

THE DAILY REBEL.

Published every day (Sundays excepted) BY FRANC. M. PAUL.

Terms of Subscription. One copy one month... Rates of Advertising.

THE DAILY REBEL.

SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 16, 1864. EVENING EDITION.

Latest from the Front.

All was quiet yesterday, along our line in the front, with slight skirmishing, and some artillery firing.

According to the Rebels, the Confederates have called on the militia, the Columbus Times says the Governor does not expect the emergency of the destruction of Johnston's army.

It appears that Lord Lyons has applied to Secretary Seward for the release of the British man-of-war, the Trent, which was captured by a Yankee vessel.

The Wilmington Journal says that the Confederates have laid a claim to "Maryland" and have laid the gloves with which they made their previous visit.

George P. Morris, author of "Wooden Spars that Iron," is in the line where "Wooden Spars that Iron" is in the line where "Wooden Spars that Iron" is in the line.

The Mobile Tribune has information which it thinks leaves no doubt that Gen. Canby is preparing a formidable expedition against Mobile.

In the Federal House of Representatives, a committee reported adversely on the memorial of citizens of Illinois, for a cessation of hostilities against the rebels.

General Dix has refused "Massachusetts" the correspondent of the Tribune Herald, permission to send his letters without first submitting them to him.

The New York Times thinks it strange captures Richmond, the rebel cause is not dead, and its downfall will be at least a year or two in the future.

Report of men admitted to Hospital at Griffin, Ga., July 14th, 1864. The following named soldiers were admitted to Hospital at this Post today.

- CATONIA HOSPITAL. Captain W. B. Latta, 1st 154th Tenn Reg. Major R. N. Tanky, 37th Tenn. R. P. Sloan, 37th Tenn. Art. Sar. T. Mitchell, 29th Ala. Private W. A. McClendon, White's bat. G. W. Wright, 1st 154th Tenn. J. G. Starnes, 1st 154th Tenn.

Meeting in Honor of Col. John R. Johnson Deceased. At a meeting of the Tennessee men in Griffin at the Bank of Tennessee, to express their regard for the loss to the country and the respect and sympathy for the death of Col. John R. Johnson, 29th Tenn. Regt.

On motion, Governor L. G. Harris was requested to act as Chairman, and Leon Trevelick appointed Secretary.

On motion of Gen. W. C. Witherspoon, a committee of five gentlemen was appointed to present resolutions expressive of the feelings of the meeting, composed of the following gentlemen: Gen. W. C. Witherspoon, Maj. Geo. W. Childers, Gen. Robt. C. Foster, P. C. Cunningham, Esq., and Gen. Granville P. Smith.

The committee reported the following resolutions which, on motion, were unanimously adopted. Death has again invaded our ranks, and from our midst recruited another of the gallant and brave Tennessee Legion, Col. John R. Johnson, of the 29th Tennessee regiment, who died at the front.

The soldier now no more has been spared from the scene of his temporary duty, and though it may be for him, as in our loss, hence we must say adieu to him.

He is gone from the bonds of friendship, whose life has been a quietude made him a favorite companion. He is gone from that noble staff of officers—the staff of the army—where his high moral principles, soldierly bearing and raising gave him rest, and often of confidence. He is gone from his position upon whose resolution his good conduct had set a noble example, and with whose noble and bright example of his youthful deeds had identified him.

God that State must account to him in his presence. He is gone from the domestic hearth, where his presence cheered the heart of a father, was an exile from the home, and where he was to see the hope and stay of a family already bereaved. The bereavement to the State, army, the friend, and the father and family is truth heavy, but as the flow comes from him it is all wisdom, we humbly bow to his will, and it will be done!

We deem this occasion not inappropriate in which to record our esteem for him whose rec-

THE CONFEDERATE RANS.

A few days ago there lay, as there still lies in the streets, two enormous masses which twenty years ago would have been astonishing, if not ridiculous. One was a man, the other a woman, both of them, it is said, were taken from the young men of the Volunteer States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States.

It is a singular fact, not to be forgotten, indeed, as that of the Alabama, that no man of the Alabama was ever taken from the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States.

