

FRANCE BOWS TO BRITAIN AT PARLEYS

England Talks Paris Delegates Out Of Strong Censure Of Hitler's Move

(Copyright, 1935, by the AP.) STRESA, Italy, April 12.—France withdrew her strong resolution of censure for German rearmament in the face of firm opposition by both Great Britain and Italy in Friday's session of the tripartite conference.

The resolution was to have been presented to the League of Nations for a vote following discussion Monday of France's appeal against the German conscription move.

Considerations Made French official circles said the resolution was withdrawn out of deference to considerations made by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain and Premier Mussolini of Italy.

In place of the resolution, it was disclosed, there will be substituted a series of conclusions appended to a French memorandum. The conclusions will consist of juridical statements reaffirming the duty of nations to abide by their treaties.

These conclusions, however, will not be acted upon by the league, it was said.

Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo D'Italia, set forth the Italian position on France's appeal by saying, "recourse to Geneva remains a French initiative and seemingly should not become a Franco-Italian-English initiative even if the Italian and British ministers have been wholly informed of the memorandum which France will present to the league and even if they share its sentiments."

Conference circles were much interested in the decision of Maxim Litvinoff, soviet commissar for foreign affairs, to go to Geneva to be near the Stresa conference, which they expressed the opinion the Russian would not come here to attend any of the sessions.

The French, realizing the British were to avoid antagonizing Hitler, have carefully avoided any talk of "sanctions" such as military and economic penalties for treaty violators, an authoritative French source said.

Reports Ridiculed Certain French cabinet officials had proposed discussing sanctions before the conference opened, informed French circles said, but Premier Pierre Etienne Flandin and Foreign Minister Pierre Laval overruled them. Flandin and Laval pointed out, it was said, that the League of Nations would be certain to shy away from any consideration of sanctions, since they must be voted upon unanimously by all members of the league by the terms of the covenant.

French observers ridiculed a rumor circulated here that France had submitted a secret report on German armament to the conference, since Italy and Great Britain already are informed of the Reich's military activities and the extent of her armed strength is no longer a secret.

The semi-official Italian newspaper, La Stampa, said Friday, "Sir John Simon's answers to the French and Italian questions yesterday indicated that the British foreign office was much struck by the advanced stage already reached by German armaments."

Flashes of Life

(By The Associated Press) Tricky Fate NEW YORK—Usually when James Mullins, 40, sprints forth in his Bellevue hospital ambulance he has no idea who will be carried back.

It was Mullins himself early Friday.

He and Dr. Elizabeth Adams answered and found a woman suffering from what the physician reported was a locomotor ataxia.

The woman, Mrs. May Elwood, 45, refused to go to the hospital and her husband, Daniel, 46, according to Dr. Adams, would not permit her to sign a waiver.

When Mullins left the wheel behind the ambulance, Dr. Adams related, Elwood without warning struck him, knocking him to the pavement.

With a possibly fractured skull, Mullins was loaded into the ambulance and another driver took him back to Bellevue.

Nothing Doing Here WHEELING, W. Va.—Mrs. Cecelia Norman, tending store for her husband, turned at a shout of "hands up," but undismayed she went into action.

With a lightning right she knocked one would-be robber against his companion. While they were getting straightened out, she got a pistol from under the counter and drove the gunmen into the street. They fled eluding police.

Mrs. Norman went back to work.

Go To Jail at Home PHENIX CITY, Ala.—Here's one way of cutting municipal expenses.

The city commission instructed the street superintendent to allow the owners he thought he could trust to eat and sleep at home. They will be expected to report for work on the chain gang each day—and bring their lunches!

Educated Mule JOHNSON CITY, Ill.—Dynamite, a mine mule, knows his stuff. Dynamite gets down on his knees to crawl into a small coal mine near here. Once inside Dynamite stands up and goes to work.

Wreck Kills Athlete FORT WORTH, April 12.—An early morning crash proved fatal Friday to W. E. Crotty, Jr., 28, local tennis star and fraternity man, and brought Tarrant county's 1935 traffic total to 25.

Crotty, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Crotty, Sr., died in a hospital less than two hours after his sedan collided with another on the northern outskirts of town.

Fast Fading Longhorns To Be Rounded Up For Texas Centennial in '36

KERRVILLE, April 12.—(AP)—The "vanishing American" extended to the animal kingdom when the Texas longhorn, like its predecessor, the buffalo, disappeared up the long trail.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Text: John 3:14-17; Romans 5:6-10; Philippians 2:5-11. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 14. By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of Advance

If there was one thing that Jesus taught clearly and directly, it was that He had come to the world as a Saviour of men.

Again and again through different parables He illustrates the reality of the fact that He had come to seek and to save the lost. His mission as Saviour is from God the Father, who loves men and who will receive them with pardoning grace if they will turn from their sins and seek His mercy and the power of His salvation.

Depth and the extent of this gospel of salvation are alike set forth in John 3:16—"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have eternal life."

The passages in our lesson from Romans and Philippians may be regarded as expositions of this elemental gospel concerning the love of God and the sacrificial mission of Christ. When Jesus hung upon the cross, His enemies rallied upon Him contemptuously, saying, "He saved others, himself He cannot save."

