"Doc" Levi Wilson Finds Himself Prostrated After Making His Sensational Statement.

Deacon Moen and His Friends Have No Difficulty in Bringing Dates to Prove Wilson an Imposter.

WILSON'S STORY DENIED.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 3.—"Doc" Levi Wilson was seen at the office of his counsel, George J. West, this morning and appeared pale and haggard as though he had passed a sleepless night. The excitement of the past few hours seems to have effected him greatly and he was nervous and apparently worn out. He said that now the secret was out he felt better than he had since he was seventeen years of age. "If," said he, "the Wilson's (meaning the people with whom he had lived during his boyhood) stand by me I shall win my case and triumph over Moen."

He said his alleged mother lived in East Thompson, Conn., and his two sisters, Mrs. Downs and Mrs. Young, in Birmingham and Ansonia, Conn. Wilson states that the story as published is true and that Moen's statement is false in nearly every particular. "Moen," Wilson says, "knows that I am his son." He admitted perjury. He said he would continue the case in the courts to the conclusion which he felt confident would be in his favor.

Wilson was advised by his doctor to go to his home, take some quieting potion and devote the rest of the day in sleep. The secret of the case remains as much a mystery as ever. The dates and all the evidence collected to-day contradict the sensational story telegraphed from Providence that "Doc" Wilson is the son of Philip Moen. Wilson, by his own statement and the statement of friends, cannot be more than thirty-one or thirty-two years old. Moen was first married in 1846, forty years ago, and his first wife died before Wilson was born. These dates alone contradict his story completely. Life-long residents of Worcester say it is impossible that Moen could bear any such relation to Wilson. The first Mrs. Moen was a lady of very lovely character. She was a firm and upright woman. Neither she nor her family would have countenanced any such proceedings as are alleged. Moen's father was a New York iron merchant, residing in Brooklyn, whence Philip L. Moen came to Worcester. An old chum of Wilson in this city says there is no truth in the story, and that Wilson is not Moen's son.

Miss Sampson, an aged nurse, says she went to live in Ichabod Washburn's family when Eliza Washburn, Moen's first wife, was only twelve years old. She has nursed in and been intimate with both families from that time to this. She has nursed both of Moen's wives at the birth of all his children, and has known him intimately since he was twenty-one years of age. He was always a kind, just and upright man, and a most faithful and loving husband and father. Moen and his counsel both deny wholly and in detail and in a most positive and complete manner Wilson's story.

DATES DON'T CORRESPOND.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 3.—The records of the town of Oxford, Mass., show that Doc Wilson was born there on December 1, 1853, eleven months after Mrs. Moen died.

INTERVIEW WITH THE SISTERS.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 3.—A reporter of the Journal interviewed Mrs. Geo. M. Rice of Bridgeborough, N. J., who has always been considered the sister of Doc Wilson. To the query as to whether Wilson's story was true, she returned an evasive answer. She would not deny that Wilson told an untruth when he said she was not his sister, nor would she contradict him in the slightest particular, but gave most unsatisfactory and evasive replies. Nothing could pin her down to a simple yes or no on any point except one, and that was that Wilson had given her a great deal of money First and last and from what he said, she deemed that he thought it best she should not talk about his affairs. She remembered her father's illness, but could not tell the year in which he died. All efforts to extract more from her were in vain. All she would admit was that her father was at one time a church member, that after he was taken ill he often spoke to them all of the subject of doing right, and that Levi Wilson supplied her with money.

The Journal reporter saw Mrs. Young, another sister of Levi Wilson, at Putnam, Conn. She stated that Levi was the son of Josiah Wilson, and that her aunt was present at the time of his birth. He was named after her first husband, whose name was Levi Pesseroo, and her father and mother knew nothing about Moen for years after that.

REFUSED TO ISSUE A WARRANT.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 3.—Commissioner Hallett of the United States court has refused to issue a warrant against Philip L. Moen for perjury on the complaint of Levi Wilson.

COL. PAT HENNESSY

Shaking Hands with His Old Houston Friends—A Candidate.

Houston Post.

