terms point of the Tichocoho peninsula of Northern Siberia looking for him, but without result. King Oscar equipped a royal Swedish expedition last September, which went further north than any other expedition had ever done at that time of year, but still no trace of Andree!

On November 21 Jack Carr, a British sailor, heard that a pigeon had been taken in the vicinity of Point Barrow. He got the pigeon and found that the message it bore was undoubtedly from Andree.

Many have been the futile suppositions regarding him. A short time ago he was located in Alaska, and a few days ago in Greenland. The same day he was located in latitude 70 degrees north and longitude 70 degrees east entertained a Danish expedition sent out by the Royal Society of Denmark.

Andree's balloon, which was named 'La Nord', was made of varnished silk. The sack was 25 feet in height and the car and observation platform gave it 12 additional feet below.

Andree is there he has enjoyed a year of polar weather. Herr Andree has every incentive to come home except that of domesticity. He is not married. His mother is an old woman of 72 and is his housekeeper and caretaker.

commercial buildings along the water's edge. Smoke arose in dense columns along the pier where the shells fell and it is believed the damage, both from impact of the missiles and consequent explosions, was very great.

On Thursday evening the ships had thrown four 13-inch and nine 8-inch shells into the town. This bombardment began at 4 o'clock and ended at 5 o'clock.

On Wednesday night the Americans attacked both east and west sides of Santiago entrance. The firing began at 11 o'clock and ended about midnight.

On Wednesday night the Americans attacked both east and west sides of Santiago entrance. The firing began at 11 o'clock and ended about midnight.

The news of the work on Wednesday night by the Vezuvius and New Orleans in Santiago Bay is confirmed. The Vezuvius fired shells into the water to explode the mines while the New Orleans engaged the fortifications along the shore.

Day before yesterday our soldiers captured at Guantanamo a Cuban with dispatch which he was carrying to the Spanish general. He was turned over to the Cuban commander and shot. Another Cuban was also captured and his fate is under consideration.

Last night the Texas entered Santiago harbor and inflicted much damage on the forts on the east shore.

It is the general opinion among the naval officials that after the capture of Guantanamo and the possible reduction of Santiago there will be no more large operations during the summer.

WITH ORGANIZED LABOR.

Some Interesting Reading for the Narrow Forehead Brigade. New York Journal.

It is commonly assumed—in select circles where men are big around the waist and small around the forehead—that only fools and cranks see any good in labor agitation and organization.

In the morning with his feet in soft slippers is apt to feel, as he sneers at labor speeches or froams at labor strikes, that he is one of the mighty minds of his own and other times. As a matter of fact he is one with the fat porker, who, like himself, is taking life easily while others work, and who, incidentally, like himself, is destined some fine day to meet serious trouble.

The following observations by man not generally accounted cranks may enlighten some of these minds concerning the view which intelligence takes of honest men's efforts to obtain honest treatment.

"Thank God we have a system of labor where there can be no strike. Whatever the pressure there is a point where the workmen may stop."

The narrow forehead brigade would call that blatant socialism if uttered by an unknown man at Cooper Union.

Horace Greeley, when first president of the New York Typographical union: "I stand here, friends, to urge that a new leaf be turned over—that the laboring class, instead of idly and blindly waiting for better circumstances and better times, shall begin at once to consider and discuss the means of controlling circumstances and commanding times by study, calculation, foresight, and union."

Greeley's successor would discharge an editorial writer for printing such "populism" as that on his own hook.

Wendell Phillips: "I rejoice at every effort to organize, I hail the labor movement. It is my only hope for democracy. Organize and stand together. Let the Nation hear a united demand from the laboring voice."

Gladstone, not by any means the greatest of democrats or the most courageous of thinkers: "Trades unions are the bulwarks of modern democracy."

One other, whom the narrow forehead brigade somewhat ostentatiously appropriate: "Your gold and silver is wickedness, and the rust of them shall be a cancer against you and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days."

"Behold, the hire of the laborers who have reaped down your field, which is of you kept back by fraud, cryeth, and the cry of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord God of Sabaoth."

Such words as this, uttered by the man who said, "The laborer is worthy of his hire," would be classed, if uttered today, with the ravings of the hopeless lunatic. The greatest minds since the world began have been for justice. They see organized labor today, and it is not a sin to win as those who oppress it see fit. Steel if they see a safe chance. So don't forget that, and if you are smothered, enjoy it all you can.

Morgan Weekly News: The one real reason why the laborer is worthy of his hire is because of the laborer's struggle. They have fought for their rights, and they have won. They have won because they have fought.

In the first place, the bank tax will hardly affect us at all. So few of us can afford to be bankers with large capital.

The broker? He so often makes a hundred dollars or more by simply "buying" or "selling" that 15¢ a year will be a mere fly-speck to him.
