NEW MEXICO TO CLAIM COLLECTORSHIP JOB AT THE EL PASO PORT

Santa Fe Politicians Said to Have Agreed to Support Harvey Gamble For U. S. District Attorney If They Take Collectorship—George Curry May Be Collector—Hard Fights in New Mexico and Arizona For Federal Pie.

By G. A. MARTIN.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 6.—Victors politically in New Mexico, Arizona and El Paso are not as happy as they might be. There is the little trouble of too many applicants for too few jobs.

It has been eight years since the Republicans got to the federal pie counter and they are ready for the change now.

Arizona is not quite as hot as New Mexico, as yet, but there are more applicants than jobs in this state; in New Mexico there will be five or six men for every job and the men who parcel them out are going to make a lot of enemies when they finally decide.

In El Paso there is going to be one job less for the victorious Republicans to fight over. The New Mexicans have their way, and they say it has been promised them. They expect that the customs collectorship belongs to New Mexico and they are going to have it this time; in fact, that it has been promised; by whom they do not say.

In El Paso there is going to be one job less for the victorious Republicans to fight over. The New Mexicans have their way, and they say it has been promised them. They expect that the customs collectorship belongs to New Mexico and they are going to have it this time; in fact, that it has been promised; by whom they do not say.

Gamble for District Attorney. They even go so far in New Mexico as to say that they are in agreement with certain El Paso Republican leaders to let the customs collectorship go to New Mexico. The New Mexicans will in turn make a fight for Harvey R. Gamble for the United States district attorneyship. This job has always gone to a man in Texas, Charles Boynton, of El Paso, but the last time the Republicans have it out and San Antonio man holds it under the present Democratic administration. But the New Mexicans they are saying that the El Paso Republicans want Gamble to take it this time and that Senator Fall and national committee chairman Hiram C. Howry have agreed to help him get it. The El Pasoans would like to get it, but they are not sure they can get it.

It was rumored in El Paso some time ago that the El Pasoans managed the El Paso county Republican campaign, and helped to carry the city and county for Harding. They wanted the collectorship. It is an overgrown man, a captain of artillery, who is said to be a very good collector. He has the job if he is elected. Maybe the Democratic party at El Paso would still be in power.

As long as a person has Bureau money, he can get it. The El Pasoans would like to get it, but they are not sure they can get it. The El Pasoans would like to get it, but they are not sure they can get it.

Charlie Hunt Wants a Job. They say in El Paso that Col. Charles Hunt, who is a very good collector, is going to get the job. He is a very good collector, and he is going to get the job. He is a very good collector, and he is going to get the job.

New Mexico Marshallable. Curry has been talked of for United States marshal in New Mexico, but others are also talked of. It is a very good job, and it is going to be a very good job. It is a very good job, and it is going to be a very good job.
