

LADIES' BAZAAR OF FASHION

Mrs. C. D. Brown's stock of summer dress goods, millinery and general furnishing goods for ladies is now full. No other house in Texas exhibits a better collection of fashionable fabrics for ladies' wear than Mrs. Brown; and the ladies are invited to come and see for themselves, at 316 Houston street.

The gutter on Main street, between First and Second, is being torn up and replaced by one which will carry off the water more rapidly. The fair ladies did not forget THE GAZETTE force last night, but supplied them with an abundance of ice-cream and other delicacies.

The "promotion" cards to be issued by Superintendent Hogg to the many worthy children in our public schools will be finer than any heretofore used. The old compress will soon be no more, but the new one will loom up immensely in the vicinity of the Santa Fe depot, and Superintendent Kour is happy.

A telegram received yesterday announces that the St. Louis Calem Light company shipped the lights for the opera performance on Tuesday next. The Mistletoe hop given Thursday night at the residence of Messrs. Garner and McHatton was attended by fifteen couples, and a most delightful evening was spent.

The sale of seats doubled itself yesterday for the performance of Patience Tuesday night, and the prospect is that the sign "standing room only" will greet late comers on that occasion.

If you don't secure your seats in the opera-house at once for the performance of "Patience" you will have to stand on the other side of the street next Tuesday night and listen at a distance. Trains on the Fort Worth & New Orleans road were to have been running to Waxahachie on schedule time by to-day had no interruption occurred in the building.

Capt. Sidney Martin is not of the opinion that a large amount of money could be secured toward having a 17th of July celebration, but thinks it quite possible to raise all that would be needed for the purpose.

The festival held at the pavilion Thursday and Friday nights by the ladies of the Catholic church was well managed and patronized; and the receipts were quite satisfactory. By a slip of the pencil, yesterday's GAZETTE was made to say that dancing would be kept up until late at night. It was not the intention of the managers of the festival to have any dancing whatever.

During the past week has appeared in Fort Worth a sprightly little sheet known as the "Hotel Register," distributed gratuitously over the city. The existence of such a bright little paper, conveying as it does information as to travelers stopping in our city, is another proof of our metropolitanism, and the managers of the Register deserve all encouragement.

Parties who have relatives or friends visiting them will confer a favor on THE GAZETTE by giving it a memorandum of the fact—either by giving it a personal or through the medium of a postal card directed to the city editor.

City Marshal Rea returned yesterday from a visit to Dallas. Col. Wynne went West this morning on important legal business. C. W. Filpot of Cedar Falls, Iowa, was in the city yesterday prospecting.

A. P. King, the Lightning Texas Express messenger, came in last night. Mr. Wm. A. Threadgill and wife of Edly are visiting Judge Holland of this city.

Senator A. L. Matlock of Montague, well known throughout the state, was in the city last night. Mr. H. K. Wall, who has been stepping in the city for the last day or two, left yesterday for Eastern Texas.

Master Paul Walker, aged four months, visited THE GAZETTE last night in company with his father, Judge Alec Walker. Pad Waltman, the energetic missionary for the Huffman Implement company, left on the delayed west-bound Texas & Pacific yesterday.

Louis Lippasier, Bordeaux, France, a gentleman who speaks but little English, but who is charmed with "belle Texas," is in the city looking around. Judge Z. T. Fulmore, county judge of Travis county, is on a visit to Fort Worth and is stopping at the residence of Mr. W. A. Holmes, corner Fourth and Lamar streets.

Mr. W. A. Callaway, business manager of THE GAZETTE, has been confined to his bed with severe illness for the past week, but is now improving and will soon be out. Miss Madge Reilly and Miss Beth Faulkner of this city left this morning for Lancaster, Tex., to visit their uncle, ex-Senator R. S. Gay. They will be gone about two weeks.

THE GAZETTE was besieged by a bevy of beautiful misses and their escorts last night. There were in the party the Misses May Borgia, Kirby and Hallinan. Mr. John Capera was the guardian of the fair flock. Come again, ladies.

the handsomest progressive unchire parties of the season on Thursday night last at the hospitable home of the former on West Third street. The entire first floor was thrown open and almost completely filled with guests.

