A Tramp's Capital.

"I beg your pardon," said a slouchily dressed individual, reaching for a bur which adhered to the coat sleeves of a gentleman just ahead of him: "there's a bur on your coat, sir; permit me to remove it."

Why She Made a Purse of Her Shoe.

A colored girl, who was apparently still in her teens, was asked the other day by a conductor in a Metropolitan streetcar for her fare, betrayed symptoms of uneasiness and began eyeing her feet.

In Search of a Place.

Detroit Free Press. "I came here," he explained to the police judge the other morning, "to hang out a sign of 'I am blind,' but found scarcely got off the train when I found two chaps working the racket. Too much blindness arouses public suspicion."

LAZY SHEEP, PRAY TELL ME WHY.

"Lazy sheep, pray tell me why in the winter-time you die? It is because you place too many in a flock to save a penny."

The Housekeeper's Friend.

In the make-up of Silver Leaf Baking Powder, a combination has been found which places the inexperienced housekeeper on an equality with those who have made bread-making a study for years.