Col. P. H. Hennessy, of Galveston, formerly a resident of this city, paid the Post a very pleasant visit yesterday. The colonel informs the Post that he is a candidate for the office of sergeant-at-arms of the state senate to meet in January next. Colonel Hennessy came to Houston with his parents in the year 1850, being then only fourteen years of age., He made his start in the world here, growing up to man's estate among us. He emoarked in the stove and hardware trade, doing a prosperous business, which was interrupted by the war between the states. Immediately upon the breaking out of hostilities he, in connection with his brother in-law, the brave and chivalrous Dick Dowling, closed their business with that high patriotic spirit which actuated the men at that time, raised the gallant "Davis Guards," which company immortalized itself and commanders both at the battle of Galveston and the more celebrated engagement of Sabine Pass, where Dowling, with a handful of men, forty-two of the company, defeated 15,000 of the enemy. The engagement and its wonderful achievements on the part of those brave men have been praised in song and story, and is known as the most brilliant victory of the four years' war. Col. Hennessy remained throughout the struggle with his companions in arms, only laying down his sword when the last trumpet had sounded. Immediately after the close of hostilities Col. Hennessy located in Galveston, and was shortly after elected alderman of the city. Being removed in 1868 by Gen. Griffen for marching in the procession honoring the remains of Gen Albert Sidney Johnston, he was again elected in 1874, and after serving faithfully was elected a member of the board of school directors, where he served in the interest of the public schools to the satisfaction of the citizens of his adopted city. He has always had a strong hold upon the kind feelings and friendship of the people of Galveston, as well as other parts of Texas where he is known. He is the present member of the State Democratic executive committee from the Tenth senatorial district, and the Post feels satisfied that if he is elected to the office he seeks it will be creditably filled by an old soldier and a good citizen.

Second Election in Fisher County.

Correspondence of the Gazette.

ROBY, TEX., Dec. 2.—As has heretofore appeared in THE GAZETTE the surveyor's race was a tie at the regular election in November, and a re-election was ordered for the 30th ult. The result was that J. B Bagley was elected. In one of the commissioner's precincts there was also a tie; and it now appears that it is again a tie, putting the candidate in a dilemma. At most of the polling places reduced vote was polled.

CAPTURED CATTLE THIEVES.

One is Killed in His Attempt to Escape—An Unerring Aim.

Special to the Gazette.

FORT ELLIOTT, TEX., Dec. 3.—Last Sunday morning Capt. Arrington, sheriff of Wheeler county, accompanied by C. B. Willingham, superintendent of the Hereford Land and Cattle company, started out to arrest John Leverton and one Wells for stealing cattle belonging to the Turkey Track ranch. On Wednesday morning they arrived at the little cabin occupied by Leverton in Erast canon, about 100 miles from Mobeetie. When they entered Leverton was standing by the fire. On being asked his name by Capt. Arrington he replied that his name was Wallace and jumped for the bed near by, grabbed his gun, aimed it at the captain, but the wiley captain was too quick for him and broke his arm. In falling Leverton's gun was discharged and the ball struck Mr. Willingham about three inches above the right knee inflicting a very painful though not dangerous wound. Leverton then grabbed his gun with his left hand and fired three more shots, one of which passed through a handkerchief Capt. Arrington had around his neck. The captain then broke Leverton's other arm with a shot from his never-failing six-shooter. The small room now being so full of smoke that it was impossible to see, the captain and Mr. Willingham retired to the outside until the smoke should have cleared away. Meanwhile Leverton scrambled to his feet and made his exit by a rear door, and was about one hundred yards from the cabin when the captain observed him, and thinking him to be the other man he wanted, shot him with a charge of buckshot, killing him almost instantly. Having learned that the man Wells was a few miles from there near the Canadian river, they proceeded to capture him. He also showed resistance, inasmuch as he drew two guns on the captain, but the captain was not to be bluffed so easy. He took both guns from Wells and, securing him, started on their return home, arriving here at 6 o'clock this evening.

EXTENT OF THE COLD WAVE.

The Present Cold Spell General Throughout the Country—How the Mercury Stands.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—It is learned at the signal office that the cold wave which is now passing over the country extends from the upper lakes to the gulf, and from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic. Its point of origin in the United States was in the Northwest and it has maintained a southeasterly course. The cold wave signals of the weather bureau are displayed throughout the Atlantic, Middle and Gulf states. At 7 a. m. to-day the thermometer in Washington indicated 17 degrees, and it has varied little since that time. In Northern Minnesota it was 20 degrees below zero, and further north there was a still lower range. The zero isothermal extends throughout the upper lake region, then bends southward to Milwaukee and Chicago, passes through the counties lying between Keokuk and Springfield, and westward past Fort Buford, D. T. The temperature maps of the signal office indicate no change in the weather, and the officers of the service are of the opinion that the present condition of things will be maintained for at least two days.

GATESVILLE TRAGEDY.

A Prominent Citizen Kills an ex-Saloon Keeper in Self Defense.

Special to the Gazette.

GATESVILLE, TEX., Dec. 3.—A terrible tragedy occurred this afternoon at 3 o'clock. J. T. Ross killed Henry Lee at the Commercial hotel. Lee was formerly a saloon-keeper, but had sold out and was not in business. He was understood to be a dangerous man. Ross is one of our best citizens and a member of the Methodist church. As far as can be learned no one witnessed the killing. Two shots were fired, one but at entering the heart. Immediately after the killing Ross emerged from the hotel and told Mrs. Cleaton, proprietress, that he did it in self defense. He sought Sheriff Lanham and surrendered. He is now in jail. It is not positively certain how the difficulty started. It is said Ross, who was in the furniture business, desired to collect a bill from a woman who was Lee's special friend. The woman bought a ticket to-day for Cairo, Ill. Ross called to collect the money due him. It was during this call that the killing occurred. An inquest is being held.

