescue him, he was found with his head broken, mangled and torn beyond recognition. Many who saw the body, state they never saw any one so badly mangled.

Zachry was a son of Jim Zachry, of the seventh district, and was reputed to be a good boy. He leaves a wife and two small children. The body was taken to old home, near Fellowship, for burial.—Livingston Enterprise.

Mother and Baby Perish in Flames.

(White County.)

Monday night Mrs. Robert Presley and 11-months-old babe perished in the flames that consumed the residence which they occupied. The house was on the place of William Austin, about three miles southeast of town. Mr. Presley came to town Tuesday morning to procure a casket for the remains of his wife and baby and related the shocking tragedy to The News reporter as follows: He had been plowing that day and his wife was helping in the field. Being very tired they retired shortly after supper. About 9 o'clock Mr. Presley was awakened to find the house on fire and the roof falling in. He sprang from the bed and ran out of the house, but quickly returned to rescue his wife and baby. He heard his wife call, but could not get to the room on account of flames, and the wife and baby perished. After the house had burned it was found that the bodies had been almost entirely consumed, only a few bones of Mrs. Presley were found and the torso of the baby. The building was a two story log house with frame rooms built to it. It is thought the fire started from the kitchen flue.

Mr. Presley is twenty five years old and is a renter on Mr. Austin's place. He had been married about two years, his wife being Miss Rema Hensley. The remains will be interred today (Thursday) at Mt. Gilead cemetery.—Sparta News.

First Church To Be Built In Jamestown.

(Fentress County)

JAMESTOWN, Tenn., April 26.—The Methodist congregation, through the energetic leadership of the pastor, Rev. Robert Hall, has about completed a new church building at this place. It will be ready for dedication in a few days. It is the first church house to be erected here, notwithstanding the fact that Jamestown was incorporated 85 years ago. The town is beginning to learn to support a church and a pastor. The courthouse and school building were used for church purpose until 1892, when the Masonic hall was completed. The lower floor of this building has been used by all denominations since that date.

The interior of the new building is splendidly arranged and is well furnished with comfortable seats, and is perfectly lighted with electricity. The

To The Voters.

Having heretofore announced my candidacy for the office of Sheriff of Jackson County, in the columns of the Sentinel, I wish to say further, that I am in the race to the finish, and if the high honor is bestowed upon me, I will do all in my power to make the people an efficient officer. I am for enforcement, and will do my official duty regardless of consequences.

I understand there are six other candidates for this office, all of whom are my friends, and good citizens, and I have no abuse or criticism to throw at either. If you believe I am the man for the place, I want your vote and influence. If not the choice of the people, I shall have no ill-feeling toward any one. I can truthfully say that no man will appreciate your support more than I.

Thanking you in advance for any favors, I am,

Respectfully,

John W. Stafford.
