Collars and Cuffs That You'll Like to Wear

You'll like to wear the collars and cuffs we launder. They are given a pure white color, are starched to just the stiffness that makes them hold their shape, yet be pliable, are ironed with a perfect domestic finish, and shaped just exactly as they were designed to be by the makers.

Collars we have laundered all have smooth, velvet-like edges.

TERRITORIAL STATUS
Of El Paso Has as Yet Not Been Settled, Says Mills.

San Antonio, Texas, March 6.—According to General Anson Mills, the American commissioner who has been treating with the Mexican government on the territorial status of El Paso, Texas, the question whether that city belongs to the United States or Mexico, has not been definitely settled yet. At the same time he declared as unfounded the rumor that the commission had decided that the disputed stretch of land on which the city is located should be given to Mexico. The state departments of the American and Mexican governments are now looking into the matter and it is difficult to say when the settlement will be effected. Mexico's claim from the point of view of international law is sound enough, but it is not thought that the sister republic will prove very stubborn in the matter. In the event El Paso should pass under the control of Mexico this country would lose a very progressive and prosperous community with some thirty-five thousand inhabitants. Mexico's claim is due to the fact that the Rio Grande, forming for the greater distance the boundary between the two countries, has the rather embarrassing characteristic of changing its bed. Large parts of its valley are of an alluvial nature and frequently the river will cut off large slices from either side and throw them to the other. In view of the fact that international law fixes the boundary line where it is established by rivers by following the center of the main channel this has proven at times to be very annoying. Only recently the river at Brownsville threatened to throw into Mexico the peninsula on which old Fort Brown and the National cemetery are located. To prevent this, congress had to make appropriations for the construction of levees, work on which is now going on under the supervision of the war department. To give the boundary line between the United States and Mexico some permanency and to eliminate the vexatious problem of being forever deciding just where the line is, it will be necessary to either establish it by means of latitude or erect a system of levees at all points where it is possible for the river to break through.

Knights of the Maccabees will meet every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month. 8-27-tf
