...following list of casualties ... have not yet got enough of our type ... give us a sufficient quantity of capital let... print them as they should be.

...Editor Rebel: For the information of the friends and relatives of the killed and wounded in the battle of Selma, on the 2nd inst., I would ask the favor of a small space in the earliest issue of your paper for the following list of casualties. I would state further, that the wounded in the Wayside and General Hospitals of this place, respectively in charge of Surgeons Walker Curry and Alexander Hart, have had every attention possible. I have frequently visited the Wayside Hospital during the stay of the Federals, and know that Dr. Curry has been untiring in his efforts to make the wounded as comfortable as possible under the circumstances. Too much cannot be said of the corps of Surgeons and assistant surgeons and attendants under Dr. Curry, who have seconded his efforts. The same may be said of Dr. Hart and his surgeons and attendants: and also of senior surgeon V. B. Billingly, supervisor of hospitals for Selma, who has labored night and day to have the wounded removed from the field to the hospitals where they could be properly cared for.

List of Casualties in the battle before Selma, on the 2d instant.

Jas P Rhew, private Miss cav co D slight,
Andrew Jackson 7th do B killed
the plough, 1st do F do
Jos Coleman, Grause's bat mortally
Isaac W morton, corp 8th ky co H sev
Thos w stevens, priv 7th miss co I slight,
Lt Col Thos Clanin, 42d ala do
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]