There was more truth than they realized in their sneer. Even in ordinary human life we see often how men can save and help their fellow men only through giving themselves. Jesus gave Himself for the glory of a complete sacrifice—"God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

We ought to notice the way in which Paul expresses this. It has not always been put into the glory of a complete sacrifice—"God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

Paul does discuss the nature of the sacrifice of Christ in relation to the conception of sacrifice in the Old Testament and among the Jews to whom his epistles were for the most part addressed. But when he comes to express the reality of the gospel on its positive and constructive side, he makes it plain that what Jesus was, God is.

The love and sacrifice of Jesus were the expression of the Divine Father Himself. If God had not loved men, Jesus would not have come to the cross and the cross would have been of no avail. It is not God who is reconciled to us by the death of Christ, but it is we who are reconciled to God.

But our lesson concerning Christ the Saviour has its human application. It is possible for us to have the same which was in Christ Jesus. We can live, also, in the sacrificial spirit of love. We can so learn to know Christ and so receive into our hearts and lives the power of His salvation that we become saviors.

"We are co-workers together with Him," said Paul, and we could not be co-workers with Christ without participating in the great work that He came to accomplish in the saving of men.

Nor is this salvation that Jesus brings merely an individual or isolated thing. Men are saved into a fellowship. Through the salvation of Jesus we are brought into communion with the great company of those who everywhere bow in reverence and devotion at the name of Jesus.

Tribute Paid Ochs By Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 12.—Two minutes of silence on the wires and cessation of all activities of the Associated Press throughout the world were observed at 10:30 a. m. Friday, the hour of the funeral of Adolph Ochs.

In a message ordering the cessation of activities for the period, Kent Cooper, general manager, said: "Adolph Ochs was one of the incorporators of the Associated Press of New York thirty-five years ago. Long before that he was a leading spirit in co-operative news associations that bore the name of the Associated Press. His devotion to the co-operative principle in news gathering as exemplified by the Associated Press is historic. His loyalty never wavered. He had real affection for the organization and for those who supported it and who that bore the name of the Associated Press throughout the world."

Rangers Keep Corpus Votus Probe Secret

CORPUS CHRISTI, April 12.—(AP)—Texas rangers kept their activities secret as they pressed their investigation of charges of irregularities in last week's city election here. "We have no statements to make," Zeno Smith, one of the three rangers detailed here for the job, said. The others were Al Allee and C. W. Williamson.

R. A. Thompson, a member of the new city council which won office at the election under investigation, said the administration would co-operate with the rangers.

District Attorney R. B. Rentfro said his office would take no part in the inquiry until requested by Corpus Christi residents.

WOODRING HAS SANDY FLIGHT

Assistant War Secretary Says He Favors Air Force Strength

AMARILLO, April 12.—(AP)—Assistant Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring who flew here in a plane that had to battle a severe dust storm told oil men he favored a better air force.

He spoke Thursday at the closing session of the spring convention of the mid-continent production division of the American Petroleum Institute.

Woodring asked the petroleum industry for continued co-operation in the development of fuels and oils as a necessary measure for the improvement of American standing as an air power.

"Without meaning to slight the other elements of our army in the slightest," Woodring said, "I cannot help but emphasize the necessity for continued development in our air force."

The Yellow River, China, went on a rampage in 1896, flooding 20,000 square miles and claiming 2,000,000 lives.

Mr. Schreiner, banker and capitalist, owns probably the only herd of genuine Texas longhorns. He has announced he would exhibit the historic cattle, headed by "Old Paint," whose gaunt form and long, undulating horns represented this species at Chicago's Century of Progress at Texas' one hundredth celebration of independence at Dallas next year.

The longhorn, a domestic animal but essentially wild, is believed to be of Spanish origin, developed and acclimated in Mexico and crossed the Rio Grande soon after Texas gained independence from Mexico. The supremacy of this hardy and easily sustained animal as the nation's chief meat supply during the 70's and 80's is one of the strange chapters in American economic history.

At the end of the Civil War the herds of the middle west, which failed to multiply without suitable attention, had been heavily depleted. Farmers in that area had abundant corn but few cattle to eat it. The other hand the semi-wild cattle in the prickly pear country of the Rio Grande, the brush country and plains had so multiplied that by the early 70's their millions paralleled the myriad buffalo that ropped the public pastures before man's greed brought their extinction. Indeed, so cheap were these cattle that many were butchered for their hides and tallow.

The middle west with abundant feed and Texas with the cattle to fatten upon it and make the nation's glory, the ingredients of the Texas longhorn, the cowboy, the round-up and all the fiction that picturesque era has inspired. A market for the Lone Star state's chief commodity launched the famous trail driving. Millions of longhorns went up the old Chisholm and other trails and in the rough, rainy and unlovely animal dwindled almost to the point of disappearance leaving barbed wire and the short-necked, heavy short-horned rulers of the cow country.

The heights and the depths of the longhorn's fame is told in a century of Texas history.

Loans Requirements Explained by Torbett

(Special to The Herald) LA FERIA, April 12.—Eugene Torbett, field supervisor for the Farm Credit administration, met with a group of farmers Thursday morning and explained the conditions under which seed loans are available, to J. C. Thomas, secretary of the chamber of commerce, stated Thursday.

Loans are available only to farmers who can finance their crops in no other way, and all land or crops offered as security must be clear of all other indebtedness. Furthermore, farmers must be cooperating with the agricultural adjustment administration in the cotton, corn, and hog reduction program to be in line for assistance, said Torbett.

Other applications will be received and explanations made to farmers who are interested by Thomas at the chamber of commerce at any time.
