Eye Seriously Hurt.

Henry E. Nall, foreman on the Democratic-Reporter, while cutting kindling wood at the office a piece flew up and struck him in the right eye bursting the ball and cutting a deep gash through it. Dr. Phillips, the oculist, has but little hope of saving the sight. Mr. Nall is a deaf mute and a deserving young man, who has the sympathy of all our people in this additional affliction.—Tyler Courier.

Mr. Nall was formerly an employee of The Eagle and we learn with profound regret of his painful accident, and hope it will not prove as serious as anticipated.

MILICAN NEWS.

Rev. E. M. Myers and family arrived last Wednesday afternoon just ahead of the bad spell of weather.

The clouds opened seemingly Saturday night and the rain came down in torrents, but we were elated on rising Sunday morning to see old Sol come forth in all his golden glory. No doubt his appearance filled more hearts than one with gladness.

We had Sunday school Sunday morning and had very good attendance, after which Rev. E. M. Myers filled the pulpit and delivered a very impressive sermon.

Miss Lettie Cunningham returned Sunday from Chappell Hill, to spend the holidays with the home folks much to the delight of her many friends.

Mr. Dick Dawson is very ill at this writing, but we hope to see him up soon.

Mr. W. H. Dunlap has been sick for some time, but we learned today that he was some better.

Mr. James Young anticipates going to Mississippi on the 21st to spend Christmas with relatives.

Mr. Ed Farquhar of Wellborn was down yesterday on business.

Mr. W. E. Farmer of Navasota, visited Millican Monday.

There will be a Christmas tree at the Methodist church next Sunday night. All are invited. Send your gifts to the church Saturday evening and have the committee put them on the tree.

Correspondent.

Millinery by wholesale and retail very cheap at Mrs. Proctor's.

When in need of first class livery accommodations you may be sure you will get the best and be there on time if you will call on W. T. James who gives personal attention to the wants of his customers.

Life's Changes.
While in the drawing room coach on his way home from Philadelphia not long ago a New Yorker found himself face to face with a woman whom he had not seen for some time.
"Why, Mrs. Blank," cried the New Yorker, "how!"
At the woman's reproachful glance he stopped. "Not Mrs. Blank," she corrected. "I got my divorce from Mr. Blank some time ago. I'm now Mrs. Dash. Let me present my husband, Mr. Dash," whereupon a man got up and bowed.
"You—you don't mean it!" gasped the New Yorker. "I hadn't heard. You and Mr. Dash haven't been married very long, have you?"
"Oh, no, indeed," said the woman, "about 45 minutes, I think," consulting her watch. "We're on our wedding trip now."
The New Yorker gasped again. Then, "Bless you, my children," he cried and fled to the smoking car.—New York Sun.

An Offset.
"This is Mr. Pnoer, is it not?"
"Yes, sir."
"You have rented a house fronting on Mulberry square, I believe?"
"I have."
"Well, my name is Ferguson. I have rented the house next to yours, and by a queer mistake the man I sent to clean it up so I could move into it went to the wrong place and cleaned up yours. His bill, which I settled, is quite moderate—only $1.50—and I thought that if the work proved satisfactory on inspection perhaps you would not object to assuming the payment of that amount."

"Not at all, sir, but I shall charge you $1.50 for one day's occupancy of my house. That, I think, makes us even, sir."—Chicago Tribune.

When the Time Came.
Maud—Oh, Ethel, and what did you say to him when he proposed to you? Did you say what you said you were going to the other day? That was a noble speech, just suited to crush the boldest man. And did he sink away like a whipped dog?
Ethel—Well, not exactly. You see, I didn't say just that. I—well—or—er—well, you see, I said "yes."—London Fun.

Strange Mistake.
North Side Mother—I told you a little while ago, Jerry, who our first parents were. Let me see if you remember. Who was the first man?
Precocious Boy—Adam.
North Side Mother—That's right. Who was the first woman?
Precocious Boy—Eve. —Chicago Tribune.

THE BEST READING FOR THE FAMILY.

We have made arrangements whereby we can offer Texas Farm and Ranch and The Bryan Weekly Eagle both papers one year for $1.50. Texas Farm and Ranch is the cleanest and best Agricultural, Stock and Family Paper in the Southwest. It is printed on super-calendered paper, is handsomely printed, beautifully illustrated, ably edited, and will be of practical value to each member of every family. You need the news which we give, and you need the best farm paper, which is the Texas Farm and Ranch. Only $1.50 for both papers for one year.
