THE CITY.

REST.

[The following by the poet, priest and patriot, Father Ryan, is given a pathetic interest by the recent death of its author.]

My feet are wearied and my hands are tired—
My soul oppressed,
And with desire have I long desired
Rest—only Rest.

'Tis hard to toil when toil is almost vain,
In barren ways;
'Tis hard to sow and never garner grain
In harvest days.

The burden of my days is hard to bear,
But God knows best;
And I have prayed—but vain has been my prayer
For Rest, sweet Rest.

'Tis hard to plant in spring and never reap
The autumn yield;
'Tis hard to till, and when 'tis tilled to weep
O'er fruitless field.

And so I cry—a weak and human cry—
So heart oppressed;
And so I sigh—a weak and human sigh—
For Rest—for Rest.

My way has wound across the desert years,
And cares infest
My path, and through the flowing of hot tears
I pine for Rest.

'Twas always so; when still a child I laid
On mother's breast
My weary little head—e'en then I prayed,
As now, for Rest.

And I am restless still; 'twill soon be o'er,
For down the West
Life's sun is setting; and I see the shore
Where I shall Rest.

The Presbyterian Concert.

The following is a correct statement of the receipts and disbursements of the concert given last Wednesday night: Total receipts, $202.50; less expenses, $51; net earnings, $151.50.

Fire Limits.

A petition will be presented to the council at its next meeting, Tuesday, to amend the fire ordinance so that it shall include Main and Houston streets throughout their entire length. Mr. McCart and other gentlemen have the matter in charge. Should this ordinance be adopted it will prevent the erection of frame buildings hereafter in the limits mentioned.

Tarrant's Teachers.

It is generally known that the teachers of the public schools in this county are divided into three divisions, and hold their meetings monthly, under their respective district divisions. President Moore of Keller, First district; President Davenport, Second district, and President Robbins, Third district. These three districts meet in Fort Worth quarterly, the next and last meeting.

Alliance Meeting.

The Farmers' alliance will hold a county convention in this city on the 11th inst., to discuss social and political issues. The question of the selection of county officers will probably be brought before the meeting, but it is not believed that any indorsements will be given. A more important matter will be the alliance cotton-yard project, concerning which definite action will most likely be taken.

A Successful Enterprise.

A remarkable number of elegant signs have of late been turned out of Benton's paint shop, in fact, they are beginning to loom up in all portions of our city, and their superior style and finish have been frequently commented upon. The active business man is not slow to catch on to a good thing, hence the demand for Benton's signs is rapidly increasing, and the following firms sent in orders during the past week: B. C. Evans Co., Mangum & Montgomery, Randall & Chambers, Lewis Bros., J. H. Martindale, E. M. Wells, and Dr. Briggs.

Free to Sunday-Schools.

A number of the Sunday-schools are beginning to make preparations for their annual school picnics, and have made application to Mr. Tyler for the use of Lake Park. That gentleman informed THE GAZETTE yesterday that the schools were all welcome to his grounds free of charge, except that he would grant no privileges to sell anything on the grounds. The water on the other side of the dam is a considerable distance from the grove, and this will be a desirable thing for picnics of this character. Natures grove is there at the service of the children and teachers, and they have the privilege of putting up temporary seats, etc., if they desire.

NATURAL AND SUPERNATURAL.

PROF. COOKE BLENDS THE TWO IN MASTER FEATS OF LEGERDEMAIN.

Without being a spiritualist, yet we entertain a great deal of reverence for the supernatural, with which, indeed, we are every day and at all times completely surrounded, without appearing to notice or know it. The traditionary ghosts of the old legends have always filled our imagination with a kind of thrilling and reverential awe.

