Both Sides of Prohibition

CONTRIBUTED BY J. L. CAMPBELL.

Editor's Note—The anti-statewide prohibition organization recently published and widely circulated a pamphlet containing 129 "questions and answers," constituting the principal campaign document of the party. J. L. Campbell, of El Paso, an ardent prohibitionist, has undertaken to answer the anti-statewide statements and arguments, and as he quotes in his articles the anti-statewide pamphlet practically entire, it is felt that in printing this series, to run daily until July 22 (election day), The Herald is fairly presenting to voters both sides of the great question at issue. In no event are the opinions here expressed or quoted to be taken as an expression of this newspaper.

THE LIQUOR CATECHISM—IX.

Editor El Paso Herald: Question 92 and answer of the liquor catechism read:

"92. What is the attitude of the great doctors, physicians and scientists of the United States on this subject? With few exceptions the great physicians and scientists who have written on this subject oppose prohibition. First, because many of them believe that, used in moderation, liquors are not harmful. Second, because they all know that in states under statewide prohibition the most villainous concoctions, imitations and adulterations are sold for beer and whiskey. There being no regulation, and the business being carried on unlawfully in prohibition states, dangerous and poisonous drinks with deceptive labels are sold to people who have no means of protecting themselves against such impositions. In these prohibition states patent medicines containing from 5 to 55 percent of alcohol are freely used as substitutes for whiskey, destroying the system and injuring the user in a marked degree, so that physicians everywhere who have investigated the subject, oppose prohibition.

Wrong again. Such men and the national and international bodies of which they form a part are unanimous in admitting the evils and dangers of alcohol and in prescribing prohibition against them. Their record is public property. Examine it. Here are samples only:

Sir Andrew Clark, physician to Queen Victoria, says: "Alcohol is a poison; so is strychnine; so is arsenic; so is opium. It ranks with those agents. Health is always, in some way or other, injured by it."

Sir Victor Horsley, M. D., F. R. S., says: "The bad effect of alcohol on persons performing muscular work is well known. The evidence is overwhelming that alcohol in small amounts has a most harmful effect on voluntary muscular work. The only proper use of alcohol to an ordinarily healthy person is its diuretic.

The International Congress of Tuberculosis meeting in Paris in 1910, said: "That in view of the close connection between alcoholism and tuberculosis, this congress strongly emphasizes the importance of combining the fight against tuberculosis with the struggle against alcoholism."

Dr. Alexander McNicholl, New York City, says: "Alcohol antagonizes every manifestation of life, stamps every tissue with the seal of disuse, depraves the morals and destroys the soul. Instead of the 'Fountain of Life,' the 'Fountain of Immortal Youth' it is the essence of depravity, the grave of hope, the advance of death."

Dr. Frederic Peterson, of Columbia university, says: "Alcohol is a poison. It is claimed by some that alcohol is food. If so, it is a poisoned food."

Prof. A. Frick, Würzburg, Germany, says: "Alcohol is, under no condition, and in no amount, beneficial to the healthy body."

Prof. Em. Kraepelin, of Heidelberg university, says: "Whoever understands the action of alcohol will certainly not look upon it as a harmless luxury. That is the conclusion to which the unbiased examination of its action upon the mental life constantly leads. It must be admitted that there are still many gaps in our knowledge of the subject yet to be filled. Our present means of investigation extend so far however, that there would be little difficulty in completing our knowledge. This much is established today by means of modern investigation: That alcohol seriously injures the perception of external impressions and association of ideas; that it temporarily promotes the impulse to movement, but that it diminishes the strength of muscular work in proportion to the exterior demands; that it also increases the susceptibility to fatigue. The effect of a single large dose lasts at least 24 hours, and under some circumstances even 48 hours; the regular use of such doses produces a continual diminution of executive ability, which is only very gradually restored and which leaves behind for a long time afterward an increased susceptibility to the effects of alcohol. That is clear, scientific knowledge. It alone furnishes us a standard with which to judge of the influence which alcohol exerts upon the mental life of our people."

WARNING CONCERNING FIRES IN THE WOODS. Washington, D. C., July 15.—Bullets are being sent out to the Boy Scouts of America by the officials of that organization urging the Scouts to be careful in building fires in the woods. These contain warnings from James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, and United States forester Graves, who realize the tremendous loss from forest fires. "A fire is never out," says forester Graves, "until the last spark is extinguished, for a log or a snag will smolder unnoticed after the flame apparently has been conquered, only to break out afresh with a rising wind." The manual of the Boy Scouts of America warns the boys first that it is criminal to leave a burning fire in the woods and gives special instructions as to how to put a fire out with either water or earth.

NEWLYWEDS SPEND MONEY FOR JOY IN POLICE STATION

Too Proud to Ask Help of Parents, Young Couple Accept Offer of Police.

St. Louis, Mo., July 15.—Henry Malone, 21 years old, and his 19-year-old bride spent all the money they had left when they reached St. Louis from Chicago to hire a taxi and make an impression on Malone's uncle, then pawned a suit case for 75 cents for food and had to accept shelter at the central district police station. Policeman Woods found the newlyweds sitting disconsolate on a bread box at Sixteenth and Market streets and questioned them. They said that they were dead broke and were glad to accept his proffer of police station shelter. They were married June 16 in Chicago. Malone was out of work, but they had some money. They went to Bloomington, Mo., and Springfield, and reached St. Louis with only a few dollars. They might have obtained money from their parents, but said they were too proud to ask for aid. Malone had been living in Labadie avenue. They hired an automobile and called on him and gave him the impression that they were living at a downtown hotel. Then they pawned the suit case containing some clothing and their marriage certificate. With the 75 cents thus obtained they had a meal and then sat down on the bread box to wait for something to turn up. Policeman Woods turned up. This morning Malone's luck changed. While his bride was in the care of the matron he went out and obtained a position. He then took her away to a boarding place.

BULLET PENETRATES WOMAN'S SHOULDER

Accidentally Discharges Revolver by Moving It at Home.

Mrs. Magdalena Seldtvar, of 1019 South Santa Fe street, was accidentally shot and seriously but not dangerously wounded at her home on Saturday morning.

Her husband, Manuel Seldtvar, had left a 32 caliber revolver in the dining room and had gone to his room to sleep. He was awakened at 7:30 by the sound of a shot, and running into the next room found his wife lying on the floor. In moving the revolver she had accidentally discharged it and shot herself in the left shoulder. The bullet had broken the bone and lodged in the shoulder.

She is being attended by physicians at her home.