The grand jury yesterday made a report to the district court that they had found twenty true bills, as follows: two felonies; two for violating local option; five for keeping bawdy houses; seven for selling beer on Sunday; four for selling liquor to minors.

The appearance docket was called in the district court yesterday and judgments entered. Tabernacle Talks. Another large congregation gathered at the tent last night and listened to the instructive discourse of Rev. Mr. Moore.

Revel at the Christian Church. A large congregation again met at the Christian church to listen to the evangelist on the subject, "How to Become a Christian."

A GAZETTE reporter had the honor of listening to a portion of the opera of "Patience," as executed by our amateurs at the opera-house last night. Such is the work accomplished by Mrs. W. A. Huffman's untiring zeal to reflect great credit on that lady's executive ability, and what little of the splendid singing was heard last night by THE GAZETTE man justifies the public in looking forward for a musical treat next Tuesday night.

A Card. FORT WORTH, May 21, 1886.—EDITOR GAZETTE: An article appeared in the Evening Mail of the 20th, stating that I refused to pay a man by the name of R. M. Bowman a small bill, and that I assaulted him. The bill referred to was a small amount of $3.25. I had gone to the city for a cord of wood furnished him by Mr. Blixton, which was $4, which I had paid; so you will see I am out of pocket seventy-five cents. The trouble grew out of my refusal to be beat by the above Bowman. Respectfully, H. C. BAKER.

A Mind Reader. John Sheehan has discovered, has invented, or has been presented with a wonderful psychological fact. It is a mind reader. One smokes and concentrates his mind on what he has nearest his heart and then Mr. Sheehan extracts from the holder in which the cigar has been held a minute piece of paper on which is found a figure of a horse, a dog, money, official position, etc., as the case may be. It is of no avail to try to concentrate the mind on some subject or object other than the ruling passion, the grain or mind underlying impresses the paper and reveals the thought.

Poor Old Galveston. THE GAZETTE presents the latest literary effort of Col. Wheatley. Our citizens will observe with sorrow that the colonel intends leaving us. "This renowned orator's plan has spread far and wide as being one of the greatest successes of the age and advocates the great enterprises of the day as to get Dope Water out of Galveston and in this approach the same thing thousands of congress to navigate the Air in and aerial Ship and should be the Success of his name would walk down the Steps of time like the David of Old and will in a few days go to Galveston to address the good People on this enterprise."

School Drill at No. 7. Yesterday afternoon at schoolhouse No. 7, under charge of Principal Robbins, a drill of exhibition occurred which was an honor to the earnest and faithful teachers of that school. The bright faced, clearly dressed and happy pupils, participated an excellent programme for the pleasure of their many visitors and seemed delighted with the many exercises which were so interesting to those present.

A Large Attachment. On Wednesday last arrangements were quietly made here for the use of an engine on the Santa Fe road, for the purpose of carrying, via the Santa Fe and Central roads, Attorney Frank B. Stanley to serve attachments on a party in DeLeon, in Comanche county. The papers were very quietly secured and the trip undertaken. The attachment suits aggregated upwards of $10,000 in favor of Fort Worth creditors. The engine sped over the distance between this city and DeLeon and before morning the attachments had been levied and the chartered engine was well back on its way to the Fort.

It is understood that the suits were brought against Alex Booth, a merchant of DeLeon. David Scott, champion Australian cricketer, says St. Jacob's Oil acts like magic. Wanted. Salesman and salesladies. Call at room K, over postoffice, between the hours of 9 and 2.

DESIRE TO CELEBRATE.

The Appetite Grows with What It Feeds Upon—Enthusiasm Kindling and Plans Maturing. Many Suggestions from Many Minds—Firemen, Militia and All Uniformed Orders to be Urged to Participate with Us.

The ramblings of THE GAZETTE's local force yesterday revealed the fact that our citizens very generally have become enthused on the suggestion made in yesterday's GAZETTE relative to a rousing celebration of the Fort's tenth birthday. Indeed, in one instance, and after the fashion of our merchants never being willing to get left, one leading house has already engaged the largest float in the city upon which to display their lines of goods.

If one will reflect but a moment on the immense possibilities of the Fort advertising herself by this contemplated celebration, as has never been before, the subject will expand with amazing vigor, and enthusiasm become the more epidemic. Something more than a mere trade display is desirable. To the many privately decorated floats and wagons of the procession could be added something in the nature of an allegorical representation, a pocket edition of a New Orleans Mardi-Gras.

