

FORT WORTH.

The Future Great City of the Lone Star State.

What the Papers Are Saying of Its Pluck and Progress.

FORT WORTH'S ENERGY. Hamilton Herald: Fort Worth has raised the $12,000 demanded as a subsidy for the location of extensive cotton mills there, and they are a fixed fact.

GIVE DALLAS A CHANCE. Weatherford Sun: Now that Fort Worth has secured, beyond all doubt, the cotton factory and the extension of the Waxahachie Tap, the Fort should no longer begrudge Dallas the wandering branch of the Dallas News.

WORKS FOR WHAT IT GETS. Alvarado Bulletin: Fort Worth has a working hand and a busy brain. When she sees anything she needs or wants she goes to work and gets it.

PALESTINE SEEMS CONNECTION. Palestine Advocate: Look for a letter from Palestine ere long. We are almost on an air-line from the Fort to the Pass. Don't pass us by.

PLUCK WILL WIN. Jefferson News: Fort Worth is jubilant over the prospects of new railroads, and if pluck, with any amount of other essentials, can secure these desirable connections, that great city will succeed in her enterprise.

GROWS DESPITE OPPOSITION. Alvarado Bulletin: Fort Worth is full of pluck and enterprise. Scarcely had the amount necessary to secure railway connection with Waxahachie been subscribed before we are told the Fort and Rio Grande is an assured fact and bound to materialize.

THE FORT'S FAITH. Graham Leader: Almost every evening the citizens of Fort Worth hold meetings for the purpose of exhibiting their faith in railroads and factories.

BOUND TO WIN. Hamilton Times: Fort Worth is sure to have the railroad to Waxahachie. She has taken the farmer's advice in the fable, and decided to build it herself.

WORKING WITH A VIM. Clarke's Times: The Herald advises Dallas to be up and doing or Fort Worth will walk off with the bakery.

ON TO NEW ORLEANS. Houston Herald: The Fort Worth GAZETTE seems to have the decided edge on the Dallas Herald.

THE RAILROAD CENTER OF TEXAS. Galesville Sun: The GAZETTE has raised the money to build the Waxahachie Tap. It does look as if THE GAZETTE and the enterprising men of the Fort intend to make the Fort the railroad center of Texas in spite of hard times.

EXACT SIZE OF THE DIFFERENCE. Houston Post: "Where there's a will there's a way," says the proverb. Fort Worth has the will and Dallas has not. That is about the size of it.

ALL TEXAS ADMIRES THE FORT. Cleburne Chronicle: Since the proposed Dallas & Northwestern railroad has resulted in a failure, the Herald wants Dallas to build a narrow-gauge road to Waxahachie.

HAMILTON WANTS CONNECTION. Hamilton Times: Fort Worth has secured a charter to build a railroad from that point southwest. Cannot Hamilton offer sufficient inducement to have it come here.

ANTIEN FREELY. Gainesville Register: We like Fort Worth. She wastes no idle time in talking, but antes up the chips and lets the deal proceed.

It has been put through. Navasota Tablet: Fort Worth is agitating the question of establishing a large cotton factory in that city, and it can be taken for granted that if they once start the project it will be put through.

THE REASON WHY. Springtown Pilot: The reason why Fort Worth has more "git up" than Dallas is because she has a live newspaper in THE GAZETTE, while Dallas has only a poor excuse in the Herald.

TIFFIN'S FREEZE. Dadd City Spectator: Fort Worth knows how to build railroads. Her citizens put up the cash, and work commences at once.

WHAT MAKES CITIES. Tyler Democrat and Reporter: THE GAZETTE is proud that the citizens of Fort Worth, in ten days, raised $22,000 by voluntary subscriptions—$12,000 to secure the location of a cotton mill in that city.

GRANBURY IS READY. Granbury Graphic: The filing of the charter for the Fort Worth & Rio Grande last Monday looks more encouraging for the inauguration of active work on this enterprise.

SHE WILL BE BADLY LEFT. Montague Northwest: Fort Worth has fine prospects of securing two more railroads: one from Waxahachie and another from Brownwood.

When a Woman Grows Old. New York Evening Post. "When does a woman begin to grow old?" was lately asked in an assembly of French women.

Matrimonial Prospects. Texas Sittings. Wilson Candless, one of the most poverty-stricken young men of Galveston, applied to Colonel Richley for the hand of his daughter.
