

THE CAMDEN CHRONICLE.

VOL. L. NO. 23

CAMDEN, TENNESSEE.

JUNE 4, 1915

Little Locals.

S. H. Hall was in Johnsonville on business Saturday.

Noah C. Melton of Eva City was here on business Saturday.

Robert L. Davis of Nashville spent Sunday here with homefolks.

Rub-My-Tism—antiseptic, anodyne—kills pain, stops putrefaction

Newton T. Bowles and family of Big Sandy spent Sunday here with relatives.

Born, in this city, Sunday, May 30, to Trustee and Mrs. William S. Corbitt, a son.

E. C. Francisco and family of Culman, Ala., are visiting his parents near Liberty.

Quite a number of Camdenites attended children's day at Liberty Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hudson of Coxburg spent Sunday here with the former's parents.

Mrs. Georgia Anderson and son, Master Joe, are spending a few days at McLemoresville.

Men's suits, hats and ties at reduced prices Saturday and Monday, June 5-7, at W. D. Spencer's.

D. G. Hudson of Nashville has been spending a few days here with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Hudson.

For new crop, re-cleaned Tennessee German millet seed (only $1.65 per bushel) call on T. A. Berry at the depot.

J. P. Woody and family left the first of the week on a visit to relatives at Corinth, Miss., Jackson and Savannah.

Bertram D. Johnson of Dover was called here this week on account of the illness of his father, David Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Bowles and Mrs. Lee Bowles and daughter, Miss Inez, spent Sunday with relatives in Big Sandy.

See the Camden Produce Co. at the depot before you buy hay. They have a car of choice hay, and the prices are right.

Doss Lynch, who held the place of guard at the State prison near Nashville, has returned to his home in Middlebrook.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Morris of Union City stopped off between trains Sunday to visit relatives while enroute to Nashville.

James H. Combs and Walter Lynch are attending the twenty-fifth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans at Richmond, Va. It is intimated that this will be the last reunion. The veterans of the sixties are growing old and feeble, and the reunions tax their waning strength to the utmost.

No. 666 will cure chills and fever. It is the most speedy remedy we know.

When in need of hay, corn, oats, wheat shorts, wheat bran, alfalfa, mixed feed, etc., see T. A. Berry at the depot.

Lost—A due bill on J. J. Weatherly issued to Dorsey Holland for $8.90. A reward for its recovery will be paid to finder by J. H. Whitfield & Brother.

J. C. McAmis of Nashville, a specialist in agronomy, who is co-operating with A. D. Knox, assistant industrial agent of Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway in conducting the alfalfa and clover clubs in Benton County, has advised Justice O. P. Lashlee that he will be in Camden June 7 on a tour of inspection of the county.

GROWTH OF EXPORTS.

The country's excess of merchandise exports over imports amounted to $851,000,000 for the ten months ending with April. The month of May brought it above $900,000,000. The end of the fiscal year will see it in the neighborhood of $1,000,000,000.

We have heard of the United States as a "billion-dollar country" in point of Federal expenditure of public revenue. No one has ever before heard of the United States as a billion-dollar country in point of a trade balance with the outside world, which means to the nation an equivalent sum in reduction of foreign debt and accumulation of foreign credits, and in command over the world's exchanges and the world's gold supply. This is a horse of another color.

There are financial offsets to this extraordinary exhibit of increased financial power. The unusual export excess is partly due to imports reduced by the war, and reduced imports have cut down customs revenue and created a deficit which the war taxes are evidently not to overcome in its entirety. But in the presence of so great an addition to the country's money and credit resources within a single year, it is a small item to overcome.

Deficits growing out of boasted billion-dollar tax extravagances are one thing. They are another when growing out of billion-dollar surpluses in the foreign trade.—New York World.

No. 666 will cure malaria or bilious fever. It kills the germs.

Lofty Colonnades of the Superb Court of the Four Seasons, Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, 1915

THIS photograph faintly portrays the beauty of the arches that stand between the Court of the Four Seasons and the Western Venetian Court. While it truly presents the attractiveness of the architecture, it cannot even hint at the beauty of color tones.

The plasters shown in this photograph are of verd antique bronze, the background of imitation Travertine is of ochre hue more than half the height of the arch, and the upper portion is of Pompeian red, with touches of orange and copper green in the ornamentation.

Inside the arches are of cerulean blue, and bas-relief in white shows scenes typical of the seasons. The square wall surface at the left of the picture shows where one of many mural paintings will be placed.

Looking through the arch, a part of the Court of the Four Seasons may be seen. Closer inspection shows a verse from Spenser and below it the signs of the Zodiac.

The world is to be given something new in the system of courts at the 1915 Exposition, and each one is to be a revelation in modern construction. The Exposition will open at San Francisco on Feb. 20, 1915.

PRINTING THE NEWS.

We often hear some thoughtless fellow say, "If I were running a paper, I would print the news. I do not care whom it might hit. If they don't want to get into the paper, let them keep out of trouble."

We remember one particular instance in which a similar remark was made.

We had, through the pleadings of an old mother and a tearful sister, "killed" a good story concerning the escapade of a rather worthless young fellow. To his mother and sister he was not so worthless, and they prevailed on us not to publish the item as it would disgrace them. And we did not print it.

So we were accused of cowardice by this certain critic and were told that we did not know how to run a paper.

In vain we tried to explain that many things besides our own personal likes and dislikes entered into our weekly labor.

It was no use, he said, we should print the news.

Six months later the same man came sneaking up to our office to plead and beg with us not to print a much worse story in which he himself was mixed up.

We'd the story but had no intention of printing it, for it was one of those things that it is best for all concerned and for the public, to suppress.

But our critic had heard that we knew the details and, with the unfairness that characterized his first utterance, at once jumped to the conclusion that we would chortle with joy over a chance to flaunt such a choice bit of gossip in the faces of our readers.

Remembering his attitude on the other occasion we let him squirm a bit.

We reminded him of his former statement and intimated that he had at that time opened our eyes. "We would publish the news. If anyone did not want to get into the paper, let them keep out of trouble."

He remembered. He admitted that he had so expressed himself.

But he was wrong, he said. And this case was different.

Moreover, he was a prominent man—and married—and all of the same stuff that every editor hears when some one gets into trouble. Well, the story was not printed. It never would have been. But we feel sure that our critic believes that the only thing that kept it out was his "prominence" and "influence."

No, dear friend, about the only element that was totally ignored in coming to our decision was you, yourself.

How to Keep Babies Well.

Perhaps the most valuable article in the June issue of the Southern Woman's Magazine, and certainly the one of the most serious and helpful moment to those young mothers to whom it comes as a personal bit of instruction and good cheer, is the one on "How to keep our babies well."

This paper was written by a physician of long experience as a special practitioner among babes and little children, and his article is given here with the sincere hope that it may be the means of helping our young mothers through the trying summer months, and of making the new babies the happy and jolly little bits of good health and happiness that they have a right to be. This article is one of a number to be given at short intervals in the interest of child health.

If you have business with any of the county officials you will find them in the First National Bank Building.