The inimitably fantastic tales of Hoffman, read at the lonely hours of midnight, have oft caused our youthful hair to stand on end, and the weird stories told on the flickering hearthstones by the superstitious peasants of Brittany have many a time congealed the blood in our veins with an excruciating, but at the same time seductive sentiment of terror. Of these and other similar things we were thinking last night as we left the opera-house after witnessing the extraordinary feats performed by Prof. Cooke in the vindication of his theory that all the manifestations of spiritualistic mediumship can be accounted for and be reproduced by means of the deceptive arts of legerdemain and the proper manipulation of natural science. When we saw how easily he deceived the most prying eyes and the most sensitive touch, and with what facility and clearness he explained and made patent his own deceptive practices, we grew seriously inclined to doubt that the testimony of our outward senses is a safe criterion of certainty, and the harrowing thought crossed our mind that perhaps all our beloved ghost stories, legends and superstitions, might be after all simply deceptive, practiced upon us by our senses. To put the matter in a few plain words, Prof. Cooke performed, to the satisfaction of the committee on the stage and the audience, all the most difficult and noted tests of mediumship. He has a quiet and irresistibly droll way upon the stage, and luckless he who provokes the current of his fun, for the entertainment is as conducive to humor as it is creative of wonder. He is ably assisted by Miss Bremond, the charming mind-reader.—[Denver Tribune.

LAW-LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.

AN ORGANIZATION EFFECTED AND A LARGE AMOUNT OF STOCK TAKEN—A CHARTER TO BE APPLIED FOR AT ONCE.

A meeting of attorneys interested in the movement to establish a law library was called at the court-house yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and was attended by a large proportion of the local bar.

Gen. T. W. Harris was called to the chair and Thomas P. Martin, Esq., elected secretary.

A committee of three was on motion appointed by the chair to prepare articles of association, procure charter and take such other steps as might be necessary to organize the association, said committee consisting of Messrs. A. M. Carter, Hyde Jennings and Zeno C. Ross.

On motion, the amount of the capital stock was ordered to be fixed by said committee at the nearest round number above the amount subscribed at the time the articles of incorporation shall be ready to be signed and acknowledged, and Messrs. E. F. Warren and T. J. Powell were appointed a committee to solicit additional subscriptions to the capital stock.

On motion, the number of the directors for the first year was fixed at five, and the following named gentlemen were nominated for and elected as such directors by acclamation: Hyde Jennings, A. M. Carter, F. W. Ball, W. S. Pendleton and N. A. Stedman.

A motion to reconsider and increase the number of directors to seven was lost.

The name of the Fort Worth Law Library association was, on motion, adopted as the style of this organization.

The meeting then adjourned to assemble in the same place Saturday, May 8, 1886, at 4 p. m.

Barnacles Upon the Labor Element Which Exhaust Its Resources and Prejudice Its Cause.

The Impostor and the Charlatan for Whom All Places are a Temple and All Times a Season.

There is a deal of agitation ahead, inside of Knight of Labor circles, in regard to the Mallory boycott. The peculiar condition of affairs at present makes the boycott an existing fact or not just as each individual Knight chooses to have it. The indications are that a large proportion of the Fort Worth Knights will stand by the local member of the executive board. Mr. Black, it will be remembered, has declined to make public the causes which led Messrs. Houx and Smith to move a reconsideration of the action of the board in lifting the boycott. Indications point, however, to certain influences, which from the very beginning have been devoted to the delectable task of

FOMENTING TROUBLE.

Some time since THE GAZETTE stated that there were irreconcilable factions among the leaders of the Knights of Labor, one representing the intelligence and the other the prejudice and unrest of the order. Nowhere are these conditions better illustrated than in Fort Worth. While there is a strong conservative element here, there are a few men, unfortunately vested with some authority, who show plainly by their actions that their object is to make as much money as possible out of the misfortunes of honest labor, and use the order as a tool to vent their personal spleen. Said a Knight of Labor, a man who stands high among his fellow-workmen and with the community:

LIVE BY AGITATION,

"There is ——, who is raising more trouble than anybody else. He is making good money out of the affair, and if he could prevent it, this thing would never end."

This class of individuals, it is observed, have no labor pedigree to speak of except that they have always diligently labored to keep from work as far as possible.

When the strike was inaugurated on the Texas & Pacific, these fellows exerted themselves to stretch it to the uttermost limits possible in Fort Worth, and when certain Knights refused to recognize the authority they had a most savage attack was made upon the latter.

ILLEGALLY USURPED,

Now, when an opportunity comes for an amicable adjustment of the Mallory troubles, they have stepped in and at the last moment half succeeded in an effort to perpetuate the difficulties.

What the Knights of Labor most need in Fort Worth is to get rid of certain patriots, of whom it is strongly suspected that they are Knights for revenue only.