A gentleman who has taken a hand in several Mardi-Gras parades, says a company of citizens could easily be formed who would present in the shape of six or more gorgeous floats some allegorical or mythical tale. This gentleman favors the parade at night, say Friday night before the big Saturday barbecue, and says Fort Worth can easily eclipse anything ever before witnessed in this line.

A number of the officers of the fire department were seen yesterday, and say they could, with excursion rates, induce hundreds of firemen from neighboring cities to join in the parade, and they say with our own department and apparatus magnificently trimmed the fire men would be a feature of the parade.

A gentleman well acquainted with Capt. Lee Hall says he is satisfied that Burk Burnett could get the captain to send a number of the genuine Indians to grace our gala occasion. The militia companies of the state could be urged to join with us, and the uniformed orders, such as the uniformed rank Knights of Pythias, and the Grand Army of the Republic, and all others that would, could easily be induced to lend their presence to so worthy an object as is suggested. Indeed, there seems no limit to the superb possibilities of the occasion.

If the matter of entertainment of the visiting hosts of people on that day give us pause, it can easily be demonstrated that with their usual hearty good will, our citizens would throw open the doors of their homes, and for a night or two be willing to house some of those who honored the city with their presence. Capt. Kennedy of the Pickwick believes in the grand celebration. He says it can be done, and places the cost to the citizens at the bagatelle of $3000.

Mr. August of Washer & August indorses the project, and sees nothing but success ahead. Mr. J. A. Thomas says he is ready, as he believes the mass of our business men will be found to be, to contribute his share to this good work.

Messrs. Capura Bros., and a number of others coincide with the favorable opinions heretofore published, and THE GAZETTE is persuaded that if our citizens will meet, organize committees and at once go to work with a high standard before them, they will perfect such a celebration as will mark an epoch in Texas history.

A night parade, amid glaring electric lights, gas and oil flashing fireworks and gorgeous decorations; a night of splendor and of sport, followed by a barbecue and reception on Sunday, with Hon. W. J. Swain, Gen. S. Russ, and other prominent speakers of the day; all this is within the Fort's easy grasp. Shall we seize it?

ON THE STREET. No rain yet. Reports from the country continue of the same tenor. Dr. L. B. Slaughter will wed Miss Annie Bailey next Tuesday night, 25th inst. The Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe road is pushing in another switch near their depot. Six electric lights and two calciums will be used on the stage next Tuesday night. St. Andrew's Sunday-school picnic to-day; leave the church at 8 o'clock a. m., sharp. The colored band was busy practicing last night getting ready to discourse sweet sounds on the 17th. Mayor Broiles is erecting an elegant family mansion near the college, and will become a resident of the Fourth ward. Librettos of the opera are on sale at the box-office of the theater; also at Rowe's ticket office in the Pickwick hotel. Prof. Terrell is hard at work drilling the pupils of the colored school for the exhibition to be given by them on Friday night next. One of our prominent artists intends to take a photograph of the stage and the audience during the performance of Patience.

Burglary. A man named John Rabrend was jailed yesterday evening, charged with burglary in Arlington last night. He broke into a store, but was at once caught. He is supposed to have gotten in his work while W. E. Farmer was delivering a speech in Arlington on labor matters. Don't bite us it. The Western Union Telegraph boys have arranged an unique and at times useful plan in their office, and a strong desire has developed to inveigle innocent visitors behind the railing of the office, and then mysteriously spring that sign on them. THE GAZETTE warns you not to bite at the hook. Attached. Attachments in two suits were run last night on the stock and fixtures of W. J. Wood, who keeps a saloon on the corner of Eighth and Main streets. The aggregate amount of the suits filed against Mr. Wood is in the neighborhood of six hundred and fifty dollars. Messrs. Chas. Scheuber & Co. and Casey & Snavely had the papers issued. Progressive Enchere. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tully and Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Farman gave one of excitement, as a rumor was current that a bomb similar to those used at Chicago had been thrown on the street. there were wild doings in and about the town. A terrible panic was caused by the rumor of a fire in the city. The fire was extinguished, and the panic subsided.
