Crying about stone bruises and sore toes is the kind of foot bawl we were raised on.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad was sold at auction for $60,000,000 Tuesday.

Because forsooth a man's words have the ring of Americanism should he be called a jingo?

Wherever in the spirit land he is, we suspect President Monroe is very uneasy about his doctrine.

A cabin occupied by Aunt Harriett, a negress over 100 years old, was burned in Bonham a few nights since. Next morning the remains of the poor old creature were found in an ash heap.

Congressman Cooper has introduced bills in congress for the establishment of a navy yard and dry dock at or near Sabine Pass, and for the appropriation of one million dollars to continue harbor improvements at that port.

St. Louis has downed Chicago once and secured the republican national convention. It will be held in the former city June 16, 1896.

The republicans of Kentucky made a red letter affair of the Bradley inauguration. They have an idea that their man stands a good chance for second place on the ticket which will be made in St. Louis, and in this they are not far wrong. Reed and Bradley—Maine and Kentucky—is a probable combination.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe is well informed on the subject of the Turkish massacres of christians in modern times, and writes to a Boston paper, giving the figures collected by her husband and herself. During her own life time nearly 100,000 christians have been murdered by the Turks. In 1822 a Turkish army killed 23,000 Greek christians on the Island of Chios, and sold into slavery 47,000. This is the largest single item, but, as a matter of fact, the slaughter has been continuous.

Thank God for America's religious liberty. The Globe-Democrat says: "The Prussian missionary, Ahlwardt, who has come to this country to preach the gospel of hatred and extermination of the Jews, will be treated as a crank, and directed to the nearest museum or lunatic asylum. His beetle-browed foolishness would be amusing if it were not a nuisance to have such cattle making a noise in public places."

Texas Day was observed with great ceremony yesterday at the Atlanta Exposition. Gov. Culbertson could not attend, on account of the continued illness of his mother at Jefferson. The state was represented by the lieutenant-governor, attorney general and other state officials and private citizens. Speeches were made by Lieut.-Gov. Jester and Hon. J. G. Dudley.

It appears the republicans in congress have mapped out a vigorous war on the foreign policy of the administration. A resolution to impeach Minister Bayard for spouting in Scotland about the corruption of protection, was introduced by a fresh young member from Boston. It fell short of its mark and was referred to the committee on foreign affairs.

The report of the retiring mayor of Austin, covering a period of six years shows an increase of 7410 in population and $3,294,988 in assessed values, with $140,000 cash in the city treasury and no floating debt. The bonded debt, is in fact an investment yielding large revenue. The water and light system for which the bonds were issued yielded $2,000 last quarter and when the entire city is covered, the income will be $5000 per quarter. The estimate of receipts from the water and light plant for the ensuing year is $97,547, and revenues from all sources for the year estimated will cash on hand at $183,638.

News reached Del Rio recently that a white man had been found dead in the cave two miles west of Devil's river, on the Juno road. Justice Glides went out immediately to hold an inquest on the body, accompanied by Sheriff Jones. They found a man lying in the cave, not dead, but in a starved and exhausted condition whom they carried to town, and after he was warmed and fed became a right again. The man gave his name as Mike Flynn, being simply a tramp who had become starved and succumbed to the cold.

Dr. J. B. Cooksey of Corsicana is a relic of the battle of San Jacinto. It is a walking stick gun captured from Santa Ana. It was the property of Gen. Sam Houston, who gave it to Dr. Handie, his family physician. Dr. Handie was an uncle of Dr. Cooksey, who became the owner of the gun by his uncle leaving it to him at his death. The gun can be used as a walking cane and it shoots well. Dr. Cooksey having killed two deer with it not long since.

Stephen Samochyl, a Bohemian, living six miles south of town, went to Taylor, Williamson county, a few days ago and upon the charge of drunkenness, together with a complaint filed by his wife for desertion and abuse, he was looked up. One morning subsequently he committed suicide by hanging himself in jail, attaching a wire from the cot in which he slept to the iron bars which encompassed him.