YOUNG MIZE'S DEFALCATION.

All the Property of His Relatives Put Up to Satisfy His Employer.

CHICAGO, ILL., Dec. 3.—Estimates of the defalcation of Theodore S. Mize, cashier of the millionaire coal merchant Ames, now makes the matter worse than at first stated, the amount being placed at $112,000 Developments reveal a state of affairs sad in the extreme. The whole family is ruined by the recklessness of the son, who has brought his gray-haired father from affluence to poverty, from health almost to the verge of the grave. The homestead of the aged parents, the home of a sister and brother-in-law, the residence of the embezzler, the jewels of his wife, and his very birthright and heritage, have all gone to satisfy the claims of Mize's employer and save the son from the penitentiary. All the property, personal and real, has been transferred to Ames.

Notes from Decatur.

DECATUR, TEX., Dec. 3.—The man Fergeson, who was shot here the night of the 29th, is alive, but his physicians say he is almost sure to die from the wound, as the bullet entered just at the shoulder where the arm and shoulder bones joined and badly shattered the bones, some of which the doctors extracted.

Ed Cobb came in from Gainesville this morning, where he had been to the trial of the big suit between himself and Bud Wilson. Mr. Cobb won his suit, and is about $20,000 better off, and is the proudest man in town.

Special to the Gazette.

HUBBARD CITY, TEX., Dec. 3.—G. W. Bishop, postmaster, and one of the leading druggists of this place, drank chloroform this morning, mistaking it for another drug, and died two hours later. A jury of inquest was held, and returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts. Mr. Bishop was the first man who opened business at this place, was universally popular, and his untimely death is keenly felt by the whole community.

Chicago Turners for the Anarchists.

CHICAGO, ILL., Dec. 3.—The matter of the protest against the anarchists verdict by the Turners of this city as announced by the district committee was further considered at their meeting on West side last night. A heated discussion over the question took place, the union being composed about half of business men and half of laborers. The socialistic element proved the strongest, and finally succeeded in carrying the motion to protest against the judgment by 700 to only 4 negatives. Henry Wenter, a member of the board of education, opposed the protest, saying that if passed it would ruin the Turner society. After its passage he resigned as president. His resignation was accepted.

WOMEN AND WORK.

Some Very Plain Talk Upon a Much Discussed Subject.

New York Post.

The unwillingness, nay, the point-blank refusal, of poorly paid working-women in New York city to take well-paid employment as domestic servants in the country is the chief cause of the distress which prevails among them. The remedy is in their own hands, and yet they refuse to apply it. In a large proportion of cases the sole reason is because they would rather starve in the city than have plenty to eat in the country; because they would rather endure intolerable ills in a metropolis than enjoy comfort in a quiet town; because they would rather catch glimpses of the luxury of the rich in a great center than live in a village where nobody is rich and nobody poor; because they would rather go hungry and cold amid the excitement of urban life than be well fed and well housed in a community which leads a humdrum existence.

As for the prejudice against domestic service which keeps so many women out of it, there is nothing to be said in the way of argument. The simple facts about such service are that it is perfectly respectable, thoroughly comfortable, and exceptionally well paid. A young woman has a right to refuse employment under such excellent conditions, and instead try to make a living in a factory or shop where she can only earn $3 or $4 a week. But after making this choice she has no right to complain because she does not fare well, nor have philanthropists any right to invoke the public sympathy in her behalf. It is charged that thousands of women go to the bad in New York every year because they cannot support life on the wages paid factory hands, sewing-women and shop-girls. But the woman who, on the plea that she cannot earn a living by her needle, enters a brothel because she has a prejudice against entering a kitchen, is a woman who merits no sympathy.

The folly of the talk now so current with half-baked writers on the labor problem can hardly be more forcibly demonstrated than by contrasting their theories with the facts in this particular department of industry. They point out that working-women in New York get wages that are not sufficient to live upon, while in their immediate neighborhood are people who are very wealthy, and they insist that a great social problem is here staring at us for solution. So they start off on a wild-goose chase for some legislative remedy which will insure these women good wages, and very likely become captivated with the idea that Henry George's nostrum would secure first-class pay for everybody. All the time the solution of the problem is right under their noses—let the women abandon overcrowded and poorly-paid industries for an employment in which they can get good wages and live well. So long as the working-woman prefer misery in the city to comfort in the country, and starvation wages in the factory or shop to good pay in the kitchen, it is they and not society who must be held responsible for their misery.

Pure Powder.

Pure baking powders are one of the chief aids to the cook in preparing perfect and wholesome food, and the housewife will do well to be on her guard against baking powder tramps. Silver Leaf Baking Powder is never peddled from house to house, as the manufacturing establishment of J. H. Brown is taxed to its uttermost to supply the demands that come through legitimate channels.
