WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 10.

SAN ANTONIO is threatening to wake up.

JEFF DAVIS was always plucky. He won't die as long as Grant lives.

IT IS safe to bet that the man who is "out of politics" is loaded at both ends.

THE indications are that fifty thousand people will witness the Confederate reunion in this city.

THE far-seeing man will sink a few shekels in Vernon property. It will be her time to boom next.

SOME day Fort Worth will extend a branch of its street car system to Dallas. All things branch at Dallas.

SENATOR BECK says of Senator Eustis of Louisiana, that "he is a strong man, lazy, ugly and sulky."

DR. TALMAGE rejects the revised Bible and says he has become familiar with the old one and will take no other.

THE drugwump is a new political insect in Kansas. He runs a soda-fount, and his countersign is three winks and a sigh.

THE best investment Gen. Ross can make right at this moment is a muzzle tightly adjusted around some of his friends.

THE roller-skating mania is about over. Now that everybody has learned to skate the danger is over and the fun of the thing all gone.

BARNEY to O'Brien: No, my dear Moore, that cannot be. But if the News is true you'll one day come to me, but I can never go to you.

IF ANYBODY has a few gray hairs and desires to conceal them, they will be told how by consulting the editorial columns of the Dallas Times.

MR. HARRISON, the boy preacher, has been preaching on the "Refuge of Lies." As a general thing they have no refuge; they are always on the go.

DISTANCE lends enchantment to the view. The man who never did a stroke of work in his life can see a glorious glamour of "dignity" spread over well-digging.

IF THE Republicans can be persuaded to nominate Logan for the presidency then his re-election as senator is not after all an unmitigated misfortune to Democracy.

LET us sympathize with our sister state, Arkansas. The seventeen-year locusts are springing in myriads from the soil and Miss Belle Boyd is teaching elocution in the very capital of the state.

IF THE capitol contract should be abandoned or annulled, the state would still have 2 500,000 acres with which to complete the building. That ought, of itself, erect a pretty good statehouse.

THE blondes complain that the brunettes are capturing all the official favors at Washington. This insures that the ladies will stop painting their hair red—at least during the present administration.

THE dignity of labor of which Mr. Terrell speaks is a splendid theme to spout over, but the man who makes rails at a dollar a hundred, or carries a hod for a dollar a day, fails to find "dignity" at home when he calls.

THE spectacle of Blaine appealing to a Democratic president not to appoint a too zealous Democrat as postmaster at his own home, if drawn last October, would have made the Republicans laugh. Time changes many tunes.

WE DESIRE to call the attention of Republican officeholders to the fact that every man who resigns gets himself prominently before the public in a favorable light. There is every reason to believe that all who fail to adopt this course will go out at the tip end of a boot.

COLORADO, the red state, has another red-headed congressman to succeed Jim Belford. The Post-Dispatch says our own dearly beloved Web Flanagan cannot mangle the king's English with a pile-driver as effectually as can Symes, the new Colorado congressman, with his bazoo.

THERE may be a little frying-sized war brewing in Texas for all we know. The Missouri Pacific officials are ordering their operators to withdraw from the Texas Telegraphers' association, or to consider themselves discharged from the service of the company. It is pretty hard for a man to do either.

WHAT manner of cousins have we in the North, anyway? As a matter of news Northern correspondents writing to their papers never fail to mention the fact that on crowded street cars in the South men invariably give their seats to women. The strange part of this is that it is considered "news" in any civilized community.

WICHITA FALLS need not get the blues and go into a duck-fit because the railroad has been extended to Harrold. The railroad left Corsicana not many years ago and a great many wise people left with it and thought they were taking the town. Corsicana to-day seems to be doing business at the old stand, though she has been burned out at regular intervals.

SECRETARY BAYARD has a son who is a masculine school-ma'rm. His pap will not pension him with a government office, which is to his pap's credit. It does seem, though, that the son of such a man as Bayard ought to be able to do something better than teach school. If he were the son of a Republican statesman he would have the third watch as dealer in a "brace" game of faro.

THERE is a current story that the president has two mortal dreads—obesity and baldness. These were the skeletons that pursued Napoleon I. About ten years ago a bald spot as big as a dime appeared in the middle of Mr. Cleveland's pate, and, although glycerine, gunpowder, salt, cantharides, borax, ammonia and the electric hair brush have been tried in succession, the bald spot has steadily grown bigger, and the phantom of baldness still pursues the president.

THE old family mansion of the Parnells, with all the property belonging to it, was recently levied on by a sheriff to satisfy a claim of three hundred dollars. Last election, when Mrs. Parnell said in a speech that the Democratic ticket should be supported by all Irishmen, a mob of disgruntled rascals set fire to the place and burnt all the outhouses. They were rebuilt by Mrs. Parnell and the old place bloomed again as a rose. Failing to destroy the property by fire, the "rascals" now want to worry the owner by lawsuits.