The depot agent at Thorndale, Williamson county, was held up and robbed of something over $100 the other night. After the robbers left he aroused the town, but as he had no idea what direction the robbers took and no blood hounds at hand the robbers escaped.

At Greenville, the other night, a negress, Hannah Miller, was killed by the discharge of a pistol in the hands of Ben Pearce, a negro. Pearce claims that he was taking off his gun to lay it aside and it was discharged accidentally. Others present corroborate his statement.

Interesting Callings on Various Subjects Taken from the Daily Press.

The other morning a gentleman from the country went to Belton, having some turkeys in his wagon. Shortly after he drove upon the court-house square one of the turkeys got loose, hopped out of the wagon and started across the square toward the opera house. The man and his dog started after it full tilt. The rasc was a pretty one. By the time the turkey got to the opera house it was doing its best, half running and half flying. The front of the lower story of the opera house is filled with fine large plate glass windows, and when the turkey arrived at these it did not notice the obstruction nor stop for it, but went through it as if it were not there. It broke a large hole in the window, but did not impede the progress of the turkey. It lost a few feathers, but when captured did not seem to be otherwise injured.

At Luling recently J. A. Prior, manager of a dairy farm, and John Culbertson had a shooting bee on the streets. Several shots were fired by both sides. The negro fell mortally wounded in the side, the ball lodging in the spine. Mr. Prior received a severe wound in the left wrist, the ball passing clear through and making a slight flesh wound in his side. Two bystanders were also hit with stray bullets, one a Mexican, having his collarbone broken, and the other a negro, being shot in the arm. No one was dangerously hurt except the negro, John Culbertson, whose recovery is regarded as impossible.

Harry Haywood, the murderer of Catherine Ging, has expiated his crime on the gallows at Minneapolis. He was one of the most fiendish characters ever arraigned before a court of justice. His crime at the outset was a combination of treachery, robbery and murder, his conduct throughout the trial was such as to prove him entirely devoid of moral, or even human principle, and he heaped curses upon his own brother, when the latter last visited his cell. As a crowning infamy he ordered a swell dinner a few hours before he was hung and with profane levity called it "the last supper." There is no longer any doubt that moral deformity is as common, and often far more frightful in its results and more to be dreaded than physical deformity. While both may be traced to natural causes, it is some relief to know that both are freakish and unnatural.

The average juror, with a reasonable doubt once lodged in his mind by adroit attorneys, has no room left for law and evidence.

It comes from Washington that ex-speaker Crisp is not a good leader on the floor of the house. He gets rattled under a hot cross-fire of debate.

The United States Agricultural department gives out that the cotton crop this year will reach 8,375,000 bales.

The A. P. A. seems to be agitating north Texas to some extent. From what we have read regarding this alleged American Protective association, we regard it as an abortive libel on its name, designed for purposes of persecution instead of protection. It is a peace-destroyer and a source of divisions and strife wherever it has been agitated.

And now the gold bugs want to crucify their own Mills for proposing to coin even the small amount of silver in the treasury.

Charles Gardner.

The coming of the sweet singer, Charles A. Gardner, is worthy of more than passing notice. His ability as a singer and comedian, allied with the fact of his always bringing a first-class supporting company to interpret a wholesome play of dramatic worth makes the announcement of his coming welcome. Mr. Gardner's comedy is good without being exaggerated in order to force a laugh. He possesses more sentiment than any of the men now assaying this line of parts. He is endowed with a clear tenor voice which will be heard to great advantage in his charming rendition of the Butterfly Song, Turner's Triumph, The German Flower Girl, Goodnight, Wedding Bells and that popular favorite, Apple Blossoms. In the Prize Winner the author has written a refined and neat story of Tyrolean home-life. The eternal varieties of human nature are drawn with no uncertain hand in "The Prize Winner." The unraveling of the story shows the deft hand of the experienced dramatist abounding in quaint and humorous situations as well as striking and dramatic climaxes.