With the 27th regiment, by a march, had been taken from the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States.

It is a singular fact, not to be forgotten, indeed, as that of the Alabama, that no man of the Alabama was ever taken from the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States.

It is a singular fact, not to be forgotten, indeed, as that of the Alabama, that no man of the Alabama was ever taken from the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States.

It is a singular fact, not to be forgotten, indeed, as that of the Alabama, that no man of the Alabama was ever taken from the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States.

It is a singular fact, not to be forgotten, indeed, as that of the Alabama, that no man of the Alabama was ever taken from the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States.

It is a singular fact, not to be forgotten, indeed, as that of the Alabama, that no man of the Alabama was ever taken from the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States.

It is a singular fact, not to be forgotten, indeed, as that of the Alabama, that no man of the Alabama was ever taken from the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States.

It is a singular fact, not to be forgotten, indeed, as that of the Alabama, that no man of the Alabama was ever taken from the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States, to be taken to the young men of the Confederate States.

SPEAK NOT HARSHLY.

Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any. Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any.

Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any. Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any.

Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any. Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any.

Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any. Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any.

Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any. Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any.

Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any. Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any.

Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any. Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any.

Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any. Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any.

Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any. Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any.

Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any. Speak not harshly—speak of me. Every human heart must feel. Though I am but a poor man, I have a heart as true as any.

BY AUTHORITY.

Public Acts. First Congress of the Confederate States. Passed at the fourth session, which was begun and held at the city of Richmond, in the State of Virginia, on Monday, the seventh day of February, 1862, and adjourned on Thursday, the eighteenth day of February, 1862.

Section 1. That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized to issue, in the name of the Confederate States of America, such bills of credit as may be necessary to meet the public exigencies of the Government.

Section 2. That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized to issue, in the name of the Confederate States of America, such bills of credit as may be necessary to meet the public exigencies of the Government.

Section 3. That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized to issue, in the name of the Confederate States of America, such bills of credit as may be necessary to meet the public exigencies of the Government.

Section 4. That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized to issue, in the name of the Confederate States of America, such bills of credit as may be necessary to meet the public exigencies of the Government.

Section 5. That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized to issue, in the name of the Confederate States of America, such bills of credit as may be necessary to meet the public exigencies of the Government.

Section 6. That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized to issue, in the name of the Confederate States of America, such bills of credit as may be necessary to meet the public exigencies of the Government.

Section 7. That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized to issue, in the name of the Confederate States of America, such bills of credit as may be necessary to meet the public exigencies of the Government.

Section 8. That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized to issue, in the name of the Confederate States of America, such bills of credit as may be necessary to meet the public exigencies of the Government.

Section 9. That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized to issue, in the name of the Confederate States of America, such bills of credit as may be necessary to meet the public exigencies of the Government.

THE NEW YORK NEWS.

The New York News of the 14th inst., holds a letter from Rev. R. L. Johnson, Professor in the Theological Seminary of Hanover, N. H., to a gentleman in New York.

Our Seminary now has only four students, and it is not likely that it will be able to do more than to maintain its present position.

Gen. Jackson's friends and admirers are doing all in their power to secure the publication of a life of the great hero.

It will appear in the Confederate States and London newspapers, that the late General Jackson was a man of great talents and high character.

The Arab horse is a breed of great value, and it is to be hoped that the Government will do all in its power to protect it.

The Congress of the Confederate States of America has passed a law which will be of great benefit to the people.

The Congress of the Confederate States of America has passed a law which will be of great benefit to the people.

The Congress of the Confederate States of America has passed a law which will be of great benefit to the people.

The Congress of the Confederate States of America has passed a law which will be of great benefit to the people.

The Congress of the Confederate States of America has passed a law which will be of great benefit to the people.

FOUNDED.

FOUNDED. The first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.

FOUNDED. The first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.

FOUNDED. The first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.

FOUNDED. The first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.

FOUNDED. The first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.

FOUNDED. The first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.

FOUNDED. The first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.

FOUNDED. The first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.

FOUNDED. The first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.

FOUNDED. The first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.