WHY is it that the Galveston News, having such an abiding faith in the future of Texas, and more especially in North Texas, and the profits to be derived from the establishment of a metropolitan journal, does not, like the Herald, Times and other papers, establish it on its merits, and not come as mendicants before the people? If they should start their paper they must feel assured that the people will support it, or they would not make the investment.—[Dallas Democrat.

The Galveston News is fond of reprinting from other papers the statement that it knows what it is about. The News wants the bonus. It needs the bonus in its business.

THE Wall Street News is being prosecuted for libel by the gentlemen named in it as "paying unearned dividends on Western Union stock," as follows:

"Gould, Field and Sage have been paying unearned dividends for years on $80,000,000 of Western Union stock for no other purpose except to rope investors into buying it on the supposition that the property is really a 6 per cent. or 7 per cent. income producer. The company is now stripped as clean of good assets as a billiard ball, and there is not enough about it to be worth stealing. Before long the stockholders will get the news officially which we now get unofficially."

TALKING about a cotton-mill in Fort Worth? Why, there are but two places in the state where such a mill could prosper, and that is at Houston and Waco. The competition of railroads gives these towns such advantages. When we complete the Trunk and build the Northwestern, Booth could not be heard in Dallas on account of the whirr of machinery. And as far as the Fort is concerned—well, probably, to tell the truth is only to be cruel.—[Dallas Times.

The above paragraph was printed in the Times some weeks ago. Since then, Fort Worth has raised $12,000 as a bonus to the factory, and Mr. Haney is now here to begin work. That is all.

IT IS stated as a curious fact that when the late empress of Russia was stopping with her daughter, the duchess of Edinburgh, with a large suite, the duke gave her to understand that he could not afford to entertain her, and he should be obliged if, on her departure, she would order the comptroller of the suite to pay an adequate sum for the expenses of her visit. At the moment of departure, after luncheon had been taken, the duke of Edinburgh drew a paper from his pocket, on which he had noted down the estimated expenses of the Russian empress, and he added the cost of the luncheon.

Kind to Mr. Randall.

The Philadelphia Press is a stalwart Republican, high-tariff newspaper. Speaking of the reapportionment in Pennsylvania, the Press says: "So in Philadelphia the relative proportions of the two parties, taking the city as a whole, should give the Democrats two and the Republicans three out of the present five representatives. Yet, every man knows that it would be almost impossible to twist the districts in such a way as to elect two Democrats; that it requires almost a gerrymander to save one Democrat, and that it would be easy to divide the city in such a way as to make every district Republican." Mr. Randall owes his seat in congress to Republican generosity, if the Press be correct. How generous the Republicans are to Democrats—especially to Mr. Randall.

Big Pastures.

The Taylor (Williamson county) Citizen, in an appeal for good roads, uses this language: "Until recently the chief hinderance to the easy access to Taylor has been large pastures, turning the roads out of anything approximating direct lines, from such settlements to town, and making them so outrageously long that farmers have found it more convenient to market their products and buy their goods at other towns, actually at greater distance from their homes than is our city." Big pastures are curses to any community. The baneful effect of pastures on population is seen in many counties of South and Western Texas; and the lease law seeks to multiply these impediments to growth and progress. The lease law is an unmitigated curse, and the big pasture is the lease law's natural offspring.

They Are Not Fools.

The people of Waxahachie will hardly listen with patience to any scheme "shaped up in Dallas to divert" the subscription to the Fort Worth & Waxahachie road. The people of Waxahachie know that work will soon be inaugurated on this Fort Worth road; they know that the nearest and cheapest route from Fort Worth to Corsicana runs through the Mountain creek and Chambers creek valleys across the mountain south of Singleton's and by Chambers creek postoffice, through as rich a country as can be found in the whole state. Waxahachie does not want a broad-gauge road running ten miles south of it and the bonus will not be "diverted" by any Dallas paper scheme, shaped up to prevent Waxahachie from securing additional railroad facilities. The people of Waxahachie are not fools, even though the Dallas Herald may think they are.

The Benefit of It.

Already Fort Worth is beginning to receive the interest in its investment in the Buford agricultural implement house. One such enterprise attracts another, and all at once become workers in the cause of Fort Worth's advancement. A little timely attention to Mr. Buford by such men as Peter Smith, Jos. H. Brown and Walter Huffman induced Mr. Buford to locate in Fort Worth, instead of at Dallas, as he says he originally intended. And now Mr. Buford has returned to Illinois to do his share in booming "the future great" among his old friends and patrons. Being a gentleman of large wealth and extensive business connections, his testimony will prove of great value to all who are looking to Texas as a field for investments. Messrs. Smith, Brown and Huffman did a good work for Fort Worth when they induced Mr. Buford to locate here, and all such enterprises are long steps forward for the city. Mr. Buford is now in Rock Island preparing to move his family to this city, and the business of which he is the head will be opened about the 1st prox. The Daily Argus of Rock Island interviewed Mr. Buford on the return of that gentleman to his old home and Mr. Buford gives Texas and Fort Worth the following send-off:

Maj. L. M. Buford of "Fort Worth, Tex.," arrived in Rock Island on Thursday. We have been proud to claim the major as a resident of this city for a great many years, but we will now have to give him up, as he has decided to cast his fortune in the great Southwest. For the past month and a half he has been traveling through Texas. He first decided to locate at Dallas, but extra inducements were offered him by the citizens of Fort Worth, and he has now completed arrangements to make the latter city his future home. About the 1st of July a large agricultural implement house will be opened at Fort Worth, under the firm name of Buford, Aldrich & Worthington. The goods offered for sale will be manufactured by the Rock Island plow company, whose reputation for turning out none but first-class work has already been established in that section. A branch house at Sherman, which has been operated by the Kansas City house, will be discontinued when the new firm commences business. Mr. Buford has secured a central location in the city, and from present indications he is satisfied that he will soon command a large trade. "I never met such courteous and accommodating people in my life," said Mr. Buford, "as there are in Texas. Everybody has a pleasant word for you, and they make a stranger feel perfectly at home. As soon as I arrived at Fort Worth I was called upon by the mayor and a large number of prominent citizens, and given a hearty welcome. During my stay in the city many favors were shown me, and special inducements were given me to locate there. Of course, other strangers are shown the same attention, and especially all Northern people looked after. I am greatly indebted to Hon. Peter Smith, mayor of the city, Mr. Joseph H. Brown, wholesale grocer, and Mr. Walter Huffman, proprietor of a large agricultural implement house, for courtesies extended."

The country around Fort Worth, Mr. Buford reports, is settling up rapidly. Within a day's ride of Fort Worth excellent land can be purchased for $2 per acre on thirty years' time at 5 per cent. interest. The land is very fertile, and cotton is the principal product. Wheat is already harvested and peaches are ripe, while strawberries are a luxury of the past. Corn is as high as one's head and there will be a large yield. The climate is delightful. The days are quite warm, but the nights are cool, thus insuring pleasant slumber. Twenty degrees above zero is considered very severe weather in winter time.

"I visited Mr. J. S. Drake at Denison," continued Mr. Buford. "He has a magnificent residence about two miles from the city, and is quite an influential citizen. He is interested in the Denison Water company. At Gainesville I met Mr. Frick, son of Martin Frick of Rock Island, who is engaged with Cleaves & Fletcher, implement dealers.

"Very little attention is paid to politics, and you very seldom hear the question discussed. Nearly everybody is a Democrat, and it is hard work to get up a controversy. Mayor Smith of Fort Worth is prominently talked of as a candidate for governor. He is a very capable man, and has hosts of friends throughout the state."

Mr. Buford has come back to Rock Island for the purpose of moving his family to his new home and closing up his business affairs here. He expects to return in about a month.

AN ALMANAC 3000 years old, found in Egypt, is in the British museum. It is supposed to be the oldest in the world. It was found on the body of an Egyptian, who had, doubtless, regarded it with as much reverence as he did the Egyptian Bible—"The Book of the Dead"—and, indeed, it is strongly religious in character. The days are written in red ink, and under each is a figure, followed by three characters signifying the probable state of the weather for that day. Like the other Egyptian manuscripts it is written on papyrus. It is written in columns. It is not in its entirety, but was evidently torn before its owner died. It clearly establishes the date of the reign of Rameses the Great, but contains nothing else of value.

Complimenting The Gazette.

St. Louis Republican.

Texas journalism has reached a stage in which the people will not have to go away from home to get the news.

Fort Worth Has the Vim.

Blanco News.

Fort Worth raised the $70 000 necessary to secure the Waxahachie road, and the contracts will be signed and work will begin in ten days. What enterprise is lacking in Fort Worth no city in the South can supply; she's got the vim.

Useful Tree Boxes.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

A lady of the Eleventh ward who volunteered to drive a William goat from a neighbor's front yard, is glad that tree boxes are used to protect shade trees. The next time she sees a gentleman goat indulging his taste for flowers and shrubbery she will let somebody else interrupt him.

A Good Appointment.

Blanco News.

Mr. R. M. Henderson of Sulphur Springs has been appointed internal revenue collector of the Fourth district of Texas. This is an excellent appointment and will reflect credit on Mr. Cleveland. We have known Mr. Henderson for a number of years, and have always found him to be a true Democrat and most worthy gentleman.

"Seventeen-Year Locusts" Coming.

New York Herald.

The Philadelphia Ledger reports that the "seventeen-year locusts," so-called, have appeared in that city. Though these insects have furnished food far so much superstitious dread, they are not locusts at all, but are more properly "harvest flies." When perfect the insect is of a black color, and the front edge and veins of its transparent wings and covers are of orange red. From this time till the middle of June we may expect to hear more of them and their alleged ravages upon fruit and forest trees. But if the ablest entomologists who have studied their habits can be relied on, they are less to be dreaded than the locust proper. These cicadas live and develop under the soil, feeding on the juices of roots, and, finally emerging, climb up trees and throw off their larval shells. Fortunately the visits of these pests seldom last more than a fortnight.

Cigarette smokers prefer Opera Puffs because they do not stick to the lips.
